More women than men, but a long way to go

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are more women than men in America, and the women live longer. But females have a long way to go before pulling even with males in jobs and education.

Such are the findings in one of the most comprehensive reports ever compiled on the status of American women.

The report, the first of its kind by the Census Bureau, shows demographic, social and economic trends among women.

It shows women comprise 51.3 per cent of the population of 213,137,000. There are 5.6 million more women than men. By 1973, women could expect to live an average of nearly eight years longer than men, compared with 3.5 years longer in 1930.

The figures show the number of women in the labor force nearly doubled between 1950 and 1974 to 35.9 million, while the number of men increased by only one-fourth to 57.3 million. But the income differences between men and women remain substantial — the median earnings for women were $6,772 in 1974, compared with $11,835 for men.

The report shows that among people ages 25 to 29, approximately 77 women had completed at least four years of college for every 100 men in 1975, compared with 66 women for every 100 men in 1950.

"Of course, the women's movement has had an impact," said Paula J. Schneider, who headed a group of census staffers to plan and coordinate the report. "But it's hard to say if the movement was a cause or an effect. The movement was helped because lots of women had to work, and it encouraged women by publicizing the fact that the working woman was not alone."

Mrs. Schneider, who works in the bureau's population division, said that she hopes the women's movement will work to improve salaries for women and day care.

"They should encourage women to go into more traditionally male fields like science and engineering because that's where the job openings will be in the future," she said. "They won't be in the social or educational fields which have traditionally been considered women's jobs."

Other findings in the report show:

—A growing proportion of women are single or divorced and not remarried. In 1975, almost 40 per cent of women ages 20 to 24 were single, compared with 28 per cent in 1950.

—The number of female-headed families has increased by 73 per cent since 1960 to 7.2 million. They now comprise 13 per cent of all families.

—Women have gone from a near-record high fertility rate in the late 1950s to an all-time low in recent years. Women under 30 are increasingly favoring the two-child family.

The report shows that one of the strongest indications of the changing social and economic role of women in the last two decades has been their entry into the labor force.

By 1974, there were 63 women for every 100 men in the labor force, compared with 41 women for every 100 men in 1950, the material shows.

Also, the government figures show the number of working wives also has risen dramatically from 25 per cent in 1950 to 44 per cent in 1975. Working wives now contribute approximately 27 per cent of the family's total income, compared with 20 per cent in 1960.

At the same time, the report shows that in both 1970 and 1974, the median income of women college graduates age 25 and older who worked full-time was only 60 per cent of comparable male median incomes. The authors write that women college graduates had incomes that were, on the average, lower than men who had only a high school education.

Ford opens drive to curb drug abuses

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford urged Congress today to provide stronger penalties, including mandatory minimum prison sentences for drug traffickers, to fight the "national tragedy" of drug abuse.

In a special message to legislators, the President warned of a "worsening drug situation" and said it is necessary to take stronger action against the drug traffickers.

In addition to more severe prison sentences, Ford called for denying bail to previous offenders, cracking down on tax enforcement against big drug traffickers "to take the easy profits out of drug selling" and permitting the Customs Service to search persons suspected of smuggling drug-profit money out of the country.

Ford said he is setting up two new Cabinet committees — one for drug law enforcement, the other for drug abuse prevention, treatment and rehabilitation — headed respectively by the attorney general and the secretary of health, education and welfare.

In addition, the President said he is calling on the Treasury and the Internal Revenue Service to help develop a tax enforcement program aimed at high-level drug traffickers.

"We know that many of the biggest drug dealers do not pay income taxes on the enormous profits they make," Ford said. He urged a program to bring effective enforcement of tax laws against these violators.

Ford said he was also intensifying diplomatic efforts with other governments to help fight the drug problem on an international level.

Services cutback, job layoffs loom

LOS ANGELES (AP) — County taxpayers will be paying more for less if the Board of Supervisors adopts a proposed budget.

A $3.2 billion spending plan handed to the board Monday and covering the fiscal year beginning July 1 would cost property owners 41 cents more for every $100 of assessed value — $41 for the owner of a $40,000 home.

And the man who proposed the spending plan, county Chief Adminstrative Officer Harry Hufford, said the county's financial situation would also necessitate a cutback in services and possible job layoffs as well.

The proposed budget, representing an increase of 3.9 per cent over th current one, would push the basic countywide property tax rate to the limit set by a state-devised formula: $4.93 for every $100 of assessed value.

The proposed increase would require four of the five supervisors to declare that the county faces a fiscal emergency requiring the additional increment. The board formally receives the budget today.

The "emergency," Hufford said, is a temporary cash-flow problem caused by a shortage of reserve funds.

The budget would also reduce the number of county workers from its present level of 84,000. Hufford's proposal gives the supervisors the option of cutting about 2,400 jobs and saving some $15 million, or phasing in the decrease by maintaining a hiring freeze and shifting workers from eliminated jobs.

Affected by the proposed cutback in services would be, among others, residents who depend on the county to provide such necessities as health care; community-action groups who would lose county support, and bus patrons, whose bill is borne in part by the county.

Hit hardest would be health services, which presently takes some 21 cents of each tax dollar. The partial hiring freeze in all county hospitals would continue, and inpatient services at Long Beach General Hospital would be ended Nov. 1, although the hospital would continue operating as a health center.

Public hearings — as required by state law — on the proposed cutbacks have been scheduled before the board for June 11.

Intelligence budget battle on

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate now must decide whether to reveal the U.S. budget for spying and whether to approve any of the Senate intelligence committee's 86 recommendations for tightening control over spy agencies.

White House aides say they will make a major effort to dissuade the Senate from disclosing the U.S. intelligence budget, which was deleted at the last moment from the intelligence committee's final report.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield says he favors publication of the intelligence budget figure and predicts the Senate will vote on the issue within the next 10 days.

The intelligence committee voted 6 to 5 Monday not to include the figure in its 651-page report on foreign and military intelligence.

The report, saying covert operations by U.S. intelligence agencies have misled the American public and threatened the independence of churches, universities and the news media, recommended congressional action to restrict those activities.

For example, the report said the CIA should be the only agency authorized to conduct covert actions. There also should be a law barring covert operations that involve political assassinations and efforts to subvert democratic governments, the report said.

Other information contained in the report indicated that the United States may spend about $4 billion a year on spy activities that include well-run satellite reconnaissance programs. That figure does not include domestic intelligence gathering, which will be dealt with in a separate committee report later this week.

The committee's recommendations for changes in the law appear headed for various fates and also would have to win approval of the House and the president.

Woman molester, 17, arrested in Pomona

A Pomona youth who has molested and robbed at least three women in Pomona and in Ontario was arrested Monday evening after a suspicious householder called police, investigators said.

The youth, 17, was booked on suspicion of two counts each of attempted rape and robbery. Ontario police also intend to file charges against him, according to Pomona Police Detective Jerry D. Western.

Authroities gave this account:

On March 21 the youth attacked a female real estate agent in a house in Pomona which he pretended to be interested in. He told the woman he wanted to be shown the house as a possible residence for his in-laws.

The woman, 43, was tied up and molested by the youth who took $40 from her purse before fleeing.

On March 23 he attacked a Pomona woman after being allowed into the house which had a for-sale sign in the front yard. He attempted to tie her hands also, but relented when the 32-year-old victim began to cry. He took $21 of the $44 she had in her purse, (saying that was all the money he wanted) and fled.

On the same day he attempted to enter a home on Karesh Avenue in Pomona after offering to mow the lawn for a 24-year-old woman resident. She refused his offer, but a few minutes later found him trying to open the screen door she had locked. She ordered him to leave and he did.

On April 8 in Ontario he attacked and molested another female real estate agent after making an appointment to be shown a house there. He tied up and partially disrobed the victim after threatening her with a knife. He robbed her of cash and her credit cards before fleeing.

Monday evening in Pomona he offered to mow the lawn for a Pomona woman who rejected the offer. After her husband arrived home, the youth returned and wanted to see her. The husband, who was suspicious, called police. Officer Elroy Brabender arrived and recognized the youth from a composite picture the various victims had helped create. Brabender arrested him and the youth subsequently admitted the charges. He was confined later in Juvenile Hall.

Pope names 20 new Cardinals—1 American

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI named 19 new cardinals today, including Archbishop William Wakefield Baum of Washington, D. C., further rejuvenating and internationalizing the Church body that elects popes — the Sacred College of Cardinals. The names of two additional new cardinals were kept secret.

Archbishop Baum, a 49-year-old Texan, believes the Church must "do battle with racism" in the United States and in its predominantly black capital. With Archbishop Baum, there will be 12 Americans in the college, more than any other nationality except the Italians, who have 36.

Speculation that the next pope might be a non-Italian gained momementum as the new choices showed non-Italians continuing to outnumber Italians in the college.

The new elevations increased the college from 117 to 136.

Deal dropped over expected uproar—Bailey

Predicts less than year for Patty

DETROIT (AP) — Newspaper heiress Patty Hearst first offered to cooperate with prosecutors in her bank robbery case within days of her arrest but charges against her were not dropped because of an expected uproar from the public, lawyer F. Lee Bailey said. He predicts she will spend less than a year in jail.

Prosecutors felt they couldn't "dismiss the case in the middle of the trial, which had the country in an uproar," Bailey said in a Detroit interview to be televised Sunday on the Kaiser Television Network.

"I am sure the American public would never have accepted that as an honest act," said Bailey, one of Miss Hearst's attorneys.

The lawyer said Miss Hearst, who was found guilty, made her offer to cooperate shortly after she was arrested last September and began cooperating during the trial. Bailey added that he refused to let his client plead guilty to a lesser charge, and as a result the case against Miss Hearst was not dropped.

He said a "deal" was discussed with one of the prosecutors, adding he told the prosecutor, "... I cannot plead her guilty for anything I don't think she is.

"If you demand the guilty plea, I can't give it in good conscience and I can't give it ethically. I think you should dismiss."

He did not say which of the prosecutors mentioned the "deal."

Bailey also said the unnamed prosecutor may have been reluctant to end the trial early, fearing an overwhelming outcry from the public.

"I think if they dismissed the case against Patty Hearst, people would have bombed his (the prosecutor's) house, impeached him, tarred and feathered him and probably taken it out on Gerald Ford."

Bailey's remarks contradicted statements made two weeks ago by prosecutors, who said Miss Hearst, 22, had started giving authorities information about her activities and her companions. They indicated it was a move to possibly avoid future prosecution and obtain a light sentence on her bank robbery conviction.

"I am not saying she was willing," Bailey said. "She did, in fact, give all this information personally to prosecutors while the trial was going on and this turnaround nonsense (mentioned by prosecutors two weeks ago) is beans."

Brown plans 3-day swing in Maryland

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. of California is taking his quest for the Democratic nomination for president to Maryland with a promise to wage "a campaign in the fullest sense of the word."

Brown plans three days of personal appearances in Maryland beginning Wednesday to demonstrate that he is conducting "a serious campaign" and is not just a California favorite son.

Brown also said Monday he has recorded a series of television and radio commercials which will be aired in Maryland between now and Maryland's May 18 primary.

"This is a serious campaign to bring to the Democratic party and to the American people a choice for November," he said.

This first journey by Brown outside of California since he took office 16 months ago is in part only a symbol of a national campaign for president.

Although Brown's name will appear on the Maryland ballot, he is not eligible to win any of the state's 53 delegates because he did not file a slate for the separate balloting for convention delegates.

Brown said he is ready to spend in excess of $100,000 on the Maryland primary, including radio and television commercials which were filmed at his Los Angeles home last week and flown to Maryland.

"This will be a campaign in the fullest sense of the word. I think we'll have the resources required to do it," he said.

California Democratic party chairman Charles Manatt, who is also a Brown committee co-chairman, said Brown already has raised $150,000 and expects to raise up to $750,000.

The 38-year-old governor, is on the ballot in only three states: California, Maryland and Nevada.

Brown said his campaign would stress the approach taken by his state administration.

That tact has been a mixture of conservative spending, liberal philosophy and appointments and a governing style that offers more questions than answers.

Brown said he will take the same style to his national campaign because people want "a fresh approach" which can be provided by the "new generation of leadership" which he claims to represent.

He said his priorities include "political reform, economic justice and environmental common sense."

Asked to define economic justice, Brown said: "I'm prepared for the federal government to intervene in the economy to do whatever we can to provide full employment. I don't think President Ford is willing to do that."

Brown said he conferred at length this weekend with Allard Lowenstein, a key advisor in his campaign, and by telephone with Ted Venetoulis, his Maryland campaign coordinator.

Brown also said he telephoned U.S. Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota about two weeks ago to tell Humphrey, a potential presidential candidate, of his plans.

Asked Humphrey's reaction, Brown said: "He didn't discourage me."

Brown again discouraged speculation that he is a stalking horse for Humphrey, and said there is no special significance in the call to Humphrey because he has called every announced or potential candidate.

Hughes' cousin asks for time to search for will

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A cousin of the late Howard Hughes has asked for an additional four to five weeks to complete a world-wide search for the eccentric billionaire's will.

Documents filed in Los Angeles Superior Court Monday by Richard C. Gano Jr. included a letter signed by Hughes March 3, 1938. The letter asked a Texas bank to place two envelopes — one reportedly containing the will, the other instructions — in safekeeping.

However, Gano said, that bank has since merged with another. So far, he said, only a safety deposit box key has been found, and what it opens, nobody knows.

A Southland newspaper said it had learned from a source close to the Hughes business empire that many copies of the key have been made and are being widely circulated to banks in many states. The key itself, the report said, was found in an office here formerly used by Hughes that had been kept locked until his death.

Gano, 60, of Anaheim, Calif., is one of 12 first cousins. He has been appointed administrator of Hughes' California properties.

Gano said he understood it was Hughes' intention to leave the bulk of his estate to medical research.

Annette Gano Lummis of Houston, Texas, the elderly aunt of Hughes and Gano, earlier had been appointed temporary administrator of all the Hughes holdings, but relinquished her claim to his personally held California property in a disclaimer filed Monday in conjunction with Gano's papers.

Los Angeles County Public Administrator Bruce Altman has filed a motion to vacate Gano's appointment as special administrator. A hearing on the matter was scheduled for today before Superior Court Judge Neil Lake.

Gano said Altman's interference had hampered efforts to locate the will which Hughes associates insist he left — somewhere.

Bank officials informed him it would take four to five weeks to canvass bank records in several states where Hughes could have left the will, Gano said.

"I am further informed," Gano continued, "that an exhaustive world-wide search of buildings, record storage areas, file rooms, vaults, aircraft hangars and other possible locations of evidence which would assist in the discovery of the whereabouts of such last will is continuing."

In the 1938 letter, Hughes instructed the First National Bank of Houston not to open the envelopes, but to "set aside for me a safety deposit box large enough to contain these envelopes and send the bill each year for the rental to me in care of Noah Dietrich."

Dietrich spent more than 30 years with Hughes and said after his death he believed there was a will written about 1955 and deposited in a Bank of America branch in Hollywood. Gano said in his petition that he had had difficulty searching for a will there after Altman entered the case.

He also said he had interviewed Dietrich; Nadine Henley, a longtime trusted aide of Hughes and an officer of his Summa Corp., and Eleanor Rohrbeck, who served as a night secretary to Hughes and said after his death she had typed a will in 1949 and a codicil in the early 50s.

"As a result of such inquiries," Gano said, "it is my belief that the decedent had prepared such a last will, and that such last will is presently in existence, although remaining yet undiscovered."

200 flee fire in Anaheim

ANAHEIM (AP) — An early morning fire destroyed a 77-unit apartment building under construction here today then spread to a three-story, 60-unit condominium complex nearby, forcing the evacuation of some 200 residents, Fire Department officials said.

Fire Capt. Ian MacBride said no injuries were reported but initial reports estimated damages at $500,000.

McBride said the cause of the fire, which broke out at 1:30 a.m. was under investigation.

Some 75 fire fighters from Anaheim, Garden Grove, Fullerton and Orange County battled the flames, which gutted the apartment building under construction.

McBride said firemen were still investigating how the blaze spread to the adjacent building, where 47 condominium units were ravaged by flames and the remaining 13 suffered extensive water damage.

"We had ambulances standing by but we didn't get any reports of anyone injured," said McBride.

Intelligence budget battle is on...

Two Republicans, vice chairman John Tower of Texas and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, refused to sign the committee report on the grounds that it was harmful to national security. The report "will cause severe embarrassment, if not grave harm, to the nation's foreign policy," Goldwater said.

The report, which capped a 15-month investigation, concluded that:

"Reliance on covert action has been excessive because it offers a secret shortcut around the democratic process."

According to the report, the CIA has conducted 900 major covert operations around the world since 1961.

Some of these operations have led to "questionable foreign involvements" while others have produced an unwanted "fallout" in the United States, the committee said.

Of five major covert military operations studied, the committee said it could find only one that succeeded. One of the principal concerns expressed by the committee was "the domestic impact of foreign clandestine operations."

The committee found that the CIA has:

—Planted stories in foreign publications which have been unwittingly picked up and circulated by American newspapers;

—Used American journalists and clergymen as secret agents abroad;

—Been responsible for the publication of more than 1,000 books, many of which were reviewed and marketed in the United States;

—Used thousands of U.S. scholars for intelligence and propaganda.

The panel recommended placing strict controls on future use of covert operations but stopped short of recommending that they be banned. Instead, the panel urged that laws be passed barring the agency from using U.S. journalists and clergymen and from publishing articles or books that could be circulated in the United States.

The panel stopped short of recommending a ban on the agency's secret relationships with scholars, saying instead that senior university officials should be informed of any covert contacts with professors.

The report also provided the first official description of the CIA's use of proprietaries and of "the secret war" waged by U.S. counterintelligence agents against rival spy services.

According to the report, the CIA operates a number of business enterprises with assets totaling $57 million for the purpose of providing cover and logistical support for its covert operations.

Since 1974, the 16 largest CIA "proprietary" firms have earned $50 million in profits. The largest was a firm called Air America, which provided aircraft for CIA operations in Southeast Asia and at its peak had assets of $50 million and employed more than 8,000 people.

Another agency proprietary is a complex of insurance companies with combined total assets of more than $30 million which provide death and disability payments to secret agents.

The committee did not reveal how many CIA proprietaries exist but said the number has been reduced by 50 per cent since the peak years in the 1960s.

Woman who robbed 30 banks gets 15 years

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A mother of two who is believed to have robbed 30 banks during a three-month period in order to support her $150 a day drug habit has been sentenced to 15 years in prison.

Jo Ann Ford, 28, a Los Angeles receptionist, was sentenced in federal court Monday after pleading guilty to robbing 30 local banks and savings and loan associations. All of the robberies occured between early December 1975 and Feb. 27, when Mrs. Ford surrendered to authorities.

Judge William P. Gray said he believed Mrs. Ford could be rehabilitated upon solving her drug addiction problems but added he thought a stiff sentence was warranted to discourage similar crimes.

Health improves

Patty transferred to federal center

PLEASANTON (AP) — Patricia Hearst has been whisked from her hospital bed to the Federal Youth Center, which resembles a coeducational college dormitory more than a facility for convicted felons.

Federal marshals Monday morning moved the convalescing newspaper heiress from Sequoia Hospital in Redwood City, where she was admitted after suffering a collapsed lung two weeks ago.

The convicted bank robber was driven under heavy security to the Federal Youth Center one mile north of Pleasanton. A prison official said she would remain there less than a week, then go to a federal prison in San Diego for 90 days of psychological testing before sentencing. She also faces state charges of robbery, kidnaping and assault in Los Angeles.

Hospital Associate Administrator Arthur Faro said that U.S. marshals threatened to carry Miss Hearst from the hospital after she at first resisted being abruptly moved.

"Miss Hearst's attorney, Albert Johnson, told me he was in her room at the time the marshals told her they wanted to leave immediately," Faro said in an interview.

"She wasn't quite dressed and was upset, but the marshals said 'well, we'll just wrap her up in a blanket and take her out.' Then Johnson intervened and asked that they let her finish dressing, and they agreed."

Faro said she was then taken out a side exit in a wheel chair for the 45-minute drive to Pleasanton.

Neither Johnson nor a U.S. marshal's spokesman was available for comment.

Earlier in the day, U.S. Marshal Frank X. Klein explained the transfer, saying: "We were paying the bill and we had half our staff out there at Redwood City. I was anxious to take her out of there for that reason and for the expense. But we would not take her out unless she was released by the hospital and doctors."

Her physician, Dr. John J. Prendegast, said only that his patient was doing "very well" and had gained 10 pounds during her hospital stay. She now weighs 100 pounds.

Farm workers finish initiative petition drive

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The United Farm Workers union is winding up its farm labor initiative drive and the Senate is preparing for a showdown vote on funds to revive the state's farm labor board.

Marc Grossman, a UFW spokesman, said Monday that the union plans to turn in initiative petitions Friday to registrars of voters throughout California.

He predicted the measure would quaify for the November ballot.

Meanwhile, Senate Democratic floor leader David Roberti, D-Los Angeles, said he would take up the funding bill next Monday after Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. returns from a campaign trip to Maryland.

"I think it's important that the governor be around when the bill comes up," he said.

Roberti told reporters he has 24 of the 27 votes needed to approve the $2.5 million funding bill and that six other senators are leaning "more than 90 degrees our way."

The bill would provide funds needed to revive the Agriculture Labor Relations Board, the agency that administers California's landmark farm labor law.

The board stopped holding farm labor elections in February after announcing that its first-year appropriation was running out. Since then three of the board's five members and its counsel have resigned.

Legislation by Assemblyman Daniel Boatwright, D-Concord, to provide the board with needed funds has been bottled up in the Senate by growers and their legislative allies.

Growers contend that the board has been pro-UFW. They say they want eight changes made before they'll support the law.

Those changes include sharp restrictions on the ALRB's controversial access rule, which allows union organizers to go into the fields three times a day to recruit workers.

The UFW initiative would force the legislature to keep the board funded and require a vote of the people to amend the farm labor law.

It would also place the access rule in the law.

Grossman said the UFW had gathered 495,000 signatures by last Thursday and was now in the process of recounting signatures. He said a final signature total would be announced Friday.

The union needs valid signatures of 312,404 voters to qualify the measure.

TAKEN FROM SCHOOL

Police take two students from South Boston High School Monday on the first day back to school after a spring vacation marred by racial violence. The two were arrested as about 100 white pupils chanted their opposition to new headmaster Jerome Winegar. Police said Monday night it was a "comparatively quiet day, considering the weather we've had."

Pasadena's busing plan goes to court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court is considering whether a school system must revise its court-approved desegregation plan to keep up with racial changes in population.

The court was scheduled to hear arguments today in a case from the Pasadena, Calif., school district where extensive crosstown busing has been used to comply with a 1970 desegregation order. That order said no school could have a majority of students from a racial minority.

But within a year after the court-approved plan went into effect, many white families had moved from the area, leaving a black majority in some schools.

A U.S. District Court later ruled that the school district must now come up with a new desegregation plan.

In upholding that decision, an appeals court said, "It was reasonable for the district court to conclude that full and effective elimination of racial discrimination had not been achieved during the three years following the initial year in which the Pasadena plan was in effect. If desegregation was 'accomplished' after the implementation of the Pasadena plan, such was a transitory and temporary achievement, enduring for a period of the utmost brevity."

The Pasadena school board appealed to the Supreme Court, saying that the original desegregation order did not require a racial balance "to be effective in perpetuity."

The school board's brief said it "is in no way responsible" for the 37 per cent decline in white population in the district within four years after the original decision.

It argued that the white exodus makes invalid "a rigid formula of specified racial balance to be accomplished by extensive busing."

Lawyers for the parents and students who filed the original case contended that the school board has resisted the order.

The Justice Department filed a brief supporting the original plaintiffs. "Continuing supervision with or without judicial enforcement of a desegregation plan, is necessary to deter future acts of segregation by making the contempt power available and allowing the district court promptly to rectify such acts if they occur," the Justice Department said.

In decisions Monday, the court:

—Upheld an Indiana law which has kept Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., off the ballot in the state's May 4 primary. The law requires 500 supporting signatures from each of the state's congressional districts.

—Agreed to hear arguments next fall on the constitutionality of "agency shop" agreements for public employees. Under such agreements, members of a bargaining unit are required to financially support although not to join the union which represents them.

—Agreed to hear a challenge to an East Cleveland, Ohio, ordinance providing that only one set of grandchildren, together with other family members, may live in a single family home.

—Took under advisement an appeal by two private schools from a lower court decision that such schools may not refuse to admit children because of their race. The court heard arguments for 90 minutes and is expected to rule by early summer.

Humphrey, Ford battle verbally on unemployment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is studying a bill that would require the federal government to reduce unemployment to 3 per cent, but the measure is already being attacked by President Ford, who says it would cost too much money.

The bill, which Ford called "a vast election-year boondoggle," was introduced on Monday by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey. It would require the unemployment rate to hit the 3 per cent mark within four years.

Sponsored principally by Humphrey and Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., the bill would not require the federal government to create jobs until all resources of the private sector had been utilized and all other provisions of the act had been employed.

In explaining the bill before a Senate labor subcommittee earlier this month, Humphrey said the legislation is founded on the philosophy that "if people cannot obtain employment through any other means, it is better to give them a job funded by the government than it is to write those people a check to do nothing."

But Ford said he opposes the bill as too costly, calling it "a classic example of the way the misguided majority in recent congresses reacts. Anything that seems wrong with the economy, the federal government must rush in and fix, mainly by spending more billions of dollars."

Humphrey termed the President's attack "politically motivated" and called the bill "a serious and thoughtful attempt to provide good jobs for more Americans without inflation."

The bill would set up economic planning capacity in the White House, require anti-inflation policy-making and would establish a program to stabilize state and local governments during recessions.

But the centerpiece of the act is its philosophy that "work be substituted for welfare, unemployment compensation and income maintenance spending to the maximum extent possible."

To this end, provision is made for a range of employment programs, especially in depressed areas and among groups with special unemployment problems, such as the young.

Humphrey said cutting unemployment from today's 7.5 per cent to 3 per cent by 1980 would result in some $500 billion more in economic production plus a cutbacks in welfare and the federal deficit.

He said it is impossible to estimate accurately precise costs of the plan because they will depend on the strength of economic recovery, the rate of growth in the labor force and the specific design of the job creation programs. But he said even with the type of moderate economic recovery seen by the administration, two million to three million persons still would be jobless between now and 1980.

"If we have a job gap of two million persons, the gross budgetary costs could be roughly $16 billion, with that cost falling to about $8 billion after decreased welfare and unemployment compensation payments and increased tax revenues are considered," Humphrey said.

Demo candidates highlight primary

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jimmy Carter, Henry Jackson and Morris Udall each forecast success today in Pennyslvania's presidential primary, a race that could determine whether there's room for the brokers at the Democratic National Convention.

The early turnout was sparse after polling places opened at 7 a.m. with the weather blustery, cold and mostly cloudy across the state. Polling officials could not provide an estimate of how today's early turnout compared with previous primary votes, however.

Victory by Jackson or Udall, however, would increase the possibility that Minnesota Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, an easy winner in Pennsylvania four years ago, will become a candidate after June 8, when all the primaries are over.

President Ford was alone on the Republican ballot, unchallenged in Pennsylvania by Ronald Reagan. The 103 GOP delegates will be uncommitted, though all are expected to be in Ford's pocket.

Statewide, Pennsylvanians nominated candidates for the U.S. Senate seat now held by retiring Republican Minority Leader Hugh Scott. Two congressmen are among the contestants to succeed Scott, Democrat William Green of Philadelphia and Republican H. John Heinz 3rd of Pittsburgh.

There were 2,801,649 Democrats and 2,221,639 Republicans eligible to vote. At stake were party nominations for state treasurer, state auditor general, 25 seats in Congress, half of the seats in the 50-member state Senate and all 203 state representative seats.

The 9,638 polling places in 67 counties remain open 13 hours, closing at 8 p.m.

It's the presidential sweepstakes that offers the glamour, and in Pennsylvania it was a two-part primary — 1. The nonbinding popularity contest, and 2. The election of convention delegates.

Besides the three top contenders, the Democratic ballot also listed Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, Indiana Sen. Birch Bayh, antiabortion candidate Ellen McCormack, former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris and Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp.

Shapp, Bayh and Harris quit the presidential race after failing to make any impact in the early primaries.

Give blacks majority rule in Rhodesia —Kissinger

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger called today for a rapid negotiated settlement that would install black majority rule in Rhodesia within two years.

The secretary of state also vowed "unrelenting opposition" — diplomatic, economic and psychological — to Prime Minister Ian Smith's white Rhodesian government.

The Smith regime cannot expect U.S. support at any stage of its conflict with black liberation movements, Kissinger declared at a luncheon hosted by President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia.

Reports from Rhodesia said Smith would announce the addition of several African tribal chiefs to his cabinet in a broadcast from Salisbury tonight.

In a major policy speech of his African tour, Kissinger outlined a 10-point U.S. program aimed at promoting a "just and durable" solution in Rhodesia. The points included:

—Strong support for Britain's call for black majority rule in Rhodesia within two years. "We hope that the regime in Salisbury and white opinion in Rhodesia will pay very careful attention to Dr. Kissinger's speech," the British Foreign Office said in a London statement.

—The Ford administration will urge Congress to repeal the Byrd amendment authorizing American imports of Rhodesian chrome in defiance of United Nations sanctions.

—Americans will be warned that they travel to or stay in Rhodesia at their own risk.

—U.S. economic aid for black refugees fleeing Rhodesia to neighboring countries. They already number 20,000.

—An offer of $12½ million U.S. aid for Mozambique, which is suffering economically because it closed its border with Rhodesia.

Mozambique's president, Samora Machel, arrived today in Tanzania for talks with Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere only one day after Nyerere met Kissinger. Both countries harbor nationalist guerrillas fighting the Rhodesian white regime and presumably they discussed the U.S. role in the conflict.

Spotlight on area crime

Pomonan arrested in murder charge

Michelangelo Benete, 22, of 1010 W. Fourth St., Pomona, was booked in the West End Jail this morning awaiting arraignment on a charge of murder.

Benete, according to police, was arrested about 3:30 a.m. Monday after Tom P. Yanes, 28, of 3995 Riverside Drive, Chino, died enroute to Doctors Hospital in Montclair of multiple gunshot wounds.

When Benete was arrested police said he was citing scriptures from the Bible and had a recently fired .22 caliber rifle in his car. He offered no resistance. Benete on the police booking sheet listed his occupation as a self-employed minister.

Police in piecing together the murder Monday said that it appeared the suspect forced his way into Yanes room at the Anchor Motel, 4834 W. Holt Blvd. in Montclair where he opened fire with a .22 rifle. Police said that a woman in the room with Yanes was not hit.

Police said that the victim and suspect were brothers-in-law and the woman in the room also was a relative. Police said that the suspect, before entering Yanes motel room, fired one shot into the tire of the victim's pickup truck to disable it. At least seven rounds were fired in the incident.

Pomona eatery robbed

Two employes of Der Wienerschnitzel at 1382 W. Holt Ave. in POMONA were forced to lie on the floor Monday night by a man who robbed the place just before closing time.

The victims were Mark Guillory, 16, and Robin Garrett, 17, both of Pomona. They said the man, described as black, in his late 20s, pulled a steak knife after entering and ordered them both to the floor. He looted the cash register and fled.

He was 6 feet 2, weighed about 150 pounds and had a mustache and goatee. He wore plaid trousers and a maroon windbreaker.

Chino youths held

Three CHINO youths were in San Bernardino County Juvenile Hall this morning after allegedly threatening two Chino High School youths with knives on campus Monday afternoon.

Police said that the three youths arrested, two from Buena Vista High School and one from Ramona Junior High School, previously had juvenile court records and were on probation. Police did not release their names because of a state Supreme Court ruling prohibiting the release of juveniles' names.

Officers this morning said that there were no injuries reported in the 2:30 p.m. incident.

Police said the three juveniles from the other schools wandered onto campus about 2 p.m. and walked to the gymnasium area where they pulled knives and threatened the two seniors working out on the weight lifting apparatus. School officials intervened and police were called to the campus.

Police said the two Chino High students were at first reluctant to identify their assailants for fear of reprisals.

Police said that the three youths arrested, a 14-year-old, a 16-year-old, and a 17-year-old, had been drinking before the incident. Police confiscated a bottle of wine and three knives from the youths.

The three were booked in Juvenile Hall for violation of probation, assault with a deadly weapon, and loitering.

Cher told to take it easy

HONOLULU (AP) — Cher Bono Allman has been released from a maternity hospital here but was advised to take it easy until she gives birth.

The 29-year-old television entertainer, who is seven months pregnant, entered Kapiolani Hospital a week ago after experiencing premature labor pains.

Her husband, rock musician Greg Allman, and her daughter, Chastity, were with her when she left the hospital Monday.

The family plans to remain in Honolulu for a few more days before returning to Los Angeles, a spokesman said.

Teacher switch to be okayed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Board of Education, despite protests from teacher groups, is expected to formally adopt a plan making all city school teachers eligible for transfer to comply with a federal teacher desegregation order.

The board is expected to approve later this week a random selection plan which would place almost all of the district's 25,000 teachers in a pool for assignment to improve the racial balance of teaching staffs at individual schools throughout the sprawling system.

United Teachers of Los Angeles, the school system's largest teachers' group, wants transfers based solely on seniority.

UTLA President Hank Springer said Monday that his group would oppose the board's plan and will submit its own desegregation plan to federal authorities.

School officials have estimated that about 2,000 shifts in teaching positions will be required to bring the district into compliance with the federal order. The district has agreed to file a plan by May 1.

Rocky"s offer aired

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — John D. "Jay" Rockefeller IV says his uncle, Nelson A. Rockefeller, offered him the late U.S. Sen. Robert Kennedy's Senate seat after Kennedy was assassinated in 1968.

Nelson Rockefeller — then governor of New York and now vice president — was unavailable for comment.

The younger Rockefeller made the disclosure Monday while campaigning at Marshall University for the Democratic nomination for governor of West Virginia.

He said that after Kennedy was assassinated while campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination, his uncle tried for 10 days to convince him to accept the seat. He eventually named Republican Rep. Charles Goodell to fill the vacancy.

Asked why he had not told of the incident sooner, Rockefeller said, "There really wasn't much to it."

Betty presents plate

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The original Declaration of Independence was too delicate to move, so First Lady Betty Ford brought the next best thing.

About 250 persons stood outdoors in a chilly breeze Monday at Franklin Court as Mrs. Ford presented the city with a 153-year-old copper plate engraving, the only facsimile made directly from the original declaration. She also delivered a print made recently from the plate by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

Petitions with 700,000 signatures were presented to President Ford in March asking that the original declaration be returned to Philadelphia, but Ford said the document was too fragile to be removed from the National Archives.

Both plate and print will be kept in the First Bank of the United States as part of a special Bicentennial exhibit of the National Park Service.

Wayne visits Fetchit

CHICAGO (AP) — John Wayne, once a prop man for Stepin Fetchit, visited the veteran black entertainer who is recovering in a hospital here from a paralyzing stroke.

"You look all right. They tell me you'll be talking soon," Wayne, 68, told the comedian Monday.

Fetchit, 84, whose real name is Lincoln T. Perry, was listed in fair and stable condition at Michael Reese Hospital. However, he has not been able to speak since suffering the stroke last Wednesday.

After the visit, Wayne said of the entertainer who began his career in silent films, "We had a lot of fun together. He was always a decent, respectable human being."

'Teahouse of the August Moon'

Claremont theater does Pulitzer play

By JOSEPH H. FIRMAN

Lovely ladies, kind gentlemen, "Teahouse of the August Moon" bowed at the Claremont Playhouse last weekend in a fast and funny production that neatly blended M*A*S*H-like military humor with some basic truths on the clash of cultures.

John Patrick's Pulitzer Prize comedy about the U.S. Army occupation of Okinawa during World War II will be repeated at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday for several weeks. The playhouse is the smartly refurbished old Claremont High School auditorium at 1333 N. Indian Hill Blvd.

Directed with smooth professionalism by Patrick Miller, the cast is mixture of skilled performers and others clearly new to the footlights. Many are Orientals, others undisguisedly Occidentals. Valley Community Theater's Howard Goodell plays Mr. Omura, complete with slant eyes, skirt, a Kojak hairdo and a Fu Manchu mustache.

Keystone and king pin of "Teahouse" is Rion Garrison as Sakini, the wiley, loveable rascal who serves as interpreter for the occupation forces, an amused and understanding observer of the East-West game, the Artful Dodger of the Orient. Garrison is a facile actor, glib, persuasive and engaging, and he offers a variety of telling nuances in his characterization.

Sakini's chief antagonist is Col. Wainwright Purdy II, a pompous and obtuse officer whose plans for rehabilitating Tobiki Village include building a pentagon-shaped schoolhouse and organizing a Ladies League for Democratic Action — all included in his Plan B under "Orienting the Orientals." Purdy is played by Jon Michik with eye-rolling, cheek-puffing vigor, a riotous portrayal of official stupidity and blundering. Like many excellent dramatic actors, Michik has a fine flair for comedy, and the performance is a gem.

Miller was less successful in his choice of Chuck Sloan for the role of Capt. Fisby, an important though hardly pivotal part. Sloan gives a limp, characterization of the romantic young officer trying to appease Col. Purdy and the Ladies League for Democratic Action.

Jack Fisher, a professional stage and television actor, provides spirit and imagination in the role of Capt. McLean, an Army psychologist more interested in earthworms than Freud. Like Michik, Fisher is a class actor who can do the comic turn in style.

Lujean Bullock offers an engagingly funny geisha girl; Lynne Kubota is riotous as the head of the Ladies League, and Toshiko Shimoda Rundall is nifty as Miss Higa Jiga.

The Playhouse "Teahouse" is a very pleasant evening of theater. "August moon," it promises, "will leave you a little older, a little wiser." Well — a little older, anyway.

THE WINNERS — Patricia Morison, left, and Janet Blair star in "Winner Take All," scheduled for its world premiere May 18 at the Huntington Hartford Theater in Hollywood. The musical by Russell Hunter tells the story of Victoria Claflin Woodhull and her sister, Tennessee, two early American Women's Libbers.

Wright stars in 'Mancha'

Musical comedy star Bob Wright, who performed in the Broadway production of "Man of La Mancha," will recreate the role of Don Quixote in a production by the San Bernardino Civic Light Opera at the California Theater of Performing Arts, San Bernardino, May 7-15.

Co-star will be Bernice Massi as Aldonza, also a member of the New York cast.

Wright, one of the busiest performers on the Broadway stage, recently completed a national tour in "Man of La Mancha," and starred opposite many of the leading ladies of the musical comedy stage.

He won critical acclaim opposite Mary Martin in the Broadway production of the musical hit, "The Sound of Music," and appeared in numerous musicals including "Make Mine Manhattan," "South Pacific," "Hazel Flagg," "Rosalinda," "Panama Hattie," "Can-Can," "Hit the Trail" and "Do I hear a Waltz?"

Wright starred in the television special, "The Stingiest Man in Town," and has appeared on the Hallmark Hall of Fame, the Ed Sullivan Show and many talk shows including Johnny Carson, Mike Douglas, Today and Jack Paar.

Tickets are on sale at the box office, all agencies and the Ontario Chamber of Commerce.

Musical to have world premiere

"Winner Take All," a musical about two early American Women's Lib activists, will have its world premiere May 18 at the Huntington Hartford Theater in Hollywood.

Patricia Morison and Janet Blair star as Victoria Claflin Woodhull and her sister, Tennessee, who lived from the time of Martin Van Buren to the Calvin Coolidge era. With financing from the legendary Commodore Vanderbilt, they became the first women stockholders and publishers in the world. With a platform of equal rights for all, they ran many times for high political office, including President.

The production, with book, music and lyrics by Russell Hunter, covers a 50-year span in the hectic, humorous and unconventional lives of the two sisters.

The cast of 25 will feature Jerry Antes, Robert Nash, Lola Fisher, Virginia Jaeger and Zale Kessler. John Myhers will direct, and Buddy Schwab will stage the musical numbers. Setting is by Glenn Holse, costumes by Noel Taylor and lighting by H. R. Poindexter.

"Winner Take All" will have two weeks of preview performances starting next Tuesday. The regular engagement will run to June 13.

Tickets are on sale at the box office and at Mutual, Liberty and Wallichs agencies.

Dorothy Hamill heads for show biz

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Now it's Olympic skater Dorothy Hamill who's getting the show business treatment.

Miss Hamill, who won the gold medal in figure skating at the 1976 Olympics, has signed a contract with Jerry Weintraub, manager of singers John Denver and Frank Sinatra. "Dorothy's truly all-American and has all the ingredients of a great star," said Weintraub.

He added that the skater "has been beseiged by world-wide offers from every motion picture studio, talent agency, television network, management firms, commercial endorsement companies, etc."

200 million

The population of the United States reached 200 million in 1967.

'1776' slated at Cal Poly

The Continental Theater Company of Wichita, Kan., in cooperation with the Masque and Mime Theater of New York, will present "1776" in the University Theater at Cal Poly at 8 p.m. Friday.

The patriotic musical is one of the events of the annual Poly Vue Open House. Also scheduled is a high school Shakespeare festival to be held in the music building from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday through Sunday. Taking part in the competitive event will be local schools. Events to be judged are male monologue, female monologue and group presentations.

"1776" depicts the delegates to the Continental Congress meeting in Philadelphia, including John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Jefferson, John Hancock and others. The musical portrays them not as legends but as real people — sometimes quarrelsome, sometimes stubborn and vain. The play has moments of humor, of romance and of high drama.

Tickets are $5.

Pearl to star in 'Norman'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pearl Bailey's retirement from show business, announced with a flourish two months ago, has been postponed.

She will play opposite Redd Foxx in MGM's adaption of the stage success "Norman . . . Is That You?" Her last film was "The Landlord" in 1970.

Also added to the cast is Mike Warren, former UCLA basketball star and a regular in the daytime television serial, Days of our Lives.

Kelly to direct fantasy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gene Kelly, whose last film as a director was "Hello, Dolly," has signed to direct a fantasy musical for family audiences, "How Santa Claus Got His Name."

Church to do 'Music Man'

The choirs of Claremont United Methodist Church will present Meredith Willson's "The Music Man," in the Sealey G. Mudd Theater at the School of Theology at Claremont at 8 p.m. May 7; 2:30 and 8 p.m. May 8, and 2:30 p.m. May 9.

More than 60 young people will be involved in acting, singing, dancing and technical production.

Also in the cast are Robyn Allen, Craig Allen, Ed Bratt, Mark Estupinian, Sarah Cadman, Lynn Dallas, Judy Devens, Kathy Dickinson, Tim Dickinson, Jennifer Elder, Nancy Gallagher, Dan Gutierrez, Claire Getts, Carol Graham, Joanne Hall, Beth Havens, Christi Kilsby, Richard Kilsby, Tim Kirk, Lisa Metzler, Ann Robertson, Marci Schurman, Neal Shannon, Sally Shannon, Stu Stoddard, Rolf Weidhofer and Scott Wray.

The production is directed by Donald Brinegar. Choreographer is Pat Pilkington, who created the dances for the choir's previously successful productions of "The Boy Friend" and "Anything Goes." Production assistant is Marci Schurman.

Others assisting in the production are Georgia Shannon, assistant to the choreographer; Jane Weidhofer, properties and Peg Skeen, tickets and publicity. Michael Parker, youth minister for the church, is rehearsal assistant.

Reserved seats are available through the church office at 211 W. Foothill Blvd. or by calling 624-2342. Tickets are $2.50 for adults, and $1.50 for children 12 or under.

Some people read with their fingertips instead of their eyes. They read braille, a special kind of writing invented for the blind.

Braille is named for Louis Braille, who invented this kind of writing, and who was blind himself.

Brille letters are groups of little bumps, or dots, stamped into the paper. By touching these raised dots, a braille reader can spell out the letters of a word.

The dots are arranged in patterns called "cells." Each cell can hold up to six dots — three dots high and two dots wide.

One dot, for example, stands for the letter A. Add another under it and you have B. To make C, you put the second dot beside the first, not under it.

Since 63 combinations are possible, the whole alphabet can be made, plus signs for numbers, punctuation marks and such commonly used words as "the," and "and."

There are also braille signs for music. An experienced reader can read about 80 braille words a minute.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

SCAG conducting a transit survey

Transportation needs throughout Southern California are now being surveyed by the Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG) and the California Department of Transportation. Approximately 8,000 households will be interviewed today through June 1.

Conducted by a professional research firm, the survey will help determine public attitudes concerning transportation policies. Citizens will be asked to comment on such programs as rail and bus systems, increases in gasoline costs and air quality control measures.

"Such data will help decision-makers know what the public really wants in transportation, both now and in the future," said Orange County Supervisor Ralph Clark, chairman of the SCAG Transportation and Utilities Committee. "Not only will the information be used by the state, but also by local and regional planners."

The survey is primarily an update of a 1967 survey. Survey results and a final report on transportation patterns is scheduled for release this fall.

SCAG is a planning and coordinating agency which deals with regional problems, such as transportation, environmental quality and urban growth, that affect more than 10 million Southland residents. Its membership is composed of the governments of Imperial, Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino and Ventura counties, and 126 cities within those counties.

Fiesta slated in L.V.

The Mexican-American Urban Coalition will sponsor a Cinco de Mayo fiesta Friday and May 2 in La Verne.

The fiesta will open with an adult dance at 8 p.m. Friday in the hall of the Holy Name of Mary Church. It will continue two days later at Kuns Park with entertainment, games, booths and food.

The event will be under the auspices of the coalition's Public Information for Community Service organization.

DR. PAUL H. MILLER

Prior to his appointment at City of Hope, Dr. Miller served two years as chief of cardiology service at the U.S. Air Force, Keesler Air Force Base, Biloxi, Miss.

The lecture is open to the public without charge. Reservations may be made by calling the hospital at (213) 963-8411, ext. 111.

Claremont architect board

Restaurant review due again

The matter of Michael Racine's proposed Salade Boule restaurant at 131 Yale Ave. will come again before the Claremont Architectural Commission Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

The City Council at its April 13 meeting had upheld the commission's denial of a skylight structure on the roof of the building, directed that the wood parapet be lowered, and stipulated that no occupancy permit be granted until the wood facade on the front of the restaurant be approved by the Architectural Commission.

Commission members have been asked to review the site before the meeting.

City staff members are concerned about a hodgepodge of unfinished siding, and have suggested that the siding be stained a dark brown for uniformity.

In other matters, Howard Johnson's at 721 S. Indian Hill Blvd. is asking for modification of the sign directly in front of the restaurant to give better identification to the motor lodge.

The matter of a proposed 24-foot by 64-foot banquet room addition to the Ruddy Duck Restaurant at 921 W. Foothill Blvd. also will come before the commission.

Because of insufficient parking for the proposed addition, the applicant has proposed a reduction in parking requirements based on joint use and common parking facilities.

The Claremont Planning Commission will review the matter May 4.

Laryngectomy unit to meet

The San Gabriel-Pomona Valley Lost Chord Club will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the small conference room at Queen of the Valley Hospital, West Covina.

Dr. Earl J. Thee, laryngologist, will be the speaker.

The club, which now has 32 members, is open to all laryngectomees and their spouses.

MAY COMPANY PRESENTS "THE MARTEX MAGIC SHOW"

Ms. Jamie Leonard, Home Fashions Coordinator for Martex, will present "The Martex Magic Show" at eleven May Company stores, showing how to create home decorating magic with the Martex collection of sheets and towels.

Sheets have had great impact beyond the bedroom for quite some time now. With just a little sleight of hand, a lot of imagination and a few sheets you can revitalize your entire home. Take one full flat sheet and . . . viola! A round tablecloth. Or make a designers-look pillow with one standard pillowcase. Or you can cover an entire wall with a couple of king flat sheets. It's all easy and relatively inexpensive to transform your home from just "okay" to an environment which has your own individual touch — without the expense of a professional decorator.

Ms. Leonard will illustrate how to make all of these and more, and will be available to answer individual questions. After her presentation, she will hold a drawing for a free set of Martex towels. Customers attending will receive a free instruction book, "All About The Home". The workshop will be presented in the Bedding Department of the Montclair store, Friday, April 30 at 7:00 p.m.

RADIO SHACK TO SELL OFFICIAL BICENTENNIAL ALBUM

The nationwide Radio Shack store chain will be the exclusive distributor of "Broad Stripes, Bright Stars", a two-record stereo album of military music authorized by a special act of Congress and featuring all four USA military bands. Only 100,000 copies of the album will be produced.

According to J. William Middendorf II, Secretary of the Navy, "Proceeds from sales are expected to recover costs of production and distribution, resulting in a project at no additional expense to our taxpayers."

The album was produced by the U.S. Navy for the Department of Defense and features the U.S. Army Band and Chorus, the U.S. Navy Band and Sea Chanters, the U.S. Marine Band and the U.S. Air Force Band and Singing Sergeants. These great musical organizations appear together in this album as they have in events of American history.

The bands perform the marches, anthems, sea chanteys and fife and drum cadences that have stirred the spirit of Americans from the Revolutionary Era to the present.

Wherever American men-at-arms have gathered, to train, to fight or to rest, music has never been far away. Much of that music is prescribed by the necessity for order and the dictates of protocol: the bugle calls, boatswain's pipes, marches, ruffles and flourishes and fanfares that signal or underscore the events of a given day.

Selections from the two-record set include: the Star Spangled Banner, Marines Hymn, Yankee Doodle, Stars and Stripes Forever and 28 other songs concluding with America the Beautiful.

The album contains a colorful insert portraying the spirit and artistry of military music. Jacket notes reveal the significance of the selections, and pictures of the performing bands are used on the dust sleeves along with a brief history of each of the bands.

"Broad Stripes, Bright Stars" will be sold by Radio Shack stores through a special subdistribution arrangement with Audiofidelity Enterprises. Part of the Navy's stipulation in granting the original record manufacturing contract was that the album be distributed uniformly across the country. The album is priced at $7.95.

Radio Shack, a division of Tandy Corporation (NYSE), has more than 4,000 stores and dealers in all 50 states.

Pomona to boost city fees

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

Increased fees for trash collection, street sweeping and business licenses were approved by Pomona City Council Monday night.

The council, however, delayed voting on whether to increase the city's utility tax rate from 6 to 7 per cent.

Trash collection fees will be boosted 50 cents per month, with street sweeping charges increasing 25 cents per month, and business licenses going up 25 per cent from current levels.

In addition to those increases, the council also extended the city's existing entertainment admissions tax to the Los Angeles County Fair for the first time.

Together the measures approved by the council should generate over $500,000 in new revenue for the 1976-77 budget, which is still about $3.5 million in the red at current service and income levels.

In an agonizing hearing on each measure, citizens told the council the increases would be a hardship on many people and other alternatives for generating income should be found.

"We can't keep up. There are too many taxes already. There must be other ways," said Frank Estrada.

"You don't like increased costs and I share that with you. But you want city services, and we haven't had a tax increase for four years," said Mayor Ray Lepire.

"If we had the opportunity to avoid any of these (increases) we would. If we don't raise taxes, services have to be cut. But what do we cut? Police Department? Not in this town. Fire Department? I don't think you want to cut that either. Parks and Recreation? Well . . . think what that could mean if kids don't have a park to play in," said Councilman Charles Bader.

Bader and Councilman Benjamin Ochoa invited the residents upset with the increases to attend the upcoming meetings in which city employes will seek pay raises.

"Don't stop participating now," said Bader.

The residents and council did find themselves in agreement on one point — investigating the fees charged by private refuse collectors to see if the city's prices are in line.

All the votes raising fees were by 4-1 counts, with Councilman Adrian Wright dissenting and stating he could not vote for a any single increase until he knew the "total effect" they would all have.

It had been expected the council would approve the hike in the utility tax rate, but the council delayed action for a clarification of what the exemption level would be.

At present, households with $4,000 or less in annual income are exempted from the tax.

At its budget sessions last February, the council tentatively agreed to set the exemption level at the federal government's poverty level, but no one knew what that currently is. Once that is clarified, the council will consider the increase, which would generate about $280,000 in new money.

Residents complain:

'We can't keep up... there are too many taxes already.'

City replies:

ROOSEVELT BENEFIT SOCIAL

An ice cream social Friday from 7 to 9 p.m. in the school cafetorium will be part of the open house observance at Roosevelt Elementary School in Pomona. Students drawing attention to the event are, from left, Debbie Gutierrez and James Altherr, third graders, and Gary Stowell, fourth grader. Mrs. Phyllis McKenzie, chairman of the social, said proceeds will go into the PTA school project fund. Mrs. Dee Hawks and Mrs. Carol Gutierrez are assisting with the social. Roosevelt classrooms will be open for parents to inspect.

S.D. townhouse dwellers stymie housing tract plan

Objections by neighboring homeowners forced a developer to drop plans to build 99 homes in a San Dimas tract Monday night.

The residents felt the type of homes proposed would be inferior to the townhouses they now occupy in the Glenwood Patio Homes subdivision at Foothill Boulevard West of San Dimas Avenue.

Developer Merrill Butler of Irvine had sought a zone change that would have allowed him to construct 99 single family homes on the site instead of the 140 townhouses he had wanted earlier.

But the residents of 40 townhouses who occupy the first phase of Butler's tract, contended that single family homes next to them would have an adverse effect on their property.

Current San Dimas zoning ordinances call for 7,500 square-foot lots for single-unit homes. Butler was asking for a change to 4,500 square-foot lots.

Most of the controversy was the apparent dissatisfaction of residents with Butler's concern for and care of the already developed portion of the Glenwood homes. Complaints of erosion problems, weed control and lack of grounds maintenance were voiced.

Butler insisted the zoning change was needed so he could meet present marketing conditions. Members of the Glenwood homeowners association told the council that Butler's changes would upset their present lifestyle and the changes were against contract agreements with the builder.

Homeowners also claim that any change in dwelling type or size of lots would result in depreciation of their property value. One homeower spokesman said Butler's plans were "not conducive to a marketable tract."

After the complaints Butler withdrew his request for the zoning change and told the council he would postpone his project.

The council also discussed alternatives for present liability insurance. City Manager Robert Poff told the council that San Dimas had experienced a 140 per cent rise in liability premium costs in the past few years.

Poff said the city is currently studying joining an association of 18 other cities to obtain less expensive insurance. But new City Atty. George Wakefield said the city had few choices as it faces escalating insurance costs.

He said other communities were forming such cooperatives to meet rising insurance costs.

The youngest council member, Terry Dipple, informed the audience he was sponsoring and hosting a "candid openhouse" at which citizens could discuss problems outside the formal regular council meetings. Dipple will host the first such event May 8 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the council chambers.

The council will hold a special meeting next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. to discuss fire and policing services provided by the county.

Band director still in coma

Montclair High School band director Benjamin Baker remains unconscious at Doctors Hospital in Montclair following a heart attack suffered Saturday.

Baker was participating with the band in the Montclair Birthday and Bicentennial Parade when he suffered a heart attack. He was treated at the scene by paramedics who were watching the parade and then taken to the hospital.

According to hospital officials, Baker's condition "remains unchanged, stable, but unconscious" and he is in the intensive care unit.

Chino teachers settle libel suit against principal

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

A Chino teachers' union announced Monday it had accepted a $3,800 settlement in a $900,000 libel suit filed last year against former Chino High School Principal Terry Terril who had charged the union with "unprofessional conduct."

The Chino Federation of Teachers, an AFL-CIO affiliate, held a press conference to claim "victory" in the suit filed last July.

Terril resigned in April 1975, criticizing a handful of teachers who he indicated were troublemakers. He identified them as members of CFT, who are tenured and "like working short hours and getting big pay."

The union was particularly angry over a charge Terril made of teachers "knocking kids around" on campus.

The suit had requested damages for Terril's comments published in three area newspapers including the Progress Bulletin.

Although the union felt it was "vindicated" by the out-of-court settlement, both Terril and Al Searfoss, the school district's assistant superintendent for business, said right or wrong has not been determined in the case.

Payment in the suit will come from the Continental Insurance Co., the Chino school district's insurance carrier. The district also was named in the lawsuit as the agent employing Terril at the time.

"The insurance carrier was trying to get out as cheaply as possible," said Searfoss, explaining it would have cost about $5,000 if the firm had gone to court in the case.

No money will come from Terrill, according to Searfoss who specifically stated that in a settlement, "right or wrong has not been determined."

Kan., where he is now superintendent of schools, said the settlement is "no sign of guilt or admission of guilt."

Ed LeSaout, vice presidnet of the CFT, said reputations of Chino teachers had been damaged by Terril's remarks and it had to be cleared up. "If you have pride in your profession you have to stand up to comments printed in the local media."

"The charges by Terril were lies," he added. They were reprinted with no effort to show the truth."

$25,000 blaze

Fire destroyed the garage and heavily damaged the attic and roof of the house at 1669 Benedict Ave., Claremont, Monday at 1:38 p.m.

County firemen set the loss estimate at $20,000 to the structure and $5,000 to contents. Value of the property was not given.

A neighbor called in the alarm. Firemen, under the direction of Capt. Ralph Stapf, arrived to find the occupants away. They were told the house was occupied by a Frain family.

Reptile show at Montclair Plaza

Monty's Traveling Reptile Show, with 20 exhibits, will appear at Montclair Plaza Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Exhibits will include a 15-foot, 200-pound Burmese python, a 4½-foot Rhinoceros iguana, and a 16-foot, 110-pound reticulated python.

Accused says witness did beating

Samuel Jones, accused of murdering an Ontario drug counselor, testified Monday that the prosecution's key witness, Francis Anthony, beat and killed the victim the afternoon of Nov. 25.

Jones, on trial in the alleged murder of Raymond Meras, told the West Valley Superior Court jury that he and Anthony went to Meras' home and were drinking wine with him.

Jones claimed that he became ill from the wine and went into the bathroom. He said while in the bathroom he heard a loud commotion and went outside to investigate.

"I came out of the bathroom and Anthony was hitting this guy, (Meras) with a board. There was blood all over the place," said Jones. He said he yelled at Anthony, "What are you doing."

Jones said that he and Anthony then left the Meras home together.

Anthony in the murder trial testified that he was in the home when for no apparent reason, Jones, the accused, began beating Meras over the head with a stick. He said he started to walk out of the house when he heard what he thought was a shot. Anthony, in earlier court proceedings pleaded guilty to being an accessory after the fact in the killing.

S.B. County also hikes hospital fees

Plan to spur road building passes

San Bernardino County supervisors Monday approved an ordinance amendment that would allow developers to be reimbursed for road improvements that extend beyond their own projects.

Under the provisions, a developer would thus be able to connect his subdivision with a major access road and receive payment when future development occurred along the improved area, said Supervisor Robert Townsend.

Townsend said the new county policy may aid in speeding up development of Grand Avenue through the Chino Hills. Several property owners along the street alignment have expressed interest in such a program, he added.

Supervisors adopted a provision where developers installing improvements outside their own project would enter into an agreement with the county and deposit 100 per cent of the estimated cost of construction.

The county would secure competitive bids and award the contract. When reimbursement is made, the new developer will be charged 120 per cent of the cost, with the original developer receiving 110 per cent to cover his expenses and the county receiving 10 per cent for its expenses.

Those developers entitled to reimbursement would be required to file between June 1 and July 1 when the supervisors are making their annual budgets.

In another matter, supervisors increased daily hospital service rates for the county medical centers to recover expenses, said Townsend.

Such county action was needed for the county to be reimbursed by the two major cost reimbursers, Medi-Cal and Medicare. The new rates become effective June 1 and are based on 1974-75 actual costs.

Under the new program, daily service rates for medical patients will increase from $136 to $155; orthopedics, $123 to $145; surgical, $116 to $141; obstetrics, $138 to $152; pediatrics, $140 to $160; and intensive care unit and cardiac care unit, $246 to $298.

Supervisors also directed the county's Environmental Review Committee to conduct a new hearing on May 4 regarding an application to develop a neighborhood shopping center at the southwest corner of Riverside Drive and Pipe Line Avenue in the Chino area.

The board noted that Chino city officials and residents weren't notified of the previous committee hearing. The hearing will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the county Planning Department chambers.

Supervisors authorized the purchasing agent to order telemetering control equipment to be used in a system that will carry water from a well at Chino Airport to both Prado Regional Park and the El Prado Golf Course.

The action was needed because of a heavy back-order for this type of equipment, said Townsend.

Cost of the equipment is estimated at $10,000. The entire water system, however, will be near $200,000. This will include a six-inch pipeline, water storage reservoir, hydropneumatic system, and booster pumping station. Both the park and gold course are scheduled to open next July 4.

Debt collecting reforms due

There are 5,000 debt collectors in the United States. Last year $3 billion in debts were turned over to them for collection, of which they collected $850 million.

Yet only 38 states and the District of Columbia have laws regulating collectors. Most of these laws are enforced in a desultory fashion.

In 12 of the states which have laws, the rule making or advisory boards by law must include a majority of debt collectors. In many states it is possible to obtain a license merely by paying a fee and obtaining a bond. Twelve states with a combined population of 40 million have no collection laws.

The result is what we might expect.

Unscrupulous collectors make no distinction between those actually in debt and those whose names are listed through computer error, no distinction between the deliberate welcher and the individual who cannot pay or must delay payment because of illness, accident or other calamity. And they make no distinction between debtors and those singled out because a greedy company wants money before it is due or money which may not be owed.

One firm has on its wall in a place of honor a letter from a victim explaining that no debt was owed, but that the agency was being paid what it asked to put an end to the harassment.

One witness before a U.S. House of Representatives Banking and Currency subcommittee, related his collection techniques in some detail. He would phone an alleged debtor every hour, or sometimes every five minutes, during the day and evening, at home and at work, following up with phone calls to the man's boss.

Doctors have been called out of emergency rooms, not once but repeatedly. Mothers have been told their children had been in terrible automobile accidents to frighten them into paying. Children have been told to report to the police station to wring money out of fathers.

The story is told of an attorney, who for $75 a month allowed one collection agency to use his name on the door and his letterhead, his signature on letters. He permitted a phone at the agency to be answered in his name and his approval for an agent to impersonate him in threatening alleged debtors in his name.

The same firm had a judge on its payroll who received a percentage of the take. In return, the judge provided the firm with semilegal forms bearing his name which were used to tell debtors the account was now in his hands and that they could save themselves court action by paying up immediately.

Said the witness: "We could have judgments issued, if we wanted to, without ever notifying the defendant that he was being sued."

But there's worse. One witness reported a debtor being told he would find himself floating in a river if he didn't pay up. A lady was offered a pair of cement shoes.

We are not talking here of the Mafia. But of firms employed by legitimate businessmen and institutions, some of whom make little or no effort to determine the methods used by the collection agencies they employ. It must be said many collection firms are honest and fair, and most businesses do not employ the type of collectors mentioned here. It must also be said that some respected firms are involved.

The Banking and Currency Committee is getting ready to write a new law. But the weight of testimony indicates that even in states with good laws, harassment may be equal to that in states with no laws on collections.

The plain and simple fact is that as noted above, in most instances laws on the books are not enforced. So the federal law, however well written, will be no panacea.

Proposition 15

Dear Editor:

The prophets of doom suggest a yes vote on Proposition 15, (the so-called nuclear safeguard initiative) lest we blow up the world. Should we heed?

Obviously, these are not the prophets of God, Revelations does not foretell the end of mischance. The onslaught of atheistic communism more accurately depict prophecy.

The Bible warns us of false prophets and tells us we can recognize them by the fruits they bear. These same prophets have just "saved" Angola and are working hard to "save" Rhoedsia and South Africa. Avowed pacifists, they have diverted funds raised for the hungry to arm African guerillas. Who's side are they on?

Doubting Thomases can look at a long and successful record in the field of nuclear energy. Certainly the hazards of the future should be no greater than the past.

Inciting the mob through vague fears and arm-twisting to steer our Pilates as tray are devices disasterously used in the past. Are we any wiser today? We badly need new sources of energy. It is reported that in 1975 nuclear fuel cost 18 cents per kwt, as compared with $2.46 per kwt for oil. As a consumer, which will you vote to pay for? — Ray O. Swanson, Pomona

New direction for the IRS?

WASHINGTON — In the matter of tax enforcement, the Internal Revenue Service has shown more enthusiasm for investigating ordinary citizens than public officials. Secretary of the Treasury William Simon believes this attitude should now be reversed.

Not since Americans rebelled against their tax treatment 200 years ago has the ruling clique heard such heresy. The plainspoken Simon, nevertheless, will ask Congress to authorize the IRS to conduct automatic audits of all federal officials.

This would mean that the finances of all high officeholders, elected and appointed, would come under periodic IRS scrutiny. Members of Congress aren't likely to vote for this kind of surveillance over their bank accounts. They won't approve Simon's proposal, that is, unless the voters threaten to elect congressmen who will.

The revolutionary idea that public officials should be subjected to closer tax scrutiny than the people who pay their salaries was proposed by the Treasury's general counsel, Richard Albrecht, in a confidential report to Simon on Sen. Joseph Montoya's tax audit.

Albrecht concluded that IRS officials demonstrated "questionable judgment," if not illegal action, when they quashed an investigation of the New Mexico senator's returns. This led Albrech to the additional conclusion that, if public faith is to be restored in government, the IRS could help by keeping a constant watch on the tax returns of officeholders. This would make it more difficult, at least, for them to cheat the public.

This might also help impress upon the IRS who is the master and who the servant in the democratic scheme of things. It has become an all too frequent practice in conflicts between private citizens and federal agencies for the bureaucrats to assume the master role. And no federal employes have been more relentless in pursuit of harassed citizens than the tax collectors.

The IRS has spun a web of regulations, constantly adding to the tangle, until it is almost impossible for the average citizen to be sure he has paid the right amount. More than one hard-pressed taxpayer has found himself in trouble because of a trivial or unintentional error, a misunderstanding of the complex instructions, the failure of an employer to withhold the correct tax or a personal tragedy which cleaned him out of the money he set aside for Uncle Sam.

Some IRS agents go after unpaid taxes as if it were their lone mission to collect enough revenue for President Ford to reduce his budget. In pursuit of tax debtors, the IRS has garnisheed their wages, seized their property, confiscated their bank accounts and deprived them of their jobs.

One of the most insidious federal weapons is the jeopardy assessment, which is supposed to be used to tie up the funds of a taxpayer who might try to skip the country. Agents have used this power indiscriminantly to force settlements out of reluctant taxpayers.

We receive an outpouring of complaints, far more than we are able to investigate. Although we have found most tax officials to be firm but fair, we have come across some disturbing abuses.

The IRS, for example, helped to run the life of a pathetic Washington businessman named Earl Klein. In 1975. He had a nervous breakdown and was hospitalized. His wife took charge of his small business establishment while he recovered. Unfortunately, she had no business sense and mishandled the company's books. A tax audit discovered Klein owed $6,000 in back taxes for the first quarter of 1975.

Although this was the first time he had been in tax trouble, agents descended on the emotionally troubled man like hungry wolves, Klein was quite willing to pay the back taxes. But before he and his accountant could make the necessary arrangements, the IRS seized Klein's bank account. Then agent Richard Damon led an IRS raid on Klein's store. The agents actually rifled his cash register for $181.

The last time we spoke to Klein, he sounded terribly depressed. "I'm going out of business," he said sadly.

In Florida, Dr. Virgil Rizzo is going through a tax audit. Although no violations have been found, he was cited for contempt by a civil court and fined $21,000. The IRS claimed he was withholding tax records. He insisted that he had misplaced or lost them. Either way, there is no proof. Yet the fine stands.

Tax agents also seized patient payment cards from his office and began calling the patients to check how much they had paid. One teen-age patient had come to Rizzo in confidence to receive treatment for a veneral disease. The IRS call alerted the youth's parents and violated a doctor-patient confidence. Meanwhile, the doctor still hasn't been found guilty of breaking the tax laws.

In Dallas, Ellsworth Sallee, a commercial pilot, not only flies for American Airlines, but owns a farm. The two sources of income have brought the IRS on his back. One IRS auditor told him to pay his tax assessment, because the legal fees to fight the assessment would amount to more than the IRS was demanding.

A former IRS official told us the service is pathological about collecting taxes. The prevailing view, he said, is that harsh methods must be used to protect our tax system, that legal restrictions must be stretched.

An IRS agent, who asked that his identity be protected, cited one example. The IRS often demands full financial disclose from taxpayers, he said, even before liability is assessed. This is improper and a violation of privacy, he said. Legally, the IRS can't ask for financial records, he explained, until a violator does not pay.

Revenue agents defend themselves against charges of callousness. They point out that, since Biblical times, the tax collector has always been the most disliked of officials. It is their duty, they point out, to rake in money on which national security and domestic services depend. Every defaulting dollar means a dollar that some other citizen must pay.

Why close bases in U.S.?

The Pentagon wants to close or curtail 80 military bases — most of them Navy bases in the United States. Those bases, whatever else they are worth, are pumping life into our stateside economy.

It may be a good idea, but there may be a better one.

Why not close or curtail some of the 2,000 U.S. military installations in 30 other countries? The money sent there to support those is lost to us forever.

Our Air Force wants to trim or close 51 bases, figuring to save $150 million a year.

Our Navy wants to trim or close 80 Navy installations, figuring to save another $56 million a year.

The combined curtailment would eliminate more than 15,000 civilian jobs.

It will cripple the dependent economy of many adjacent towns.

If, in fact, these are whte elephant installations they should indeed be reduced or erased.

But doesn't it occur to them that they are saving nickels and dimes in their own budget while jeopardizing the economic stability of homefolks in these areas? They could save billions of dollars if they would limit or shut down many or most of our nation's overseas bases?

True, there has been a withdrawal of American troops from Thailand and a token withdrawal from Greece, but our overseas commitment, bloated by a now-past age of imperialism, remains mostly intact.

Secretary Kissinger insists that we cannot and must not abandon this historic military role. Meanwhile, he is doing everything he can to diminish historic hostilities. If he is successful in diminishing tensions with detente, should our military presence not be phased out proportionately?

The club in our closet which keeps potential enemies at arm's length is our technology, not masses of marching men.

Our 6 per cent fraction of the world's population cannot possibly match Asia — in manpower.

It's our nuclear firepower which keeps them respectful.

Today, one in four American military men is stationed overseas — in round numbers, half a million out of a total of 2 million.

Two-to-one they are stationed in Western Europe, and most of those in West Germany, presumably to deter Soviet aggression.

But what justification is there for maintaining a mass military presence in Japan, Okinawa, Philippines, Italy, Turkey, Greece, Iceland, Belgium, Netherlands, Portugal, Morocco — and the Bahamas, Barbados and the Leeward Islands.

Almost every dollar that supports American troops in other countries stays there, a drain on our nation's balance of payments.

While it may be a good idea to close some bases here at home, there may be a better idea.

Just in jest

There is little that is new or original where writing is involved. One author cashes in on a catchy observation he stole from some long gone writer before him, who stole it from gosh only knows what struggling ancient world scrivener, who probably stole it from the petroglyphs left by some prehistoric stone age citizen with literary aspirations.

Take Cervantes who some folks credit with having originated the saying, "One swallow never makes a summer." The truth is he probably copied that observation from Northbrook who in 1577 wrote: "One swallow prouveth not that summer is near." Or maybe it was John Heywood who about that same time observed: "One swallow maketh not a summer." But more likely all of them copied it from Aristotle who around 350 B.C. wrote, "One swallow does not make a spring."

And it was that same Aristotle who possibly originated the saying: "Of evils we must choose the least," — an observation which 300 years later was picked up by Cicero who wrote: "Of two evils the least should be chosen." Then Chaucer got into the act in the 1300's. His version reads: "Of harmes two the less is for to chese." And about that same time Thomas Kempis passed off as original thinking the remark: "Of two evils the less is always to be chosen."

Finally, Shakespeare, the world's acknowledged literary master, was not above pilfering some of his more famous goodies. When he quoted Caesar as having remarked: "Yond Cassius has a lean and hungry look," he really should have given some credit to Plutarch who about 75 years B.C. wrote: " 'It is not,' said Caesar, 'these well-fed, long-haired men I fear, but the pale and the hungry-looking.' "

State Capitol to be redone

Editor's Note—During his illness top state officials are filling in for columnist Earl G. Waters. His guest today is Senator James Mills (D) San Diego President Pro Tem, California Senate.

California's majestic state Capitol Building — now labeled an earthquake hazardous structure — is about to get a modern face-lifting that will take us back about 70 years in time.

Now virtually empty and about to be closed to the public, there is a stillness inside its thick walls interrupted only by a small group of historical preservation specialists and workers photographing and marking detail work; probing behind walls and planning to give its citizens a rare architectural treat.

The Capitol Building is 102 years old, not safe in the event of an earthquake and yet a symbol easily worthy of preserving for future visitors.

Historians have recounted the details of changes in the structure, some of them nightmares from a purist point of view. They recommend and we, as legislators, agree that to restore the building to the 1906-10 period would be to preserve best architectural integrity.

It was at that time the elegant front stairs were replaced, fireplaces sealed, the Assembly and Senate chambers given a major renovation. From a point of view of the 70's, it was a mistake. Early century designers simply covered up some of the best-preserved Grant Period architecture and Roman Corinthian detail to be found in the United States.

Fortunately, much of it is still there. And it is coming back to be made available to the public as a combination working building and museum.

The beautiful English tile that graces the first floor rotunda will be carefully pried up and then put back when the structure is made safe. The tile came around the Horn in the last century so why replace it with something 100 years newer?

The legislative chambers, originally with a column-supported gallery and balistrades and frescoes running almost around the rooms, will be restored to the splendor they possessed before the turn of the century.

In the words of preservation specialist Raymond Girvigian, the "chambers were gutted" by the early-century renovation. So the Legislature will, this year, vacate these chambers and live outside in temporary buildings while the reconstruction is performed.

What will result is a building truly representative of California's colorful past, restored to give visitors a vivid historical reminder. The governor's old corner office will be renovated in its original location; in addition a large theater and visual display room will be opened to visitors. The 1876 safes that once adorned the treasurer's office will be brought out of their hiding place at nearby Sutter's Fort.

Much of the original material will be used. Those plaster ornaments that can't be put back will be replicated in their original color and design and California will have a spectacular insight to architectural and historical gems of the 19th Century.

See Spot run-but is it safe?

DEAR DR. MILLER: It's very common for people in our town to have their dogs run after them as they ride their bicycles. In addition to traffic dangers, I often see these dogs falling back (trying to stop to rest) but then anxiously trying to catch up. Their masters don't seem to notice that their dogs are exhausted. People seem to think dogs can run forever? — H.H.

DEAR H.H.: In the days of one-speed bicycles and rural pathways, peddling with a pooch wasn't a bad idea. Under the conditions you've described, it's hazardous, unhealthy, and often inhumane. You've noted the prime traffic danger. Even a traffic-wise canine, in a desperate attempt to keep up with its owner, can easily become an automobile victim. Drivers themselves are endangered as they seek to avoid these dogs. In bursting through other dogs' territories, these cruising canines are often attacked. For every one which benefits from this amount of exercise, several suffer physical impairments running from worn out foot pads to worn out hip joints, from hypoclycemia coma (burning up more body sugar than can be supplied) to collapse from exhaustion or overheating in hot weather. The running canine can't keep cool enough to keep going long. Bicycling, then, is beneficial for perhaps most cyclists, but under most circumstances today, a canine companion shouldn't be bringing up the rear.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Since we happen to have a pair of parakeets already, we're going to go ahead and breed them this year so we can make a little money on them. What's the best way to go about it? — D.L.

DEAR D.L.: Propagation for profit? Whether the pets in question are parakeets, pussycats, pooches or practically any others, the odds are 99 to 1 against it. If you like long shots, you can reduce the odds somewhat by learning as much as possible about parakeet production before pushing your pair into it. Ideally, your birds should already be in the pink of condition (a prime prerequisite) and be at least pondering the prospects of a passionate performance by now. It's an exercise in futility, and can even be dangerous, to try breeding birds who are not in top physical condition. A nest box is needed only if special feeding and exercise requirements have been met over the last several months. Even budgies who might make it in the mating game perform poorly as parents without such preparation.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Our cat has a very strange-looking tail. He broke it in the middle once it healed very crooked. If that was rebroken and reset, would it heal straight? — F.K.

DEAR F.K.: There is considerable risk that it wouldn't heal at all the second time. The first time the fractured tail frequently fails to heal because of poor circulation beyond the fracture. This complication would be even more likely the second time around.

For Wednesday, April 28

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be as tolerant and patient with loved ones and your family today as you will be with persons who mean a great deal less to you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't let a misunderstanding that should have been long-forgotten affect the way you'll deal with an old friend today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be content with what you have now. Don't be too concerned that another has more. The grass really isn't that much greener in her back yeard.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Too many self-doubts today will limit your chances of success. Don't write yourself off before even trying.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Usually you're quite optimistic. Today, you're likely to be overly impressed by negatives.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Avoid a friend who is always willing to share what you have, but never what's hers. She could really turn you off today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll do well today as long as you don't run into serious opposition. Should things get tough you're apt to look for an easy out.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't ask someone to do something today that you'd refuse to do yourself. You'll get the same answer you'd give.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're better at managing your own affairs today than you will be at manipulating others. Mind your own business.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It will be difficult to keep peace at home today if either you or your mate bring up and old issue on which you're worlds apart.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Physical tasks shouldn't cause you too many problems today, but mental ones could. Take care with the mind bogglers!

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Unruly youngsters could easily push your patience beyond its endurance today. Deal with them firmly, but not with too heavy a hand.

Your Birthday April 28

This coming year you will not be easily discouraged should you meet obstacles to your goals. This attitude will eventually be your ticket to success.

Ann Landers

Youngsters stretching their luck

Dear Ann Landers: I am 16, my boyfriend is 17. There is nobody we can trust with our problem but you.

We are very much in love and have been since Christmas. Last February we started to have sex. We will not stop, so don't suggest it. We see nothing wrong with what we are doing, so long as we are faithful to each other.

The problem is as follows: We don't use protection because it doesn't feel natural. Also, it makes our love seem cheap, like it is just for fun. I'm afraid to take the Pill because of so much cancer in my mother's family. We are too young to get married and besides our parents wouldn't let us. Please don't suggest we talk to the school counselor. She is my aunt. We realize that what we are doing could lead to pregnancy. We don't want to have a baby. It would louse us up and get us in trouble with our families. (We are both Baptists.) Please give us some help. — In Love In Kentucky

Dear I.L.: If you don't go to a doctor and settle on some form of protection you are bound to get pregnant sooner or later.

So far you've been plain lucky. Make an appointment at once — and I mean today.

Dear Ann Landers: We need urgent advice on what to do about swindlers who send trinkets of all sorts in the mail from every state in the union and every country on the map. It seems everyone is begging for money.

What can people do when they receive merchandise and instructions to "send an offering to such-and-such a place because people are starving and dying of disease"? They make you feel guilty if you don't send something.

Then there are the religious preachers on TV, who keep asking folks to send for Bibles and what-have-you. They promise peace of mind and a place in heaven. Nobody wants to be left out, so again we are forced to send in a check.

Please, Ann, tell us how to get off this merry-go-round. — One Of Millions

Dear One: If you don't get ON the merry-go-round you won't have to worry about getting off.

First, throw the trinkets in the garbage can. You are under no obligation to return anything you did not send for. In too many cases, $49 is going into some promoter's pocket for every dollar that goes to the needy.

As for the religious preachers on TV who sell Bibles and "salvation," I can tell you that a place in heaven is not for sale. And neither is peace of mind. You are better off to join the church of your choice and be a part of a parish or congregation. There are no short-cuts or free passes to the Pearly Gates.

Dear Ann Landers: "Dublin's" definition of Lace Curtain Irish threw me. I never heard anyone say they were lousy housekeepers who had cobwebs at the windows that looked like lace curtains.

In South Boston, Lace Curtain Irish means rich people who can afford the best, while their poor neighbors stick newspaper through the broken window panes. — A Southie

Dear S.: Let's go back to MY definition: Lace Curtain Irish are people who have fruit in the house when no one is sick.

How much do you know about pot, L.S.D., cocaine, speed, meth, uppers and downers, glue and heroin? Are all these drugs dangerous? Get Ann Landers's new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." Just the thought of Newman

Do you know what Mayva said to me the other day? She said, "You are under stress."

"Why would you say a thing like that?" I asked.

"Because you just dusted the coffee table with a deodorant. Besides, you don't seem to have any energy anymore."

"A lot of people rest between chewing while they eat," I said defensively.

"Ice cream? I'd like to see you get into some kind of a meditation technique. I can't tell you what it's done for me."

"I know what it's done for you," I said. "You're so content you're no fun anymore. A REAL friend, Mayva, is fat when you are fat, depressed when you are depressed, and overdrawn when you are overdrawn. I liked you better when you cried when you returned empties to the recycling center."

"You don't mean that," she said gently. "It's not that I have any fewer problems than you do. I'm just able to handle them better. What would you say if I told you all it takes for peace of mind is a few minutes out of each day sitting in a chair relaxing with your eyes closed?"

"You show me a woman sitting in a chair in the middle of the day with her eyes closed and I'll show you three kids having a peanut butter orgy!"

"Just try it," she pleaded. "Here, just sit in this chair and get comfortable."

"I hear flushing!" I said, gripping the arms of the chair.

"Just put everything out of your mind."

"Listen! Are those marbles in the cold air ducts?"

"It would help if you had a mantra."

"I'm not that cold, but there's probably one in the hall closet."

"No, a mantra is a thought-sound — a word that we use to meditate on and reduce mental activity."

"Do you have one?" I asked. (Mayva nodded.) "Then, maybe I could borrow yours."

"I can't do that," she smiled. "I can't even tell you what my mantra is."

"That's terrific!" I said. "When you were pregnant, I offered to carry the baby for you and you can't even loan me your mantra for a few minutes. It's all right. I'll get my own!"

They tell me they found me in my chair 40 minutes later. The kitchen was a disaster area, the front door was open, there was no hint of dinner, the phone was ringing, and the dog was eating cottage cheese out of an ashtray. They found me rocking back and forth with a smile on may face reciting over and over "Paul Newman . . . Paul Newman . . . Paul Newman . . ."

Dr. Lamb

Blood clot or heart attack?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What's the difference between a heart attack and an embolus? When a person is put on Coumadin does this mean that he has had a heart attack? How can a blood clot go through the heart, enter the lungs and not be called a heart attack? I am talking about the case of my son. I am very worried about him. No one knows where the embolus came from. Can you guess? His legs were minutely examined, and it was stated that many clots originate in the legs but yet there is no sign of them on an examination.

My son has a job and travels in his own car or in airplanes. He has been instructed to exercise every 45 minutes, I presume to get the circulation going in his legs.

He was told that he only needed to take Coumadin for three months and that period is almost up. Yet a friend of his has been on Coumadin for the past 10 years; is that possible?

I lost my dear wife from a heart attack even though she had been taking the same medicine for blood thinning. The doctors restricted my wife's activity very severely, yet the doctors encourage my son to do things such as going out to drive golf balls. Any light you can shed on this would certainly be appreciated.

DEAR READER — Used in the sense of your son's problem, an embolus means a blood clot. It's clear from the rest of your letter that the doctors think that the blood clot or blood clots went to the lungs. Most blood clots of that type do form in the veins in the legs. Your son's doctors are perfectly correct in saying that they can examine the legs and not be able to detect the presence of a clot within one of the deep veins.

The clot that breaks loose from any location follows that blood stream just like a log going down a river. It rides with the blood stream through the right side of the heart. The blood comes out of the heart and goes to the lungs. The clots lodge in the lungs and never get back to the heart.

A heart attack is entirely different. Your wife had an obstruction in one of the arteries to her heart muscle. The similarity is that both can cause chest pains. Since it is important to keep the blood thinned in both cases, it is common to use anti-clotting medicines such as Coumadin in the treatment of both conditions. A clot from the vein in the leg can pass through the right heart into the lungs without causing any damage to the heart at all.

It's wise not to compress the leg veins by prolonged sitting as might occur with prolonged car rides or prolonged airplane rides. That also applies to people who do not have any blood clot formation as yet. Get up and shake those legs around to keep the circulation moving. It helps prevent all kinds of problems.

Obesity also appears to increase the chances of blood clots. For more information on effects of obesity send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 2-7, Obesity: The High Cost of Fat. Send a long-stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Was reported that tights were invented by a circus acrobat who had to perform in his longhandled underwear because his costume didn't show up on time from the cleaners. That happened, true enough. In this country. But tights were invented elsewhere, too. In France, specifically. By the same fellow who invented the trapeze. Jules Leotard, namely.

Q. "Does anybody in this country ever die anymore of the bubonic plague?"

A. About once a year some patient dies. Usually in the Southwest or along the Pacific Coast.

Insurance has no premium

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Victor Mollo does not show the East-West hands when he is discussing declarer play. If you can do so, don't look at them until you have planned your play.

West starts out by leading out the ace, king and queen of clubs. The unthinking player ruffs and starts after trumps. Now take a look at the East-West cards and see what happens to the unthinking declarer. West has five trumps and the unthinking declarer will have the opportunity to complain about bad luck.

How about the thinking declarer. He will say to himself that trumps have been known to break 5-0 and that when he can take out insurance against such a break he should do so. Particularly since he really doesn't have to pay a premium for that insurance.

He has to lose a diamond some time. Why not right away. So he throws a diamond on the third club and can't be beaten at his four-spade contract.

Ask the Jacobys

We receive so many questions about counting honors that we are going to repeat the answer today.

If a player in a rubber bridge game holds four of the five trump honors his side receives an honor bonus of 100 points. If he holds all five trump honors or all four aces in notrump his side receives a 150-point bonus.

The honor bonus is awarded irrespective of whether the holder is declarer dummy or a defender.

John gets big hand, big win

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — Tommy John's courageous comeback is almost complete.

The Dodgers' stylish lefthander enjoyed his first victory in almost two years Monday night and he certainly didn't pick on any weaklings in beating the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-1.

John, who pitched in his first game at Dodger Stadium since July 17, 1974, received a big hand from the 23,374 fans when he went to the mound and earned a standing ovation when he departed in the eighth after the Bucs scored their only run.

For a man who many felt would never appear on a mound again after undergoing elbow surgery in 1974, John has turned in three outstanding starting performances. In his last start, the Dodgers eventually lost, 1-0, to Houston in a 16-inning marathon.

"It made me feel real great," John said about his first victory since July 7, 1974. "My big thing was simply to remember not to hurry too much. That was the problem in the second inning. I was rushing myself. But Fergie (catcher Joe Ferguson) has been catching me five years and he got me straightened out."

It was a typical Tommy John performance. The 32-year-old southpaw didn't record any strikeouts but he did get the Pirates on 11 ground outs.

"I want the other team to hit it on the ground," John explained. "I learned that from Eddie Stanky when I was with the White Sox. Strikeouts are an overrated statistic. It takes three or four ground ball hits to score a run. I want to stay away from fly balls."

Ground balls also led to a pair of double plays when the Pirates had their biggest opportunities of scoring.

John got into trouble in the second inning when Richie Zisk singled but was erased when Dave Parker hit into a double play. It was fortunate since John walked Richie Hebner and Duffy Dyer back to back and losing pitcher Doc Medich beat out an infield single to load the bases. However, John got Frank Taveras on an infield out — what else? — to get out of it.

Al Oliver and Willie Stargell opened the sixth with back-to-back singles but John got Zisk to hit into a double play to wipe out that threat.

Pittsburgh finally scored in the eighth when Taveras singled and Rennie Stennett doubled. Because of a fan touching the ball, Stennett's hit was ruled a ground rule double with Taveras stopped at third but the umpires decided to let him score after much deliberation ruling that Taveras would have scored except for the interference.

Manager Walt Alston used the opportunity to take John out of the game and bring in Mike Marshall, the workhorse of the bullpen. Marshall responded to retire the final six batters of the game in order.

John never had to worry about the lead.

The Dodgers knocked out Medich, the former Yankee, with three runs in the first inning and one apiece in the second and third to give John plenty of breathing room with an early 5-0 cushion.

Bill Buckner opened the game with a single and stolen base. After Medich retired the next two batters, Steve Garvey doubled to right to drive in the first run and Ron Cey followed with his first home run of the season to quickly make it 3-0.

Buckner's single drive in Bill Russell in the second and Henry Cruz' hit brought in Garvey, who had his second double, in the third.

L.A. added two insurance tallies in the bottom of the eighth for the final margin.

The Dodgers matched their season high with 12 hits, three by Buckner and two each by Cey, Garvey and Russell, who has six hits in the last nine at-bats to raise his batting average to .313.

"I never had any qualms about my being able to pitch again," John said about his year away from the mound. "The main thing was getting my timing back. But it is satisfying to beat a club like Pittsburgh. Those guys are really something at the plate."

John also appreciated the ovation. "It was really something," he said. "I felt like I wanted to wave my hat . . . I think there ought to be more things like (John) Montefusco does. Fans like to see some emotion."

DODGER DATA — Lefthander Doug Rau (2-0) will face Bruce Kison (1-1) tonight followed by Burt Hooton (0-2) against Jerry Reuss (2-1) Wednesday night.

Dusty Baker rested again Monday because of a pulled hamstring while catcher Ellie Rodriguez was missing because of the flu.

Dodger relief pitchers have allowed only four earned runs in the last 23 2/3 innings of work.

JC coaching casualties grow

Among the junior college ranks it's getting to the point where you need a scorecard to telling who's coaching what.

Another wave of casualties occurred recently among the Southern California JC coaches. Latest coaches to resign or get the axe include San Bernardino Valley College head football coach Harold Beach, Orange Coast head basketball coach Herb Livsey and Orange Coast head baseball coach Barry Wallace.

Beach was fired by the SBVC Board of Trustees in the latest in a series of moves on that campus regarding the floundering Indian athletic program. He had been head grid coach for three years at the school. SBVC is currently seeking a successor.

Livsey resigned after seven unproductive years as cage mentor at OCC. His Pirate teams posted a 74-122 mark during that time, with Livsey's most successful season being 1972-73 when OCC was 22-8. The Pirates appeared to have good talent this past hardwood season, but obviously were lacking in team unity and fundamentals, so Livsey's stepping down is not exactly a surprise in South Coast Conference circles.

Nor is Wallace's resignation as OCC baseball coach. Wallace had been at the Costa Mesa campus for seven years, and the Pirates posted only two winning seasons (17-16 in 1972 and 16-15 in 1973) during that time. OCC's lack of a winter baseball program has hurt the Pirates quite a bit in the super-tough South Coast conference.

Like the Pirate hoop squad, the OCC baseballers appear to have some good talent but lack of a more extensive baseball program has obviously hampered their efforts to be competitive in the SCC.

OCC is taking applications for successors to both Livsey and Wallace.

Local mentors shine

With the game of musical chairs that seems to be constantly going on among the JC coaching ranks, the caliber of the local JC mentors seems to get lost in the shuffle.

The accomplishments of the local baseball programs is especially notable. Chaffey's Howard Lowder is the dean of the area baseball coaches in terms of service, having been head coach of the Panthers since 1966. MSAC's Art Mazmanian has been at the Walnut campus since 1969, while Citrus' Skp Claprood is in his fourth year as head coach of the Owls' baseball fortunes.

Lowder won his 200th game recently, and has his Panthers in the thick of the Mission Conference race again this spring, a familiar position for the Panthers.

Mazmanian is right behind that win total with 180 coaching victories as Mountie mentor in eight years. The Mountie skipper is no stranger to winning, as in 20 years of coaching at the high school, JC and professional level a Mazmanian-tutored team has never had a losing season.

Claprood's record is just as remarkable, as the youthful Owl coach recently rang up his 100th career win. Claprood, like Lowder and numerous other valley baseball coaches, is a product of Cal Poly Pomona where he learned his lessons under Bronco skipper John Scolinos.

He has obviously learned them well, for the Owls won the M.C. last year and finished as runnerup in the state JC playoffs. This season Citrus is again on top of the Mission standings going into the final rounds of conference activity.

Newlee has tenure

Basketball is where the local JCs really have the "old pros", as Barney Newlee has been at the helm of the Chaffey cage squad for 22 years and Gene Victor has tutored the MSAC cagers for 17 years. Citrus' Neil Edwards has "only" seven years in as head cage mentor for the Owls, so he's the "rookie" of the group.

In football, Owl coach John Strycula is the veteran among the locals, with nine years as head coach at the Azusa campus. MSAC's Mal Eaton has been on the job for six years, while Chaffey's Mike Merandi is the lone first-year man in the group. Merandi will be serving his first year as head coach for the Panthers this fall.

Its good to have that sort of consistency among the local coaching ranks. When I send out letters to them its a lot easier to use their names instead of "to whom it may concern"!

Money can laugh about HR

MILWAUKEE (AP) —Don Money can laugh about it now—sort of.

The Milwaukee Brewers' third baseman still is rankled that what would have been his game winning grand slam home run against the New York Yankees April 10 was nullified because the first base umpire ruled he had called time out prior to the pitch.

So, perhaps it was predictable that as soon as Money's first-inning blast off Frank Tanana had cleared the leftfield wall Monday night, half of the press corps stood up and flashed the time out sign. This time, though, the homer counted, and the three-hit pitching of Jim Colborn and Ed Rodriguez made it stand up for a 1-0 victory over California in the only American League baseball game of the night.

"Listen, when I came up the second time tonight, Jerry Neudecker, the plate umpire, told me he was going to tell me as I crossed the plate after the homer, 'I called time out,'" Money said, chuckling.

"I said, 'The hell with you, Jerry,'" he said. "I've gotten that three or four times now since the real time out thing. It's not so funny, man, you know?"

Tanana, who allowed just one other hit and struck out 12, didn't find it very funny, either. He said he had tried to jam Money, but had thrown the ball three inches too close to the center of the plate.

"He might get that same pitch an inning or two later, but it's not going to be three inches from the corner of the plate again," said Tanana, major league strikeout leader last year with 269 in 257 innings.

"There's nobody alive that can get a home run off me on that pitch on the inside," he said. "It's off his wrists. The most he could do is foul it off. It was just three inches too much toward the middle. Even the way it was, what was it—30 feet fair?"

"If he said he was only three inches off, he was probably right," Money said. "It wasn't that bad a pitch for him. It was an inside fast ball, and maybe he figured I would be looking for something outside. He didn't put it quite where he wanted but, heck, he struck me out the next time. He's got the best stuff of any left-hander in the league."

Colborn, who has allowed just one earned run and 13 hits in 22 innings, carried a three-hitter into the ninth inning and had permitted only two Angel runners to reach scoring position.

But he issued a leadoff walk to Andy Etchebarren in the ninth, and Jerry Remy's sacrifice put the tying run on second base. After a walk to Bobby Bonds, Rodriguez relieved and recorded his fifth save by inducing Bill Melton to bounce into a game ending double play.

"We've got seven wins and Eddie's got five saves. That's some kind of pitching," Brewer Manager Alex Grammas said. "As long as he gets them out, I'm not afraid to go to him."

Marshall hears boos from fans

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — Mike Marshall hears the boos from the Dodger Stadium fans and he doesn't like it.

"I have great sympathy for those who have to live with people who boo," Marshall said after he retired six straight Pirates to save Tommy John's first victory in nearly two years Monday night.

Marshall has been the target of the boobirds for his outspoken views of almost everything plus his refusal to conform to the standards fans expect from their heroes.

"When I hear those boos, I am disappointed with my fellow man," he continued. "If you're really a Dodger fan, you would accomplish a lot more with honey rather than vinegar. It's really a shame because fans should come out and enjoy the game."

Marshall said the booing doesn't affect his pitching.

"It won't distract me, I assure you that," he stated. "It's better for the entire club not to have to listen to that bleep."

Marshall then explained what a fan's role is. "They should enjoy the game and support both teams and support the home club. If they don't think the team is giving its best effort, it's certainly their right not to show up. I won't ever be accused of that, I promise you."

The Michigan State professor did praise the L.A. hockey fans for the way they cheered on the Kings.

"I'm pleased with the hockey crowd," he said. "They've proven themselves to be real sports fans."

Marshall also feels he is off to a great start this season despite a 3.37 earned run average.

"I'm very pleased with my start because typically, I'm a slow starter," the relief ace said. "Statistics don't tell the story. Four of my earned runs scored in San Francisco because of the wind and I had an earned run charged against me here on a hit which should have been scored an error."

The scorekeeping at Dodger Stadium doesn't please Marshall.

"It's bleep," he said, "and the players don't appreciate it because the statistics mean dollars at the end of the year. Whoever is doing the scoring is sure having trouble."

National League says no again

CHICAGO (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said he's disappointed, but the American League couldn't be happier that the National League voted down expansion into Toronto and Washington, D.C., in 1977.

"Well, I guess it's back in my lap," Kuhn said Monday after the National League voted 7 to 5 to reject a proposal to move into the two cities.

Earlier this month, Kuhn instructed the American League, which approved expansion into Toronto on March 29, to include a plan to provide Washington with baseball or lose the right to place a team in the Canadian city to the NL. When the American League owners failed to come up with a plan acceptable to Kuhn, he gave the National League two weeks to consider expansion into the two cities.

"I'm extremely disappointed. My efforts to provide basebll for Washington will continue," said Kuhn, who reportedly has received pressure from Congress to return baseball to the nation's capital after a five-year absence.

Kuhn said that now he is not certain what route he will take to restore baseball in Washington. "At this point, I don't want to try to answer that question precisely," he said.

"I will be talking to the members of the congressional committee and the members of my own executive council...and, after we get through that process, I will have something further to say about what the next step might be."

Meanwhile, AL President Lee MacPhail clearly was thrilled by the NL vote to leave the field open to his league.

"That is tree-mendous ! Great news," he said.

The National League took a similar expansion vote, but only for Toronto, on the same day the American League approved expansion into the Canadian city. On that date, the National League owners rejected the expansion proposal 10-2 with Cincinnati and Philadelphia casting dissenting votes.

National League President Chub Feeney, who announced Monday's 7-5 vote, did not identify the three clubs which shifted positions.

Local baseball coaches pass milestones

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

Three local college coaches who reached milestones in recent action were honored at the weekly Progress Bulletin luncheon at the Castaway Restaurant Monday.

Cal Poly's John Scolinos won his 700th game in a 27-year coaching career last Friday, while Chaffey's Howard Lowder reached the 200-win level in action last week. La Verne's Ben Hines also hit a milestone recently as his Leos won their 400th game under his guidance.

Honored as High School Player of the Week at the luncheon was Butch Long of Walnut High. Winning the College Player of the Week award was Bruce MacPherson of Cal Poly, while Bob Veselic nabbed the JC award.

Long, MacPherson and Veselic are all pitchers, as hurlers continued to dominate the weekly player awards.

Righthander Long pitched Walnut into a share of first place in the Hacienda League last Friday by blanking Bonita on only two hits. It was the Mustang senior's fourth win in five league outings.

MacPherson picked up two complete-game victories for the Broncos last week. He downed U. San Diego 4-2 on Monday and came back to beat Cal Poly SLO 5-4 in ten innings on Friday.

Veselic pitched a four-hitter and fanned nine as the Mounties downed South Coast Conference foe San Diego Mesa 5-1 last Tuesday. It was Veselic's fifth straight win.

Quoting the coaches:

BEN HINES, La Verne — "We pretty much wrapped up our conference with the win over Claremont-Mudd last Tuesday. We still have some conference games left but we feel realistically that we're in there as far as the conference title is concerned. We now hope to gain some momentum for the playoffs.

"We swung the bats real well against Claremont, which was a surprise as we were coming off a nine-day layoff. We beat Caltech twice on Saturday, there is not much to be said about that. They are not a real good ball club. Jim Vallone didn't pitch that well last week but beat both Claremont and Caltech, he's now won five straight.

"We have Caltech on Tuesday, a doubleheader at Chapman on Wednesday and two at Redlands on Saturday. We will use five pitchers to get them some work, Paul McGuire will go Tuesday, Fernie Tarin and Joe McLaughlin on Wednesday and Vallone and Tim Kelly on Saturday."

BILL ARCE, Claremont-Mudd — "The La Verne loss was most disappointing, that makes them the conference champs as far as I'm concerned. Our pitching is in trouble, Norm Richards has not pitched in a while due to some soreness in his shoulder, we really don't know what's wrong with him.

"We have a makeup game Thursday at UC Riverside and a doubleheader on Saturday vs. Caltech. It's going to be tough to get motivated for Caltech, but we need those wins to stay in second in the league. We are very pleased with the play of Wyn Moore, who is hitting .491 in conference. Andy Roundtree has also done an excellent job and is hitting .404 in conference."

JOHN SCOLINOS, Cal Poly — "We had a good week as we won five of six games. We beat Cal Poly SLO two out of three in conference so we are right in the running for the CCAA title.

"MacPherson pitched very well for us, and Ken Hellyer had a big week with the bat as he had 10 hits in 22 at bats and drove in five runs. He's hitting .384 on the year now.

"We have a game Tuesday night at UCLA, Tom Rosenstein will start that one for us. We then have a big three-game series with UC Riverside starting Friday. MacPherson will pitch the Friday game and we'll come back with Mike Regus and Rick Schwenn."

HOWARD LOWDER, Chaffey — "we won two of three last week and really should have won the third game. We left 13 men on base against Saddleback and lost 7-4. We still are not swinging the bat like we should, we have four of our sophomores hitting around .200 and our team batting average is only .268. We normally hit around .300 as a team, so I'm kind of puzzled as to what the problem is.

"We have our biggest week of the season this week, as we have three big games at home. We play Citrus on Tuesday and Saturday and San Diego City on Thursday. Kenny Shea will start for us on Tuesday, and probably come back again on Saturday. I'm not sure who will go on Thursday. We're a tough club, we'll be in there all the way."

ART MAZMANIAN, MSAC — "Our bubble burst Thursday with a ninth-inning loss to Santa Ana. We lost 4-3 in the ninth on a couple throwing errors, that's a tough way to lose a game. On Saturday we were beaten 3-0 at Grossmont, as their pitcher Steve Baker struck out 10. He has an excellent fast ball, and we just couldn't come through in the clutch.

"We play Cerritos on Tuesday, I'll throw Veselic against them, he's really looking forward to pitching against them again. I'd like to beat them, it won't make much difference in our conference but it would give our guys a lot of personal satisfaction. We play East L.A. on Thursday in a makeup game, and then have Fullerton at our place on Saturday. I'll give John VanderWende a start on Thursday, and go with Kevin Chapman on Saturday."

TERRY MURPHY, Walnut High — "We're in first now in the Hacienda League and if we play our type of ball we can finish up there. We have been getting excellent pitching from Long and Bob Cordova as we have only had one inning of relief pitching in our 11 league games.

"We have developed a lot of poise since we beat Royal Oak 1-0 and have played well since then. We finish up with games with San Dimas, Royal Oak and Alta Loma which is a tough schedule but we are confident we can beat those teams."

Schmidt ties April HR record

By Associated Press

Baseballs must be afraid of getting hit by Mike Schmidt's red-hot bat. How else do you account for the fact that he gets runs across the plate these days even when he strikes out?

The 26-year-old third baseman of the Philadelphia Phillies has always had a propensity for swinging and missing. After all, he has fanned 486 times in 477 major league games.

But when he connects, he usually hits the ball a long way, leading the majors with 36 home runs in 1974 and again with 38 last season. And Schmidt has never been hotter than he is now with a record-tying April shower of 11 homers.

Nos. 10 and 11 came in the third and fourth innings Monday night. So when Schmidt stepped to the plate against Cincinnati's Rawly Eastwick in the eighth inning of a tie game with Dave Cash on third base and one out, eager Philadelphia fans were hoping for No. 12.

Instead, like the mighty Casey of baseball lore, Schmidt struck out on an 0-2 pitch. But the ball escaped catcher Johnny Bench for a passed ball and Cash raced home with the run that gave the Phils a 10-9 triumph over the Reds.

"I was a little overanxious on the pitch," Schmidt said. "But I'll take 'em any way I can get 'em. I didn't even know he had dropped it. He doesn't drop many, but he's human."

Schmidt's 11 home runs—he also has a double and four singles—equals the mark of 11 also shared by Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell (1971) and Graig Nettles of the New York Yankees (1974).

"Hey, I'm not going to quit after April," Schmidt jested. "I'm not concerned with records. Maybe after I'm out of baseball they will be nice. The only records I'm interested in are the won and lost records."

Before Bench's passed ball it was a battle of homers, with George Foster and Bob Bailey connecting for the Reds and, in addition to Schmidt's pair, a two-run shot by Philadelphia's Bobby Tolan in the seventh that tied the score 9-9.

Elsewhere in the National League, Tommy John notched his first triumph in almost two years as the Los Angeles Dodgers whipped the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-1, the St. Louis Cardinals outlasted the San Francisco Giants 15-7, the New York Mets downed the Atlanta Braves 3-1 and the San Diego Padres beat the Chicago Cubs 6-2. Houston at Montreal was postponed because of cold weather and wet grounds.

Cardinals 15, Giants 7

St. Louis, behind 7-1 after one inning, finally pulled ahead on Keith Hernandez' pinch triple and Bake McBride's sacrifice fly in the sixth. Ten of the St. Louis runs were unearned, including all six in a wild eighth inning, which included a fight between Giant pitcher Charlie Williams and Cardinal second baseman Vic Harris, who was hit by a pitch. Former St. Louis third baseman Ken Reitz, in his first at-bat against the Cards, hit a three-run homer in the first inning.

Mets 3, Braves 1

Mickey Lolich tossed a five-hitter and struck out nine for his first NL victory and Ron Hodges ripped a two-run single off Dick Ruthven in the second inning. The only run off Lolich, the long-time Detroit star who was pitching in 43-degree weather, was unearned.

Padres 6, Cubs 2

Rookie Jerry Turner's two-run triple in the fifth inning rallied San Diego. Turner, an outfielder, was making his first start of the season in place of injured John Grubb. His triple put the Padres ahead 3-2 and, after San Diego boosted its lead to 5-2 in the sixth, 23-year-old Butch Metzger came on to blank the Cubs over the final 2 1/3 innings for his first save of the season. It was Metzger's ninth appearance and he has yet to give up an earned run in 15 1-3 innings.

Pack's Pompa blanks Chino

By BRENT SHYER
PB Correspondent

Claremont High's Mil Pompa pitched a two-hitter and got plenty of hitting support from his Wolfpack teammates, as the 'Pack pounded the Chino Cowboys, 9-0 Monday afternoon at Claremont's diamond.

The senior southpaw pitcher gave up only two singles while striking out nine Cowboys.

The 'Pack put two runs in the bank in the second inning to give Pompa the only runs he really needed. In that frame, Mike Davis hit a shot to right field that Pat Krysiak had trouble finding in the sun and it went off his glove for a three-base error. Dick Bell then dropped a soft bloop single to left field scoring Davis.

Claremont catcher Brent Bosson executed a perfect run-and-hit single to right field to place Bell on third. As the Cowboys picked off B

Poly 9th in baseball rankings

Cal Poly Pomona, rebounding from a slow start this year, has vaulted to the number nine spot on the Collegiate Baseball NCAA Division II poll.

The Broncos (27-24-1) figure to move up even further on the next Division II poll as they bumped off second-ranked U. San Diego twice last week. Other Southern California schools ranked in the top ten include Chapman (ranked fifth) and Cal State Northridge (ranked eighth). Rollins College of Florida, with a 23-9 season mark, is the top-ranked Division II school.

UC Riverside, the Broncos' foe this weekend, is ranked 13th on the poll.

Claremont-Mudd drew support in the Collegiate Baseball Division III rankings. The Stags were tabbed sixth in that grouping, the lone California school to make the top ten. Whittier was ranked 12th.

La Verne could do no better than 14th on the Collegiate Baseball's NAIA rankings. Lewis University was the top-ranked NAIA team, while Marietta College of Ohio nabbed the top-spot in the NCAA Division III poll.

Here are the NCAA Division I national rankings, as compiled by Collegiate Baseball:
1. Arizona State (41-7)
2. Florida State (25-7)
3. Arizona (32-13)
4. Memphis State (23-4)
5. Texas (25-10)

Youth cops skating title

Eight-year-old Rick Hinds of Pomona added another roller speed skating honor to his list recently by placing first in the Pacific Coast Championships held at Vancouver, Washington.

Hinds is a third-grade student at St. Josephs School in Pomona. His next competition will be a try for the National roller speed skating championship in his age group.

Pistons, Bullets rise to occasion

By Associated Press

Poise. The ability to perform under pressure, to rise to the occasion when the game moves up a notch in tempo and intensity. It's what playoff basketball is all about.

The Detroit Pistons, given little chance against mighty Golden State, squandered most of a 16-point lead but held on to beat the defending champion Warriors 106-102 at Detroit Monday night, evening their National Basketball Association playoff series at 2-2.

"We showed a lot of poise when they had us on the ropes," crowed Pistons Coach Herb Brown. "A lot of people say we can't win a pressure game. Well, this was a pressure game if there ever was one. In the last month and a half we've won a lot of pressure games."

In another best-of-seven quarter-final series, the Washington Bullets—beaten in the finals by Golden State last year—barely managed to stay alive. The Bullets wasted a 17-point advantage and had to go into overtime to beat the Cleveland Cavaliers 102-98 at Landover, Md. and even that series at 3-3.

"We didn't lay down and die after we lost that 17-point lead," said a proud Bullets Coach K.C. Jones. "Now that we're in a seventh game, I guess the pressure is on both of us."

Cleveland Coach Bill Fitch is confident his club, in its first playoff ever, will not buckle under the winner-take-all pressure of Thursday's seventh game, for which the Cavs will have the homecourt advantage.

"I don't think pressure will be the deciding factor," said Fitch. "Our big pressure game was the second game, when after losing the opener in Cleveland we came back to even the series by winning here at Landover. If we were going to crumble, that would have been the time for it."

Phoenix star Paul Westphal, whose team holds a 3-2 edge and can wrap up its quarterfinal series against Seattle by winning tonight's game in Phoenix, is one player who has managed to ignore the playoff pressure.

After the Suns lost Game Five on Sunday, Westphal said, "All this means is that we have to play them another game. The better team is going to win this series. If they should happen to beat us two more times, they deserve it."

Seattle forward Bruce Seals, who came up with 28 points and 11 rebounds in his best game of the series, is another cool customer.

"I was pretty loose," he said. "I didn't feel there was too much pressure. Of course, if we had lost, there was no tomorrow."

In the remaining quarterfinal series, the Boston Celtics hope to have captain John Havlicek back from a foot injury for the fourth game of their set against the Buffalo Braves in Buffalo Wednesday. Boston leads the series 2-1.

"It's improved dramatically in the last couple of days," said Havlicek of his injured foot.

Tuesday night's games were remarkably similar in that both winning teams failed to hold big leads, but managed to win anyway.

Washington raced ahead by 17 points in the second period, but Cleveland closed to within 49-44 at the half. A basket by the Cavs' Jim Cleamons with 2:02 to play in regulation tied the score 88-88, then the two teams traded misses, Wes Unseld of Washington finally failing on a layup with three seconds to play.

The Bullets then reeled off the first six points of the overtime and Cleveland never caught up. A three-point play by Elvin Hayes and two free throws by Phil Chenier in the final minute clinched the verdict.

Hayes finished with 28 points, 13 rebounds and eight blocked shots. Chenier scored 24 points while Unseld had 18 rebounds, eight assists and six points. Austin Carr topped the Cavs with 27 points.

Detroit led by 16 points going into the final period, but the Warriors pulled to within 104-102 and had the ball for a shot at a tie. But Golden State's Phil Smith, who led all scorers with 31 points, missed a shot with seven seconds to go. Detroit's Howard Porter snared the rebound, was fouled and sank two free throws for the final margin.

Center Bob Lanier led the Pistons with 30 points, including 11 in the final period as his team struggled to hang on.

"Now it narrows down to two out of three," said Warriors Coach Al Attles, looking to Game Five in Oakland Wednesday.

Rested Canadiens take on Islanders

By Associated Press

They have played four games in 23 days, so if nothing else, the Montreal Canadiens should be well rested when they open their best-of-seven National Hockey League semifinal playoff series at home against the New York Islanders tonight.

The Philadelphia Flyers, meanwhile, must put their penalty and arrest-strewn seven-game quarter-final series against Toronto out of their minds when they host the Boston Bruins in the first game of the next series that will test their reign as two-time defending Stanley Cup champions.

"I don't think in Boston there will be any discussion of violence," said Flyers Coach Fred Shero, who looked on as four of his players were arrested on various charges in Toronto during a series which saw nearly 500 minutes in penalties called. "You can't win when you take 10 penalties to the other guys' one. I'm satisfied that the fellows learned something about taking cheap penalties."

Despite their inactivity, the Canadiens have learned the same thing—mostly because their semifinal opponents tied a regular season record by scoring 92 goals during power plays, a mark set first by Montreal.

"It's going to be very important for us to stop their power play, and for us to have our power play going," said Montreal center Pete Mahovlich. After the Canadiens went through their final rehearsal for the Islanders, the massive 6-foot-5 pivotman added Monday that the Canadiens also must stop New York defenseman Denis Potvin.

"We can't allow him to control the play the way he does," said Mahovlich. "No matter what way you look at it, Potvin is the one we've got to stop. He's the guy, although they've got a fine all-around team."

But so do the Canadiens, whose free-skating offense is led by the line for which Mahovlich is the center. With Steve Shutt on left wing and 56-goal scorer Guy Lafleur on the left, the trio accounted for 135 goals and 309 points. Other powers on the attack that scored 337 goals in the regular season include youngsters Doug Risebrough, Mario Tremblay and Yvon Lambert, and veterans Yvan Cournoyer and Jacques Lemaire.

That complements a defense which had the league's best regular season record with goalie Ken Dryden winning the Vezina Trophy. Big, strong Pierre Bouchard was outstanding during the Canadiens' four-game quarter-final sweep of the Chicago Black Hawks, as were Serge Savard and Guy Lapointe.

The Bruins-Flyers series will be a match of two of the league's strongest physical teams—both of which needed the seven-game limit to oust their quarter-final opponents. The home edge definitely will favor Philadelphia, says Toronto defenseman Borje Salming.

"They play so well at home, almost no one can beat them there," said Salming.

The Bruins, one of two teams to beat the Flyers in Philadelphia during the season, hope to repeat that feat. Conversely, the Flyers have won only twice in 24 games at Boston, including playoffs.

Pep, UCLA in finals

MISSION, Kan. (AP) — Pepperdine College and Ohio State University accepted invitations Monday to play in this weekend's National Collegiate Athletic Association volleyball championship at Ball State University in Muncie, Ind.

Defending champion UCLA and Springfield, Mass., complete the four-team field for the tournament. UCLA plays Springfield and Pepperdine meets Ohio State Friday night in the semifinals with winners advancing to the finals Saturday night.

Bill Sharman fulfills dream

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — "As a kid growing up in California," recalled Bill Sharman, "I always wanted to be a major league baseball player, but then things turned out different."

The difference was highlighted Monday when Sharman, former Boston Celtic standout and now coach of the Los Angeles Lakers, was inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame here.

"An important reason I'm here...is that I had a chance to play under Red Auerbach (former Boston coach and now general manager) and with people like Bob Cousy, Bill Russell, Tommy Heinsohn and the Joneses (Sam and K.C.)," Sharman said.

"I just feel very humble, I don't feel very famous. I'm still pinching myself, hoping that it's true."

Cousy, Russell, Heinsohn and the Joneses all played with Sharman during the 1950s.

Sharman led Celtics' scorers from 1955 through 1959, and holds the club record for foul shooting with a .932 average in 1958-59.

Sharman, who played minor league baseball with a Brooklyn Dodgers' farm club, was critical of the "no-cut" contracts being offered players now.

"Sometimes this hurts incentive," he said. "There's no incentive for players to correct their weaknesses. The big salaries are fine, but only after they prove themselves."

Also inducted into the shrine were Tom Gola, standout LaSalle College player who later turned pro; Edward "Moose" Krause of Notre Dame, and Harry Litwack, retired Temple University coach.

At a banquet Monday night, Hank Iba, who coached the last three U.S. Olympic basketball teams, said "dunking" has hurt the game of basketball.

"It takes away the team aspect and turns the game into a circus starring the big man who dunks the ball," said the former Oklahoma State coach.

He also said the Soviet Union will be very strong in basketball this year at Montreal.

Iba was presented the John W. Bunn Award for service to basketball.

Klu has daily challenge

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — On the surface it would seem that being the hitting instructor for the Cincinnati Reds would be a breeze, what with the talents of Pete Rose, Joe Morgan, Johnny Bench and Tony Perez.

Yet, beneath the surface there is a daily challenge to Ted Kluszewski, who spent 14 years in the big leagues learning his trade.

"They must believe in you," says Kluszewski, who had a career batting average of .298 with 279 home runs. "Some do. Some don't. You never know. You go on and give out with the wisdom and hope.

"Sometimes a guy looks like he isn't listening. You worry about him. Then you hear him talking to someone else, a hitter from another team maybe, and he's using the same words you used. Then you know you've gotten through."

Kluszewski uses different approaches for different batters.

"Pete Rose is teachable," he says. "He has only one problem. He gets a little loop in his swing and it slows him up. He does it by dropping his hands. So you have to harp on him about keeping his hands up."

A Johnny Bench, Kluszewski continues, "sometimes doesn't listen. You may talk to someone else about hitting while he's standing nearby. He'll listen in and know you're talking about him. He'll pick it up and think it was his own idea."

One of Kluszewski's biggest major sucesses has been with outfielder Cesar Geronimo. When he came to the Reds from Houston, there were those who were ready to attach a permanent "good-field, no-hit;; label.

"His trouble was that he had a bad swing," says Kluszewski, whose nickname of 'Big Klu' is well-earned because of his 6-foot-2, 260-pound frame. "I don't normally like to change a man's swing. That makes him think when he's hitting and you really can't hit and think at the same time. But we had to rebuild Geronimo's entire swing to make him nit."

His current project is Dave Concepcion, who has spent most of his time in a deep slump.

"His swing just came apart," explains Kluszewski. "It was in two parts—first stride, then swing."

Slowly, now he's coming around, after Kluszewski started him back on the fundamentals of hitting off a batting tee.

Every player needs help with his batting at some time in his career, and Kluszewski admits he was no exception.

He recalls he had to learn to pull the ball because of the way pitchers kept the ball in tight. Pitchers threw inside to Kluszewski as a matter of survival. His normal stroke was through the middle and he hit as vicious a shot through the middle as anyone who ever played the game.

Nuggets, Colonels ready for showdown

DENVER (AP) — "We even lost the fight," said Denver Coach Larry Brown, a picture of dejection after his Nuggets failed to wrap up their American Basketball Association playoff series with the Kentucky Colonels.

Brown referred to a benchclearing skirmish late in the third quarter Sunday that initially involved Denver's Marvin Webster and Kentucky's Jim McDaniels.

"I was holding my guys back, and Maurice Lucas and Ron Thomas ran out and gave cheap shots," Brown said of the Kentucky players. "That doesn't say much for them."

Sunday's 119-115 double-overtime loss represented another playoff disappointment for Brown, whose team had breezed to the ABA regular-season title with a 60-24 record.

The series against Kentucky has been highly competitive and is now squared at 3-3, with the seventh and deciding game scheduled here Wednesday night.

"What can I say?" Brown said. "We played our hearts out and have nothing to show for it."

The winner of Wednesday's game meets New York in the best-of-seven championship series. The Nets defeated San Antonio 121-114 Saturday to win that series 4-3.

If Denver is to play the Nets, they'll have to contain Kentucky guard Bird Averitt, who tossed in 34 points Sunday and has been a factor in each Colonel victory despite being hampered with tonsolitis and accompanying high temperature and nausea.

"Bird is our catalyst," said Kentucky Coach Hube Brown. "That rascal has meant so much to us in the series. Without him, we've suffered."

There was some concern toward the end of Sunday's game that Averitt might have to miss the finale. He pulled up lame with a slight achilles tendon injury, but the Colonels' team physician said he thought the rest until Wednesday would be sufficient for Averitt to return to action.

"If Bird is unable to play Wednesday, then somebody else will have to accept the responsibility," said Brown. "It should be a great game. Whichever team wins, it is going to deserve it."

Averitt's performance Sunday offset an equally brilliant shooting effort by Denver's Ralph Simpson, who scored 35 points. Simpson's basket gave Denver a 97-93 lead with 1:30 left in regulation, but Averitt then drilled a pair of jumpers to force the game into overtime.

Averitt canned three straight shots in the first extra session, but Simpson tied it at 107-107 with 28 seconds left. Averitt blew open the second overtime with three more baskets tht gave the Colonels a six-point lead they didn't relinquish.

Kentucky forward Wil Jones iced the victory with a pair of key plays in the final minute. He stole an inbounds pass from Denver's David Thompson, and later used the full 24 seconds on the shot clock before hitting the Colonels' final basket with four seconds to play.

The Nuggets are happy to return home for the seventh game. But, as center Dan Issel said, "If we can't beat them on our home court, then we deserve to lose this series."

NEIGHBORHOOD HOME BEAUTIFUL CONTEST

To give recognition to those residents who have contributed so much to the beauty of Pomona by the care they have taken of the outside appearance of their property, Pomona Beautiful announces an award program.

There are two parts to this contest: recognition for those who have maintained high standards of care of their property during the past year or more, and also recognition for those who have recently fixed up and improved a property.

Certificates of recognition will be presented to those winning in each neighborhood. A few of the most outstanding homes will be designated as Home of the Week. Entries must be received by May 10, 1976.

More women than men, but a long way to go

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are more women than men in America, and the women live longer. But females have a long way to go before pulling even with males in jobs and education.

Such are the findings in one of the most comprehensive reports ever compiled on the status of American women.

The report, the first of its kind by the Census Bureau, shows demographic, social and economic trends among women.

It shows women comprise 51.3 per cent of the population of 213,137,000. There are 5.6 million more women than men. By 1973, women could expect to live an average of nearly eight years longer than men, compared with 3.5 years longer in 1930.

The figures show the number of women in the labor force nearly doubled between 1950 and 1974 to 35.9 million, while the number of men increased by only one-fourth to 57.3 million. But the income differences between men and women remain substantial — the median earnings for women were $6,772 in 1974, compared with $11,835 for men.

The report shows that among people ages 25 to 29, approximately 77 women had completed at least four years of college for every 100 men in 1975, compared with 66 women for every 100 men in 1950.

"Of course, the women's movement has had an impact," said Paula J. Schneider, who headed a group of census staffers to plan and coordinate the report. "But it's hard to say if the movement was a cause or an effect. The movement was helped because lots of women had to work, and it encouraged women by publicizing the fact that the working woman was not alone."

Mrs. Schneider, who works in the bureau's population division, said that she hopes the women's movement will work to improve salaries for women and day care.

"They should encourage women to go into more traditionally male fields like science and engineering because that's where the job openings will be in the future," she said. "They won't be in the social or educational fields which have traditionally been considered women's jobs."

Other findings in the report show:

—A growing proportion of women are single or divorced and not remarried. In 1975, almost 40 per cent of women ages 20 to 24 were single, compared with 28 per cent in 1950.

—The number of female-headed families has increased by 73 per cent since 1960 to 7.2 million. They now comprise 13 per cent of all families.

—Women have gone from a near-record high fertility rate in the late 1950s to an all-time low in recent years. Women under 30 are increasingly favoring the two-child family.

The report shows that one of the strongest indications of the changing social and economic role of women in the last two decades has been their entry into the labor force.

By 1974, there were 63 women for every 100 men in the labor force, compared with 41 women for every 100 men in 1950, the material shows.

Also, the government figures show the number of working wives also has risen dramatically from 25 per cent in 1950 to 44 per cent in 1975. Working wives now contribute approximately 27 per cent of the family's total income, compared with 20 per cent in 1960.

At the same time, the report shows that in both 1970 and 1974, the median income of women college graduates age 25 and older who worked full-time was only 60 per cent of comparable male median incomes. The authors write that women college graduates had incomes that were, on the average, lower than men who had only a high school education.

BIG PAINTING JOB

Two painters on a scaffold are dwarfed as they paint the side of the Vehicle Assembly Building at the Kennedy Space Center in Florida, working to complete the world's largest American Flag ever painted. Ford opens drive to curb drug abuses

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford urged Congress today to provide stronger penalties, including mandatory minimum prison sentences for drug traffickers, to fight the "national tragedy" of drug abuse.

In a special message to legislators, the President warned of a "worsening drug situation" and said it is necessary to take stronger action against the drug traffickers.

In addition to more severe prison sentences, Ford called for denying bail to previous offenders, cracking down on tax enforcement against big drug traffickers "to take the easy profits out of drug selling" and permitting the Customs Service to search persons suspected of smuggling drug-profit money out of the country.

Ford said he is setting up two new Cabinet committees — one for drug law enforcement, the other for drug abuse prevention, treatment and rehabilitation — headed respectively by the attorney general and the secretary of health, education and welfare.

In addition, the President said he is calling on the Treasury and the Internal Revenue Service to help develop a tax enforcement program aimed at high-level drug traffickers.

"We know that many of the biggest drug dealers do not pay income taxes on the enormous profits they make," Ford said. He urged a program to bring effective enforcement of tax laws against these violators.

Ford said he was also intensifying diplomatic efforts with other governments to help fight the drug problem on an international level.

Services cutback, job layoffs loom

LOS ANGELES (AP) — County taxpayers will be paying more for less if the Board of Supervisors adopts a proposed budget.

A $3.2 billion spending plan handed to the board Monday and covering the fiscal year beginning July 1 would cost property owners 41 cents more for every $100 of assessed value — $41 for the owner of a $40,000 home.

And the man who proposed the spending plan, county Chief Adminstrative Officer Harry Hufford, said the county's financial situation would also necessitate a cutback in services and possible job layoffs as well.

The proposed budget, representing an increase of 3.9 per cent over th current one, would push the basic countywide property tax rate to the limit set by a state-devised formula: $4.93 for every $100 of assessed value.

The proposed increase would require four of the five supervisors to declare that the county faces a fiscal emergency requiring the additional increment. The board formally receives the budget today.

The "emergency," Hufford said, is a temporary cash-flow problem caused by a shortage of reserve funds.

The budget would also reduce the number of county workers from its present level of 84,000. Hufford's proposal gives the supervisors the option of cutting about 2,400 jobs and saving some $15 million, or phasing in the decrease by maintaining a hiring freeze and shifting workers from eliminated jobs.

Affected by the proposed cutback in services would be, among others, residents who depend on the county to provide such necessities as health care; community-action groups who would lose county support, and bus patrons, whose bill is borne in part by the county.

Hit hardest would be health services, which presently takes some 21 cents of each tax dollar. The partial hiring freeze in all county hospitals would continue, and inpatient services at Long Beach General Hospital would be ended Nov. 1, although the hospital would continue operating as a health center.

Public hearings — as required by state law — on the proposed cutbacks have been scheduled before the board for June 11.

Intelligence budget battle on

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate now must decide whether to reveal the U.S. budget for spying and whether to approve any of the Senate intelligence committee's 86 recommendations for tightening control over spy agencies.

White House aides say they will make a major effort to dissuade the Senate from disclosing the U.S. intelligence budget, which was deleted at the last moment from the intelligence committee's final report.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield says he favors publication of the intelligence budget figure and predicts the Senate will vote on the issue within the next 10 days.

The intelligence committee voted 6 to 5 Monday not to include the figure in its 651-page report on foreign and military intelligence.

The report, saying covert operations by U.S. intelligence agencies have misled the American public and threatened the independence of churches, universities and the news media, recommended congressional action to restrict those activities.

For example, the report said the CIA should be the only agency authorized to conduct covert actions. There also should be a law barring covert operations that involve political assassinations and efforts to subvert democratic governments, the report said.

Other information contained in the report indicated that the United States may spend about $4 billion a year on spy activities that include well-run satellite reconnaissance programs. That figure does not include domestic intelligence gathering, which will be dealt with in a separate committee report later this week.

The committee's recommendations for changes in the law appear headed for various fates and also would have to win approval of the House and the president.

Pope names 20 new Cardinals—1 American

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI named 19 new cardinals today, including Archbishop William Wakefield Baum of Washington, D. C., further rejuvenating and internationalizing the Church body that elects popes — the Sacred College of Cardinals. The names of two additional new cardinals were kept secret.

Archbishop Baum, a 49-year-old Texan, believes the Church must "do battle with racism" in the United States and in its predominantly black capital. With Archbishop Baum, there will be 12 Americans in the college, more than any other nationality except the Italians, who have 36.

Speculation that the next pope might be a non-Italian gained momementum as the new choices showed non-Italians continuing to outnumber Italians in the college.

The new elevations increased the college from 117 to 136.

Woman molester, 17, arrested in Pomona

A Pomona youth who has molested and robbed at least three women in Pomona and in Ontario was arrested Monday evening after a suspicious householder called police, investigators said.

The youth, 17, was booked on suspicion of two counts each of attempted rape and robbery. Ontario police also intend to file charges against him, according to Pomona Police Detective Jerry D. Western.

Authroities gave this account:

On March 21 the youth attacked a female real estate agent in a house in Pomona which he pretended to be interested in. He told the woman he wanted to be shown the house as a possible residence for his in-laws.

The woman, 43, was tied up and molested by the youth who took $40 from her purse before fleeing.

On March 23 he attacked a Pomona woman after being allowed into the house which had a for-sale sign in the front yard. He attempted to tie her hands also, but relented when the 32-year-old victim began to cry. He took $21 of the $44 she had in her purse, (saying that was all the money he wanted) and fled.

On the same day he attempted to enter a home on Karesh Avenue in Pomona after offering to mow the lawn for a 24-year-old woman resident. She refused his offer, but a few minutes later found him trying to open the screen door she had locked. She ordered him to leave and he did.

On April 8 in Ontario he attacked and molested another female real estate agent after making an appointment to be shown a house there. He tied up and partially disrobed the victim after threatening her with a knife. He robbed her of cash and her credit cards before fleeing.

Monday evening in Pomona he offered to mow the lawn for a Pomona woman who rejected the offer. After her husband arrived home, the youth returned and wanted to see her. The husband, who was suspicious, called police. Officer Elroy Brabender arrived and recognized the youth from a composite picture the various victims had helped create. Brabender arrested him and the youth subsequently admitted the charges. He was confined later in Juvenile Hall.

Deal dropped over expected uproar—Bailey

Predicts less than year for Patty

DETROIT (AP) — Newspaper heiress Patty Hearst first offered to cooperate with prosecutors in her bank robbery case within days of her arrest but charges against her were not dropped because of an expected uproar from the public, lawyer F. Lee Bailey said. He predicts she will spend less than a year in jail.

Prosecutors felt they couldn't "dismiss the case in the middle of the trial, which had the country in an uproar," Bailey said in a Detroit interview to be televised Sunday on the Kaiser Television Network.

"I am sure the American public would never have accepted that as an honest act," said Bailey, one of Miss Hearst's attorneys.

The lawyer said Miss Hearst, who was found guilty, made her offer to cooperate shortly after she was arrested last September and began cooperating during the trial. Bailey added that he refused to let his client plead guilty to a lesser charge, and as a result the case against Miss Hearst was not dropped.

He said a "deal" was discussed with one of the prosecutors, adding he told the prosecutor, "... I cannot plead her guilty for anything I don't think she is.

"If you demand the guilty plea, I can't give it in good conscience and I can't give it ethically. I think you should dismiss."

He did not say which of the prosecutors mentioned the "deal."

Bailey also said the unnamed prosecutor may have been reluctant to end the trial early, fearing an overwhelming outcry from the public.

"I think if they dismissed the case against Patty Hearst, people would have bombed his (the prosecutor's) house, impeached him, tarred and feathered him and probably taken it out on Gerald Ford."

Bailey's remarks contradicted statements made two weeks ago by prosecutors, who said Miss Hearst, 22, had started giving authorities information about her activities and her companions. They indicated it was a move to possibly avoid future prosecution and obtain a light sentence on her bank robbery conviction.

"I am not saying she was willing," Bailey said. "She did, in fact, give all this information personally to prosecutors while the trial was going on and this turnaround nonsense (mentioned by prosecutors two weeks ago) is beans."

Brown plans 3-day swing in Maryland

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. of California is taking his quest for the Democratic nomination for president to Maryland with a promise to wage "a campaign in the fullest sense of the word."

Brown plans three days of personal appearances in Maryland beginning Wednesday to demonstrate that he is conducting "a serious campaign" and is not just a California favorite son.

Brown also said Monday he has recorded a series of television and radio commercials which will be aired in Maryland between now and Maryland's May 18 primary.

"This is a serious campaign to bring to the Democratic party and to the American people a choice for November," he said.

This first journey by Brown outside of California since he took office 16 months ago is in part only a symbol of a national campaign for president.

Although Brown's name will appear on the Maryland ballot, he is not eligible to win any of the state's 53 delegates because he did not file a slate for the separate balloting for convention delegates.

Brown said he is ready to spend in excess of $100,000 on the Maryland primary, including radio and television commercials which were filmed at his Los Angeles home last week and flown to Maryland.

"This will be a campaign in the fullest sense of the word. I think we'll have the resources required to do it," he said.

California Democratic party chairman Charles Manatt, who is also a Brown committee co-chairman, said Brown already has raised $150,000 and expects to raise up to $750,000.

The 38-year-old governor, is on the ballot in only three states: California, Maryland and Nevada.

Brown said his campaign would stress the approach taken by his state administration.

That tact has been a mixture of conservative spending, liberal philosophy and appointments and a governing style that offers more questions than answers.

Brown said he will take the same style to his national campaign because people want "a fresh approach" which can be provided by the "new generation of leadership" which he claims to represent.

He said his priorities include "political reform, economic justice and environmental common sense."

Asked to define economic justice, Brown said: "I'm prepared for the federal government to intervene in the economy to do whatever we can to provide full employment. I don't think President Ford is willing to do that."

Brown said he conferred at length this weekend with Allard Lowenstein, a key advisor in his campaign, and by telephone with Ted Venetoulis, his Maryland campaign coordinator.

Brown also said he telephoned U.S. Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota about two weeks ago to tell Humphrey, a potential presidential candidate, of his plans.

Asked Humphrey's reaction, Brown said: "He didn't discourage me."

Brown again discouraged speculation that he is a stalking horse for Humphrey, and said there is no special significance in the call to Humphrey because he has called every announced or potential candidate.

Hughes' cousin asks for time to search for will

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A cousin of the late Howard Hughes has asked for an additional four to five weeks to complete a world-wide search for the eccentric billionaire's will.

Documents filed in Los Angeles Superior Court Monday by Richard C. Gano Jr. included a letter signed by Hughes March 3, 1938. The letter asked a Texas bank to place two envelopes — one reportedly containing the will, the other instructions — in safekeeping.

However, Gano said, that bank has since merged with another. So far, he said, only a safety deposit box key has been found, and what it opens, nobody knows.

A Southland newspaper said it had learned from a source close to the Hughes business empire that many copies of the key have been made and are being widely circulated to banks in many states. The key itself, the report said, was found in an office here formerly used by Hughes that had been kept locked until his death.

Gano, 60, of Anaheim, Calif., is one of 12 first cousins. He has been appointed administrator of Hughes' California properties.

Gano said he understood it was Hughes' intention to leave the bulk of his estate to medical research.

Annette Gano Lummis of Houston, Texas, the elderly aunt of Hughes and Gano, earlier had been appointed temporary administrator of all the Hughes holdings, but relinquished her claim to his personally held California property in a disclaimer filed Monday in conjunction with Gano's papers.

Los Angeles County Public Administrator Bruce Altman has filed a motion to vacate Gano's appointment as special administrator. A hearing on the matter was scheduled for today before Superior Court Judge Neil Lake.

Gano said Altman's interference had hampered efforts to locate the will which Hughes associates insist he left — somewhere.

Bank officials informed him it would take four to five weeks to canvass bank records in several states where Hughes could have left the will, Gano said.

"I am further informed," Gano continued, "that an exhaustive world-wide search of buildings, record storage areas, file rooms, vaults, aircraft hangars and other possible locations of evidence which would assist in the discovery of the whereabouts of such last will is continuing."

In the 1938 letter, Hughes instructed the First National Bank of Houston not to open the envelopes, but to "set aside for me a safety deposit box large enough to contain these envelopes and send the bill each year for the rental to me in care of Noah Dietrich."

Dietrich spent more than 30 years with Hughes and said after his death he believed there was a will written about 1955 and deposited in a Bank of America branch in Hollywood. Gano said in his petition that he had had difficulty searching for a will there after Altman entered the case.

He also said he had interviewed Dietrich; Nadine Henley, a longtime trusted aide of Hughes and an officer of his Summa Corp., and Eleanor Rohrbeck, who served as a night secretary to Hughes and said after his death she had typed a will in 1949 and a codicil in the early 50s.

"As a result of such inquiries," Gano said, "it is my belief that the decedent had prepared such a last will, and that such last will is presently in existence, although remaining yet undiscovered."

200 flee fire in Anaheim

ANAHEIM (AP) — An early morning fire destroyed a 77-unit apartment building under construction here today then spread to a three-story, 60-unit condominium complex nearby, forcing the evacuation of some 200 residents, Fire Department officials said.

Fire Capt. Ian MacBride said no injuries were reported but initial reports estimated damages at $500,000.

McBride said the cause of the fire, which broke out at 1:30 a.m. was under investigation.

Some 75 fire fighters from Anaheim, Garden Grove, Fullerton and Orange County battled the flames, which gutted the apartment building under construction.

McBride said firemen were still investigating how the blaze spread to the adjacent building, where 47 condominium units were ravaged by flames and the remaining 13 suffered extensive water damage.

"We had ambulances standing by but we didn't get any reports of anyone injured," said McBride.

Intelligence budget battle is on...

Two Republicans, vice chairman John Tower of Texas and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, refused to sign the committee report on the grounds that it was harmful to national security. The report "will cause severe embarrassment, if not grave harm, to the nation's foreign policy," Goldwater said.

The report, which capped a 15-month investigation, concluded that:

"Reliance on covert action has been excessive because it offers a secret shortcut around the democratic process."

According to the report, the CIA has conducted 900 major covert operations around the world since 1961.

Some of these operations have led to "questionable foreign involvements" while others have produced an unwanted "fallout" in the United States, the committee said.

Of five major covert military operations studied, the committee said it could find only one that succeeded. One of the principal concerns expressed by the committee was "the domestic impact of foreign clandestine operations."

The committee found that the CIA has:

—Planted stories in foreign publications which have been unwittingly picked up and circulated by American newspapers;

—Used American journalists and clergymen as secret agents abroad;

—Been responsible for the publication of more than 1,000 books, many of which were reviewed and marketed in the United States;

—Used thousands of U.S. scholars for intelligence and propaganda.

The panel recommended placing strict controls on future use of covert operations but stopped short of recommending that they be banned. Instead, the panel urged that laws be passed barring the agency from using U.S. journalists and clergymen and from publishing articles or books that could be circulated in the United States.

The panel stopped short of recommending a ban on the agency's secret relationships with scholars, saying instead that senior university officials should be informed of any covert contacts with professors.

The report also provided the first official description of the CIA's use of proprietaries and of "the secret war" waged by U.S. counterintelligence agents against rival spy services.

According to the report, the CIA operates a number of business enterprises with assets totaling $57 million for the purpose of providing cover and logistical support for its covert operations.

Since 1974, the 16 largest CIA "proprietary" firms have earned $50 million in profits. The largest was a firm called Air America, which provided aircraft for CIA operations in Southeast Asia and at its peak had assets of $50 million and employed more than 8,000 people.

Another agency proprietary is a complex of insurance companies with combined total assets of more than $30 million which provide death and disability payments to secret agents.

The committee did not reveal how many CIA proprietaries exist but said the number has been reduced by 50 per cent since the peak years in the 1960s.

Woman who robbed 30 banks gets 15 years

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A mother of two who is believed to have robbed 30 banks during a three-month period in order to support her $150 a day drug habit has been sentenced to 15 years in prison.

Jo Ann Ford, 28, a Los Angeles receptionist, was sentenced in federal court Monday after pleading guilty to robbing 30 local banks and savings and loan associations. All of the robberies occured between early December 1975 and Feb. 27, when Mrs. Ford surrendered to authorities.

Judge William P. Gray said he believed Mrs. Ford could be rehabilitated upon solving her drug addiction problems but added he thought a stiff sentence was warranted to discourage similar crimes.

Health improves

Patty transferred to federal center

PLEASANTON (AP) — Patricia Hearst has been whisked from her hospital bed to the Federal Youth Center, which resembles a coeducational college dormitory more than a facility for convicted felons.

Federal marshals Monday morning moved the convalescing newspaper heiress from Sequoia Hospital in Redwood City, where she was admitted after suffering a collapsed lung two weeks ago.

The convicted bank robber was driven under heavy security to the Federal Youth Center one mile north of Pleasanton. A prison official said she would remain there less than a week, then go to a federal prison in San Diego for 90 days of psychological testing before sentencing. She also faces state charges of robbery, kidnaping and assault in Los Angeles.

Hospital Associate Administrator Arthur Faro said that U.S. marshals threatened to carry Miss Hearst from the hospital after she at first resisted being abruptly moved.

"Miss Hearst's attorney, Albert Johnson, told me he was in her room at the time the marshals told her they wanted to leave immediately," Faro said in an interview.

"She wasn't quite dressed and was upset, but the marshals said 'well, we'll just wrap her up in a blanket and take her out.' Then Johnson intervened and asked that they let her finish dressing, and they agreed."

Faro said she was then taken out a side exit in a wheel chair for the 45-minute drive to Pleasanton.

Neither Johnson nor a U.S. marshal's spokesman was available for comment.

Earlier in the day, U.S. Marshal Frank X. Klein explained the transfer, saying: "We were paying the bill and we had half our staff out there at Redwood City. I was anxious to take her out of there for that reason and for the expense. But we would not take her out unless she was released by the hospital and doctors."

Her physician, Dr. John J. Prendegast, said only that his patient was doing "very well" and had gained 10 pounds during her hospital stay. She now weighs 100 pounds.

Farm workers finish initiative petition drive

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The United Farm Workers union is winding up its farm labor initiative drive and the Senate is preparing for a showdown vote on funds to revive the state's farm labor board.

Marc Grossman, a UFW spokesman, said Monday that the union plans to turn in initiative petitions Friday to registrars of voters throughout California.

He predicted the measure would quaify for the November ballot.

Meanwhile, Senate Democratic floor leader David Roberti, D-Los Angeles, said he would take up the funding bill next Monday after Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. returns from a campaign trip to Maryland.

"I think it's important that the governor be around when the bill comes up," he said.

Roberti told reporters he has 24 of the 27 votes needed to approve the $2.5 million funding bill and that six other senators are leaning "more than 90 degrees our way."

The bill would provide funds needed to revive the Agriculture Labor Relations Board, the agency that administers California's landmark farm labor law.

The board stopped holding farm labor elections in February after announcing that its first-year appropriation was running out. Since then three of the board's five members and its counsel have resigned.

Legislation by Assemblyman Daniel Boatwright, D-Concord, to provide the board with needed funds has been bottled up in the Senate by growers and their legislative allies.

Growers contend that the board has been pro-UFW. They say they want eight changes made before they'll support the law.

Those changes include sharp restrictions on the ALRB's controversial access rule, which allows union organizers to go into the fields three times a day to recruit workers.

The UFW initiative would force the legislature to keep the board funded and require a vote of the people to amend the farm labor law.

It would also place the access rule in the law.

Grossman said the UFW had gathered 495,000 signatures by last Thursday and was now in the process of recounting signatures. He said a final signature total would be announced Friday.

The union needs valid signatures of 312,404 voters to qualify the measure.

TAKEN FROM SCHOOL

Police take two students from South Boston High School Monday on the first day back to school after a spring vacation marred by racial violence. The two were arrested as about 100 white pupils chanted their opposition to new headmaster Jerome Winegar. Police said Monday night it was a "comparatively quiet day, considering the weather we've had."

Pasadena's busing plan goes to court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court is considering whether a school system must revise its court-approved desegregation plan to keep up with racial changes in population.

The court was scheduled to hear arguments today in a case from the Pasadena, Calif., school district where extensive crosstown busing has been used to comply with a 1970 desegregation order. That order said no school could have a majority of students from a racial minority.

But within a year after the court-approved plan went into effect, many white families had moved from the area, leaving a black majority in some schools.

A U.S. District Court later ruled that the school district must now come up with a new desegregation plan.

In upholding that decision, an appeals court said, "It was reasonable for the district court to conclude that full and effective elimination of racial discrimination had not been achieved during the three years following the initial year in which the Pasadena plan was in effect. If desegregation was 'accomplished' after the implementation of the Pasadena plan, such was a transitory and temporary achievement, enduring for a period of the utmost brevity."

The Pasadena school board appealed to the Supreme Court, saying that the original desegregation order did not require a racial balance "to be effective in perpetuity."

The school board's brief said it "is in no way responsible" for the 37 per cent decline in white population in the district within four years after the original decision.

It argued that the white exodus makes invalid "a rigid formula of specified racial balance to be accomplished by extensive busing."

Lawyers for the parents and students who filed the original case contended that the school board has resisted the order.

The Justice Department filed a brief supporting the original plaintiffs. "Continuing supervision with or without judicial enforcement of a desegregation plan, is necessary to deter future acts of segregation by making the contempt power available and allowing the district court promptly to rectify such acts if they occur," the Justice Department said.

In decisions Monday, the court:

—Upheld an Indiana law which has kept Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., off the ballot in the state's May 4 primary. The law requires 500 supporting signatures from each of the state's congressional districts.

—Agreed to hear arguments next fall on the constitutionality of "agency shop" agreements for public employees. Under such agreements, members of a bargaining unit are required to financially support although not to join the union which represents them.

—Agreed to hear a challenge to an East Cleveland, Ohio, ordinance providing that only one set of grandchildren, together with other family members, may live in a single family home.

—Took under advisement an appeal by two private schools from a lower court decision that such schools may not refuse to admit children because of their race. The court heard arguments for 90 minutes and is expected to rule by early summer.

Humphrey, Ford battle verbally on unemployment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is studying a bill that would require the federal government to reduce unemployment to 3 per cent, but the measure is already being attacked by President Ford, who says it would cost too much money.

The bill, which Ford called "a vast election-year boondoggle," was introduced on Monday by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey. It would require the unemployment rate to hit the 3 per cent mark within four years.

Sponsored principally by Humphrey and Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., the bill would not require the federal government to create jobs until all resources of the private sector had been utilized and all other provisions of the act had been employed.

In explaining the bill before a Senate labor subcommittee earlier this month, Humphrey said the legislation is founded on the philosophy that "if people cannot obtain employment through any other means, it is better to give them a job funded by the government than it is to write those people a check to do nothing."

But Ford said he opposes the bill as too costly, calling it "a classic example of the way the misguided majority in recent congresses reacts. Anything that seems wrong with the economy, the federal government must rush in and fix, mainly by spending more billions of dollars."

Humphrey termed the President's attack "politically motivated" and called the bill "a serious and thoughtful attempt to provide good jobs for more Americans without inflation."

The bill would set up economic planning capacity in the White House, require anti-inflation policy-making and would establish a program to stabilize state and local governments during recessions.

But the centerpiece of the act is its philosophy that "work be substituted for welfare, unemployment compensation and income maintenance spending to the maximum extent possible."

To this end, provision is made for a range of employment programs, especially in depressed areas and among groups with special unemployment problems, such as the young.

Humphrey said cutting unemployment from today's 7.5 per cent to 3 per cent by 1980 would result in some $500 billion more in economic production plus a cutbacks in welfare and the federal deficit.

He said it is impossible to estimate accurately precise costs of the plan because they will depend on the strength of economic recovery, the rate of growth in the labor force and the specific design of the job creation programs. But he said even with the type of moderate economic recovery seen by the administration, two million to three million persons still would be jobless between now and 1980.

"If we have a job gap of two million persons, the gross budgetary costs could be roughly $16 billion, with that cost falling to about $8 billion after decreased welfare and unemployment compensation payments and increased tax revenues are considered," Humphrey said.

Demo candidates highlight primary

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jimmy Carter, Henry Jackson and Morris Udall each forecast success today in Pennsylvania's presidential primary, a race that could determine whether there's room for the brokers at the Democratic National Convention.

The early turnout was sparse after polling places opened at 7 a.m. with the weather blustery, cold and mostly cloudy across the state. Polling officials could not provide an estimate of how today's early turnout compared with previous primary votes, however.

Victory by Jackson or Udall, however, would increase the possibility that Minnesota Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, an easy winner in Pennsylvania four years ago, will become a candidate after June 8, when all the primaries are over.

President Ford was alone on the Republican ballot, unchallenged in Pennsylvania by Ronald Reagan. The 103 GOP delegates will be uncommitted, though all are expected to be in Ford's pocket.

Statewide, Pennsylvanians nominated candidates for the U.S. Senate seat now held by retiring Republican Minority Leader Hugh Scott. Two congressmen are among the contestants to succeed Scott, Democrat William Green of Philadelphia and Republican H. John Heinz 3rd of Pittsburgh.

There were 2,801,649 Democrats and 2,221,639 Republicans eligible to vote. At stake were party nominations for state treasurer, state auditor general, 25 seats in Congress, half of the seats in the 50-member state Senate and all 203 state representative seats.

The 9,638 polling places in 67 counties remain open 13 hours, closing at 8 p.m.

It's the presidential sweepstakes that offers the glamour, and in Pennsylvania it was a two-part primary — 1. The nonbinding popularity contest, and 2. The election of convention delegates.

Besides the three top contenders, the Democratic ballot also listed Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, Indiana Sen. Birch Bayh, antiabortion candidate Ellen McCormack, former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris and Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp.

Shapp, Bayh and Harris quit the presidential race after failing to make any impact in the early primaries.

Give blacks majority rule in Rhodesia —Kissinger

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger called today for a rapid negotiated settlement that would install black majority rule in Rhodesia within two years.

The secretary of state also vowed "unrelenting opposition" — diplomatic, economic and psychological — to Prime Minister Ian Smith's white Rhodesian government.

The Smith regime cannot expect U.S. support at any stage of its conflict with black liberation movements, Kissinger declared at a luncheon hosted by President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia.

Reports from Rhodesia said Smith would announce the addition of several African tribal chiefs to his cabinet in a broadcast from Salisbury tonight.

In a major policy speech of his African tour, Kissinger outlined a 10-point U.S. program aimed at promoting a "just and durable" solution in Rhodesia. The points included:

—Strong support for Britain's call for black majority rule in Rhodesia within two years. "We hope that the regime in Salisbury and white opinion in Rhodesia will pay very careful attention to Dr. Kissinger's speech," the British Foreign Office said in a London statement.

—The Ford administration will urge Congress to repeal the Byrd amendment authorizing American imports of Rhodesian chrome in defiance of United Nations sanctions.

—Americans will be warned that they travel to or stay in Rhodesia at their own risk.

—U.S. economic aid for black refugees fleeing Rhodesia to neighboring countries. They already number 20,000.

—An offer of $12½ million U.S. aid for Mozambique, which is suffering economically because it closed its border with Rhodesia.

Mozambique's president, Samora Machel, arrived today in Tanzania for talks with Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere only one day after Nyerere met Kissinger. Both countries harbor nationalist guerrillas fighting the Rhodesian white regime and presumably they discussed the U.S. role in the conflict.

Pomonan arrested in murder charge

Michelangelo Benete, 22, of 1010 W. Fourth St., Pomona, was booked in the West End Jail this morning awaiting arraignment on a charge of murder.

Benete, according to police, was arrested about 3:30 a.m. Monday after Tom P. Yanes, 28, of 3995 Riverside Drive, Chino, died enroute to Doctors Hospital in Montclair of multiple gunshot wounds.

When Benete was arrested police said he was citing scriptures from the Bible and had a recently fired .22 caliber rifle in his car. He offered no resistance. Benete on the police booking sheet listed his occupation as a self-employed minister.

Police in piecing together the murder Monday said that it appeared the suspect forced his way into Yanes room at the Anchor Motel, 4834 W. Holt Blvd. in Montclair where he opened fire with a .22 rifle. Police said that a woman in the room with Yanes was not hit.

Police said that the victim and suspect were brothers-in-law and the woman in the room also was a relative. Police said that the suspect, before entering Yanes motel room, fired one shot into the tire of the victim's pickup truck to disable it. At least seven rounds were fired in the incident.

Pomona eatery robbed

Two employes of Der Wienerschnitzel at 1382 W. Holt Ave. in POMONA were forced to lie on the floor Monday night by a man who robbed the place just before closing time.

The victims were Mark Guillory, 16, and Robin Garrett, 17, both of Pomona. They said the man, described as black, in his late 20s, pulled a steak knife after entering and ordered them both to the floor. He looted the cash register and fled.

He was 6 feet 2, weighed about 150 pounds and had a mustache and goatee. He wore plaid trousers and a maroon windbreaker.

Chino youths held

Three CHINO youths were in San Bernardino County Juvenile Hall this morning after allegedly threatening two Chino High School youths with knives on campus Monday afternoon.

Police said that the three youths arrested, two from Buena Vista High School and one from Ramona Junior High School, previously had juvenile court records and were on probation. Police did not release their names because of a state Supreme Court ruling prohibiting the release of juveniles' names.

Officers this morning said that there were no injuries reported in the 2:30 p.m. incident.

Police said the three juveniles from the other schools wandered onto campus about 2 p.m. and walked to the gymnasium area where they pulled knives and threatened the two seniors working out on the weight lifting apparatus. School officials intervened and police were called to the campus.

Police said the two Chino High students were at first reluctant to identify their assailants for fear of reprisals.

Police said that the three youths arrested, a 14-year-old, a 16-year-old, and a 17-year-old, had been drinking before the incident. Police confiscated a bottle of wine and three knives from the youths.

The three were booked in Juvenile Hall for violation of probation, assault with a deadly weapon, and loitering.

Cher told to take it easy

HONOLULU (AP) — Cher Bono Allman has been released from a maternity hospital here but was advised to take it easy until she gives birth.

The 29-year-old television entertainer, who is seven months pregnant, entered Kapiolani Hospital a week ago after experiencing premature labor pains.

Her husband, rock musician Greg Allman, and her daughter, Chastity, were with her when she left the hospital Monday.

The family plans to remain in Honolulu for a few more days before returning to Los Angeles, a spokesman said.

Teacher switch to be okayed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Board of Education, despite protests from teacher groups, is expected to formally adopt a plan making all city school teachers eligible for transfer to comply with a federal teacher desegregation order.

The board is expected to approve later this week a random selection plan which would place almost all of the district's 25,000 teachers in a pool for assignment to improve the racial balance of teaching staffs at individual schools throughout the sprawling system.

United Teachers of Los Angeles, the school system's largest teachers' group, wants transfers based solely on seniority.

UTLA President Hank Springer said Monday that his group would oppose the board's plan and will submit its own desegregation plan to federal authorities.

School officials have estimated that about 2,000 shifts in teaching positions will be required to bring the district into compliance with the federal order. The district has agreed to file a plan by May 1.

Rocky"s offer aired

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — John D. "Jay" Rockefeller IV says his uncle, Nelson A. Rockefeller, offered him the late U.S. Sen. Robert Kennedy's Senate seat after Kennedy was assassinated in 1968.

Nelson Rockefeller — then governor of New York and now vice president — was unavailable for comment.

The younger Rockefeller made the disclosure Monday while campaigning at Marshall University for the Democratic nomination for governor of West Virginia.

He said that after Kennedy was assassinated while campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination, his uncle tried for 10 days to convince him to accept the seat. He eventually named Republican Rep. Charles Goodell to fill the vacancy.

Asked why he had not told of the incident sooner, Rockefeller said, "There really wasn't much to it."

Betty presents plate

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The original Declaration of Independence was too delicate to move, so First Lady Betty Ford brought the next best thing.

About 250 persons stood outdoors in a chilly breeze Monday at Franklin Court as Mrs. Ford presented the city with a 153-year-old copper plate engraving, the only facsimile made directly from the original declaration. She also delivered a print made recently from the plate by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

Petitions with 700,000 signatures were presented to President Ford in March asking that the original declaration be returned to Philadelphia, but Ford said the document was too fragile to be removed from the National Archives.

Both plate and print will be kept in the First Bank of the United States as part of a special Bicentennial exhibit of the National Park Service.

Wayne visits Fetchit

CHICAGO (AP) — John Wayne, once a prop man for Stepin Fetchit, visited the veteran black entertainer who is recovering in a hospital here from a paralyzing stroke.

"You look all right. They tell me you'll be talking soon," Wayne, 68, told the comedian Monday.

Fetchit, 84, whose real name is Lincoln T. Perry, was listed in fair and stable condition at Michael Reese Hospital. However, he has not been able to speak since suffering the stroke last Wednesday.

After the visit, Wayne said of the entertainer who began his career in silent films, "We had a lot of fun together. He was always a decent, respectable human being."

'Teahouse of the August Moon'

Claremont theater does Pulitzer play

By JOSEPH H. FIRMAN

Lovely ladies, kind gentlemen, "Teahouse of the August Moon" bowed at the Claremont Playhouse last weekend in a fast and funny production that neatly blended M*A*S*H-like military humor with some basic truths on the clash of cultures.

John Patrick's Pulitzer Prize comedy about the U.S. Army occupation of Okinawa during World War II will be repeated at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday for several weeks. The playhouse is the smartly refurbished old Claremont High School auditorium at 1333 N. Indian Hill Blvd.

Directed with smooth professionalism by Patrick Miller, the cast is mixture of skilled performers and others clearly new to the footlights. Many are Orientals, others undisguisedly Occidentals. Valley Community Theater's Howard Goodell plays Mr. Omura, complete with slant eyes, skirt, a Kojak hairdo and a Fu Manchu mustache.

Keystone and king pin of "Teahouse" is Rion Garrison as Sakini, the wiley, loveable rascal who serves as interpreter for the occupation forces, an amused and understanding observer of the East-West game, the Artful Dodger of the Orient. Garrison is a facile actor, glib, persuasive and engaging, and he offers a variety of telling nuances in his characterization.

Sakini's chief antagonist is Col. Wainwright Purdy II, a pompous and obtuse officer whose plans for rehabilitating Tobiki Village include building a pentagon-shaped schoolhouse and organizing a Ladies League for Democratic Action — all included in his Plan B under "Orienting the Orientals." Purdy is played by Jon Michik with eye-rolling, cheek-puffing vigor, a riotous portrayal of official stupidity and blundering. Like many excellent dramatic actors, Michik has a fine flair for comedy, and the performance is a gem.

Miller was less successful in his choice of Chuck Sloan for the role of Capt. Fisby, an important though hardly pivotal part. Sloan gives a limp, characterization of the romantic young officer trying to appease Col. Purdy and the Ladies League for Democratic Action.

Jack Fisher, a professional stage and television actor, provides spirit and imagination in the role of Capt. McLean, an Army psychologist more interested in earthworms than Freud. Like Michik, Fisher is a class actor who can do the comic turn in style.

Lujean Bullock offers an engagingly funny geisha girl; Lynne Kubota is riotous as the head of the Ladies League, and Toshiko Shimoda Rundall is nifty as Miss Higa Jiga.

The Playhouse "Teahouse" is a very pleasant evening of theater. "August moon," it promises, "will leave you a little older, a little wiser." Well — a little older, anyway.

THE WINNERS — Patricia Morison, left, and Janet Blair star in "Winner Take All," scheduled for its world premiere May 18 at the Huntington Hartford Theater in Hollywood. The musical by Russell Hunter tells the story of Victoria Claflin Woodhull and her sister, Tennessee, two early American Women's Libbers.

Wright stars in 'Mancha'

Musical comedy star Bob Wright, who performed in the Broadway production of "Man of La Mancha," will recreate the role of Don Quixote in a production by the San Bernardino Civic Light Opera at the California Theater of Performing Arts, San Bernardino, May 7-15.

Co-star will be Bernice Massi as Aldonza, also a member of the New York cast.

Wright, one of the busiest performers on the Broadway stage, recently completed a national tour in "Man of La Mancha," and starred opposite many of the leading ladies of the musical comedy stage.

He won critical acclaim opposite Mary Martin in the Broadway production of the musical hit, "The Sound of Music," and appeared in numerous musicals including "Make Mine Manhattan," "South Pacific," "Hazel Flagg," "Rosalinda," "Panama Hattie," "Can-Can," "Hit the Trail" and "Do I hear a Waltz?"

Wright starred in the television special, "The Stingiest Man in Town," and has appeared on the Hallmark Hall of Fame, the Ed Sullivan Show and many talk shows including Johnny Carson, Mike Douglas, Today and Jack Paar.

Tickets are on sale at the box office, all agencies and the Ontario Chamber of Commerce.

'1776' slated at Cal Poly

The Continental Theater Company of Wichita, Kan., in cooperation with the Masque and Mime Theater of New York, will present "1776" in the University Theater at Cal Poly at 8 p.m. Friday.

The patriotic musical is one of the events of the annual Poly Vue Open House. Also scheduled is a high school Shakespeare festival to be held in the music building from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday through Sunday. Taking part in the competitive event will be local schools. Events to be judged are male monologue, female monologue and group presentations.

"1776" depicts the delegates to the Continental Congress meeting in Philadelphia, including John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Jefferson, John Hancock and others. The musical portrays them not as legends but as real people — sometimes quarrelsome, sometimes stubborn and vain. The play has moments of humor, of romance and of high drama.

Tickets are $5.

Pearl to star in 'Norman'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pearl Bailey's retirement from show business, announced with a flourish two months ago, has been postponed.

She will play opposite Redd Foxx in MGM's adaption of the stage success "Norman . . . Is That You?" Her last film was "The Landlord" in 1970.

Also added to the cast is Mike Warren, former UCLA basketball star and a regular in the daytime television serial, Days of our Lives.

Kelly to direct fantasy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gene Kelly, whose last film as a director was "Hello, Dolly," has signed to direct a fantasy musical for family audiences, "How Santa Claus Got His Name."

Musical to have world premiere

"Winner Take All," a musical about two early American Women's Lib activists, will have its world premiere May 18 at the Huntington Hartford Theater in Hollywood.

Patricia Morison and Janet Blair star as Victoria Claflin Woodhull and her sister, Tennessee, who lived from the time of Martin Van Buren to the Calvin Coolidge era. With financing from the legendary Commodore Vanderbilt, they became the first women stockholders and publishers in the world. With a platform of equal rights for all, they ran many times for high political office, including President.

The production, with book, music and lyrics by Russell Hunter, covers a 50-year span in the hectic, humorous and unconventional lives of the two sisters.

The cast of 25 will feature Jerry Antes, Robert Nash, Lola Fisher, Virginia Jaeger and Zale Kessler. John Myhers will direct, and Buddy Schwab will stage the musical numbers. Setting is by Glenn Holse, costumes by Noel Taylor and lighting by H. R. Poindexter.

"Winner Take All" will have two weeks of preview performances starting next Tuesday. The regular engagement will run to June 13.

Tickets are on sale at the box office and at Mutual, Liberty and Wallichs agencies.

200 million

The population of the United States reached 200 million in 1967.

Dorothy Hamill heads for show biz

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Now it's Olympic skater Dorothy Hamill who's getting the show business treatment.

Miss Hamill, who won the gold medal in figure skating at the 1976 Olympics, has signed a contract with Jerry Weintraub, manager of singers John Denver and Frank Sinatra. "Dorothy's truly all-American and has all the ingredients of a great star," said Weintraub.

He added that the skater "has been beseiged by world-wide offers from every motion picture studio, talent agency, television network, management firms, commercial endorsement companies, etc."

Church to do 'Music Man'

The choirs of Claremont United Methodist Church will present Meredith Willson's "The Music Man," in the Sealey G. Mudd Theater at the School of Theology at Claremont at 8 p.m. May 7; 2:30 and 8 p.m. May 8, and 2:30 p.m. May 9.

More than 60 young people will be involved in acting, singing, dancing and technical production.

Also in the cast are Robyn Allen, Craig Allen, Ed Bratt, Mark Estupinian, Sarah Cadman, Lynn Dallas, Judy Devens, Kathy Dickinson, Tim Dickinson, Jennifer Elder, Nancy Gallagher, Dan Gutierrez, Claire Getts, Carol Graham, Joanne Hall, Beth Havens, Christi Kilsby, Richard Kilsby, Tim Kirk, Lisa Metzler, Ann Robertson, Marci Schurman, Neal Shannon, Sally Shannon, Stu Stoddard, Rolf Weidhofer and Scott Wray.

The production is directed by Donald Brinegar. Choreographer is Pat Pilkington, who created the dances for the choir's previously successful productions of "The Boy Friend" and "Anything Goes." Production assistant is Marci Schurman.

Others assisting in the production are Georgia Shannon, assistant to the choreographer; Jane Weidhofer, properties and Peg Skeen, tickets and publicity. Michael Parker, youth minister for the church, is rehearsal assistant.

Reserved seats are available through the church office at 211 W. Foothill Blvd. or by calling 624-2342. Tickets are $2.50 for adults, and $1.50 for children 12 or under.

Some people read with their fingertips instead of their eyes. They read braille, a special kind of writing invented for the blind.

Braille is named for Louis Braille, who invented this kind of writing, and who was blind himself.

Brille letters are groups of little bumps or dots, stamped into the paper. By touching these raised dots, a braille reader can spell out the letters of a word.

The dots are arranged in patterns called "cells." Each cell can hold up to six dots — three dots high and two dots wide.

One dot, for example, stands for the letter A. Add another under it and you have B. To make C, you put the second dot beside the first, not under it.

Since 63 combinations are possible, the whole alphabet can be made, plus signs for numbers, punctuation marks and such commonly used words as "the," and "and."

There are also braille signs for music. An experienced reader can read about 80 braille words a minute.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

SCAG conducting a transit survey

Transportation needs throughout Southern California are now being surveyed by the Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG) and the California Department of Transportation. Approximately 8,000 households will be interviewed today through June 1.

Conducted by a professional research firm, the survey will help determine public attitudes concerning transportation policies. Citizens will be asked to comment on such programs as rail and bus systems, increases in gasoline costs and air quality control measures.

"Such data will help decision-makers know what the public really wants in transportation, both now and in the future," said Orange County Supervisor Ralph Clark, chairman of the SCAG Transportation and Utilities Committee. "Not only will the information be used by the state, but also by local and regional planners."

The survey is primarily an update of a 1967 survey. Survey results and a final report on transportation patterns is scheduled for release this fall.

SCAG is a planning and coordinating agency which deals with regional problems, such as transportation, environmental quality and urban growth, that affect more than 10 million Southland residents. Its membership is composed of the governments of Imperial, Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino and Ventura counties, and 126 cities within those counties.

Fiesta slated in L.V.

The Mexican-American Urban Coalition will sponsor a Cinco de Mayo fiesta Friday and May 2 in La Verne.

The fiesta will open with an adult dance at 8 p.m. Friday in the hall of the Holy Name of Mary Church. It will continue two days later at Kuns Park with entertainment, games, booths and food.

The event will be under the auspices of the coalition's Public Information for Community Service organization.

DR. PAUL H. MILLER

Heart expert to talk

Dr. Paul H. Miller, associate director of City of Hope department of cardiology, will present a lecture on heart disease and early heart attack warning on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Foothill Presbyterian Hospital, Glendora.

Prior to his appointment at City of Hope, Dr. Miller served two years as chief of cardiology service at the U.S. Air Force, Keesler Air Force Base, Biloxi, Miss.

The lecture is open to the public without charge. Reservations may be made by calling the hospital at (213) 963-8411, ext. 111.

Claremont architect board

Restaurant review due again

The matter of Michael Racine's proposed Salade Boule restaurant at 131 Yale Ave. will come again before the Claremont Architectural Commission Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

The City Council at its April 13 meeting had upheld the commission's denial of a skylight structure on the roof of the building, directed that the wood parapet be lowered, and stipulated that no occupancy permit be granted until the wood facade on the front of the restaurant be approved by the Architectural Commission.

Commission members have been asked to review the site before the meeting.

City staff members are concerned about a hodgepodge of unfinished siding, and have suggested that the siding be stained a dark brown for uniformity.

In other matters, Howard Johnson's at 721 S. Indian Hill Blvd. is asking for modification of the sign directly in front of the restaurant to give better identification to the motor lodge.

The matter of a proposed 24-foot by 64-foot banquet room addition to the Ruddy Duck Restaurant at 921 W. Foothill Blvd. also will come before the commission.

Because of insufficient parking for the proposed addition, the applicant has proposed a reduction in parking requirements based on joint use and common parking facilities.

The Claremont Planning Commission will review the matter May 4.

Laryngectomy unit to meet

The San Gabriel-Pomona Valley Lost Chord Club will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the small conference room at Queen of the Valley Hospital, West Covina.

Dr. Earl J. Thee, laryngologist, will be the speaker.

The club, which now has 32 members, is open to all laryngectomees and their spouses.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Mike Gerson, 626-4134, or the Pomona office of the American Cancer Society, 623-0616.

Defense line

MAY COMPANY PRESENTS "THE MARTEX MAGIC SHOW"

Ms. Jamie Leonard, Home Fashions Coordinator for Martex, will present "The Martex Magic Show" at eleven May Company stores, showing how to create home decorating magic with the Martex collection of sheets and towels.

Sheets have had great impact beyond the bedroom for quite some time now. With just a little sleight of hand, a lot of imagination and a few sheets you can revitalize your entire home. Take one full flat sheet and . . . viola! A round table cloth. Or make a designers-look pillow with one standard pillowcase. Or you can cover an entire wall with a couple of king flat sheets. It's all easy and relatively inexpensive to transform your home from just "okay" to an environment which has your own individual touch — without the expense of a professional decorator.

Ms. Leonard will illustrate how to make all of these and more, and will be available to answer individual questions. After her presentation, she will hold a drawing for a free set of Martex towels. Customers attending will receive a free instruction book, "All About The Home". The workshop will be presented in the Bedding Department of the Montclair store, Friday, April 30 at 7:00 p.m.

RADIO SHACK TO SELL OFFICIAL BICENTENNIAL ALBUM

The nationwide Radio Shack store chain will be the exclusive distributor of "Broad Stripes, Bright Stars", a two-record stereo album of military music authorized by a special act of Congress and featuring all four USA military bands. Only 100,000 copies of the album will be produced.

According to J. William Middendorf II, Secretary of the Navy, "Proceeds from sales are expected to recover costs of production and distribution, resulting in a project at no additional expense to our taxpayers."

The album was produced by the U.S. Navy for the Department of Defense and features the U.S. Army Band and Chorus, the U.S. Navy Band and Sea Chanters, the U.S. Marine Band and the U.S. Air Force Band and Singing Sergeants. These great musical organizations appear together in this album as they have in events of American history.

The bands perform the marches, anthems, sea chanteys and fife and drum cadences that have stirred the spirit of Americans from the Revolutionary Era to the present.

Wherever American men-at-arms have gathered, to train, to fight or to rest, music has never been far away. Much of that music is prescribed by the necessity for order and the dictates of protocol: the bugle calls, boatswain's pipes, marches, ruffles and flourishes and fanfares that signal or underscore the events of a given day.

Selections from the two-record set include: the Star Spangled Banner, Marines Hymn, Yankee Doodle, Stars and Stripes Forever and 28 other songs concluding with America the Beautiful.

The album contains a colorful insert portraying the spirit and artistry of military music. Jacket notes reveal the significance of the selections, and pictures of the performing bands are used on the dust sleeves along with a brief history of each of the bands.

"Broad Stripes, Bright Stars" will be sold by Radio Shack stores through a special subdistribution arrangement with Audiofidelity Enterprises. Part of the Navy's stipulation in granting the original record manufacturing contract was that the album be distributed uniformly across the country. The album is priced at $7.98.

Radio Shack, a division of Tandy Corporation (NYSE), has more than 4,000 stores and dealers in all 50 states.

Increased fees for trash collection, street sweeping and business licenses were approved by Pomona City Council Monday night.

The council, however, delayed voting on whether to increase the city's utility tax rate from 6 to 7 per cent.

Trash collection fees will be boosted 50 cents per month, with street sweeping charges increasing 25 cents per month, and business licenses going up 25 per cent from current levels.

In addition to those increases, the council also extended the city's existing entertainment admissions tax to the Los Angeles County Fair for the first time.

Together the measures approved by the council should generate over $500,000 in new revenue for the 1976-77 budget, which is still about $3.5 million in the red at current service and income levels.

In an agonizing hearing on each measure, citizens told the council the increases would be a hardship on many people and other alternatives for generating income should be found.

"We can't keep up. There are too many taxes already. There must be other ways," said Frank Estrada.

"You don't like increased costs and I share that with you. But you want city services, and we haven't had a tax increase for four years," said Mayor Ray Lepire.

"If we had the opportunity to avoid any of these (increases) we would. If we don't raise taxes, services have to be cut. But what do we cut? Police Department? Not in this town. Fire Department? I don't think you want to cut that either. Parks and Recreation? Well . . . think what that could mean if kids don't have a park to play in," said Councilman Charles Bader.

Bader and Councilman Benjamin Ochoa invited the residents upset with the increases to attend the upcoming meetings in which city employes will seek pay raises.

"Don't stop participating now," said Bader.

The residents and council did find themselves in agreement on one point — investigating the fees charged by private refuse collectors to see if the city's prices are in line.

All the votes raising fees were by 4-1 counts, with Councilman Adrian Wright dissenting and stating he could not vote for a any single increase until he knew the "total effect" they would all have.

It had been expected the council would approve the hike in the utility tax rate, but the council delayed action for a clarification of what the exemption level would be.

At present, households with $4,000 or less in annual income are exempted from the tax.

At its budget sessions last February, the council tentatively agreed to set the exemption level at the federal government's poverty level, but no one knew what that currently is. Once that is clarified, the council will consider the increase, which would generate about $280,000 in new money.

Residents complain:

'We can't keep up... there are too many taxes already.'

City replies:

'If we don't raise taxes, services have to be cut. But what do we cut?'

An ice cream social Friday from 7 to 9 p.m. in the school cafetorium will be part of the open house observance at Roosevelt Elementary School in Pomona. Students drawing attention to the event are, from left, Debbie Gutierrez and James Altherr, third graders, and Gary Stowell, fourth grader. Roosevelt classrooms will be open for parents to inspect.

S.D. townhouse dwellers stymie housing tract plan

Objections by neighboring homeowners forced a developer to drop plans to build 99 homes in a San Dimas tract Monday night.

The residents felt the type of homes proposed would be inferior to the townhouses they now occupy in the Glenwood Patio Homes subdivision at Foothill Boulevard West of San Dimas Avenue.

Developer Merrill Butler of Irvine had sought a zone change that would have allowed him to construct 99 single family homes on the site instead of the 140 townhouses he had wanted earlier.

But the residents of 40 townhouses who occupy the first phase of Butler's tract, contended that single family homes next to them would have an adverse effect on their property.

Current San Dimas zoning ordinances call for 7,500 square-foot lots for single-unit homes. Butler was asking for a change to 4,500 square-foot lots.

Most of the controversy was the apparent dissatisfaction of residents with Butler's concern for and care of the already developed portion of the Glenwood homes. Complaints of erosion problems, weed control and lack of grounds maintenance were voiced.

Butler insisted the zoning change was needed so he could meet present marketing conditions. Members of the Glenwood homeowners association told the council that Butler's changes would upset their present lifestyle and the changes were against contract agreements with the builder.

Homeowners also claim that any change in dwelling type or size of lots would result in depreciation of their property value. One homeower spokesman said Butler's plans were "not conducive to a marketable tract."

After the complaints Butler withdrew his request for the zoning change and told the council he would postpone his project.

The council also discussed alternatives for present liability insurance. City Manager Robert Poff told the council that San Dimas had experienced a 140 per cent rise in liability premium costs in the past few years.

Poff said the city is currently studying joining an association of 18 other cities to obtain less expensive insurance. But new City Atty. George Wakefield said the city had few choices as it faces escalating insurance costs.

He said other communities were forming such cooperatives to meet rising insurance costs.

The youngest council member, Terry Dipple, informed the audience he was sponsoring and hosting a "candid openhouse" at which citizens could discuss problems outside the formal regular council meetings. Dipple will host the first such event May 8 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the council chambers.

The council will hold a special meeting next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. to discuss fire and policing services provided by the county.

Band director still in coma

Montclair High School band director Benjamin Baker remains unconscious at Doctors Hospital in Montclair following a heart attack suffered Saturday.

Baker was participating with the band in the Montclair Birthday and Bicentennial Parade when he suffered a heart attack. He was treated at the scene by paramedics who were watching the parade and then taken to the hospital.

According to hospital officials, Baker's condition "remains unchanged, stable, but unconscious" and he is in the intensive care unit.

$25,000 blaze

Fire destroyed the garage and heavily damaged the attic and roof of the house at 1669 Benedict Ave., Claremont, Monday at 1:38 p.m.

County firemen set the loss estimate at $20,000 to the structure and $5,000 to contents. Value of the property was not given.

A neighbor called in the alarm. Firemen, under the direction of Capt. Ralph Stapf, arrived to find the occupants away. They were told the house was occupied by a Frain family.

Chino teachers settle libel suit against principal

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

A Chino teachers' union announced Monday it had accepted a $3,800 settlement in a $900,000 libel suit filed last year against former Chino High School Principal Terry Terril who had charged the union with "unprofessional conduct."

The Chino Federation of Teachers, an AFL-CIO affiliate, held a press conference to claim "victory" in the suit filed last July.

Terril resigned in April 1975, criticizing a handful of teachers who he indicated were troublemakers. He identified them as members of CFT, who are tenured and "like working short hours and getting big pay."

The union was particularly angry over a charge Terril made of teachers "knocking kids around" on campus.

The suit had requested damages for Terril's comments published in three area newspapers including the Progress Bulletin.

Although the union felt it was "vindicated" by the out-of-court settlement, both Terril and Al Searfoss, the school district's assistant superintendent for business, said right or wrong has not been determined in the case.

Payment in the suit will come from the Continental Insurance Co., the Chino school district's insurance carrier. The district also was named in the lawsuit as the agent employing Terril at the time.

"The insurance carrier was trying to get out as cheaply as possible," said Searfoss, explaining it would have cost about $5,000 if the firm had gone to court in the case.

No money will come from Terrill, according to Searfoss who specifically stated that in a settlement, "right or wrong has not been determined."

Kan., where he is now superintendent of schools, said the settlement is "no sign of guilt or admission of guilt."

Ed LeSaout, vice presidnet of the CFT, said reputations of Chino teachers had been damaged by Terril's remarks and it had to be cleared up. "If you have pride in your profession you have to stand up to comments printed in the local media."

"The charges by Terril were lies," he added. They were reprinted with no effort to show the truth."

Reptile show at Montclair Plaza

Monty's Traveling Reptile Show, with 20 exhibits, will appear at Montclair Plaza Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Exhibits will include a 15-foot, 200-pound Burmese python, a 4½-foot Rhinoceros iguana, and a 16-foot, 110-pound reticulated python.

Accused says witness did beating

Samuel Jones, accused of murdering an Ontario drug counselor, testified Monday that the prosecution's key witness, Francis Anthony, beat and killed the victim the afternoon of Nov. 25.

Jones, on trial in the alleged murder of Raymond Meras, told the West Valley Superior Court jury that he and Anthony went to Meras' home and were drinking wine with him.

Jones claimed that he became ill from the wine and went into the bathroom. He said while in the bathroom he heard a loud commotion and went outside to investigate.

"I came out of the bathroom and Anthony was hitting this guy, (Meras) with a board. There was blood all over the place," said Jones. He said he yelled at Anthony, "What are you doing."

Jones said that he and Anthony then left the Meras home together.

Anthony in the murder trial testified that he was in the home when for no apparent reason, Jones, the accused, began beating Meras over the head with a stick. He said he started to walk out of the house when he heard what he thought was a shot. Anthony, in earlier court proceedings pleaded guilty to being an accessory after the fact in the killing.

S.B. County also hikes hospital fees

Plan to spur road building passes

San Bernardino County supervisors Monday approved an ordinance amendment that would allow developers to be reimbursed for road improvements that extend beyond their own projects.

Under the provisions, a developer would thus be able to connect his subdivision with a major access road and receive payment when future development occurred along the improved area, said Supervisor Robert Townsend.

Townsend said the new county policy may aid in speeding up development of Grand Avenue through the Chino Hills. Several property owners along the street alignment have expressed interest in such a program, he added.

Supervisors adopted a provision where developers installing improvements outside their own project would enter into an agreement with the county and deposit 100 per cent of the estimated cost of construction.

The county would secure competitive bids and award the contract. When reimbursement is made, the new developer will be charged 120 per cent of the cost, with the original developer receiving 110 per cent to cover his expenses and the county receiving 10 per cent for its expenses.

Those developers entitled to reimbursement would be required to file between June 1 and July 1 when the supervisors are making their annual budgets.

In another matter, supervisors increased daily hospital service rates for the county medical centers to recover expenses, said Townsend.

Such county action was needed for the county to be reimbursed by the two major cost reimbursers, Medi-Cal and Medicare. The new rates become effective June 1 and are based on 1974-75 actual costs.

Under the new program, daily service rates for medical patients will increase from $136 to $155; orthopedics, $123 to $145; surgical, $116 to $141; obstetrics, $138 to $152; pediatrics, $140 to $160; and intensive care unit and cardiac care unit, $246 to $298.

Supervisors also directed the county's Environmental Review Committee to conduct a new hearing on May 4 regarding an application to develop a neighborhood shopping center at the southwest corner of Riverside Drive and Pipe Line Avenue in the Chino area.

The board noted that Chino city officials and residents weren't notified of the previous committee hearing. The hearing will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the county Planning Department chambers.

Supervisors authorized the purchasing agent to order telemetering control equipment to be used in a system that will carry water from a well at Chino Airport to both Prado Regional Park and the El Prado Golf Course.

The action was needed because of a heavy back-order for this type of equipment, said Townsend.

Cost of the equipment is estimated at $10,000. The entire water system, however, will be near $200,000. This will include a six-inch pipeline, water storage reservoir, hydropneumatic system, and booster pumping station. Both the park and gold course are scheduled to open next July 4.

Debt collecting reforms due

There are 5,000 debt collectors in the United States. Last year $3 billion in debts were turned over to them for collection, of which they collected $850 million.

Yet only 38 states and the District of Columbia have laws regulating collectors. Most of these laws are enforced in a desultory fashion.

In 12 of the states which have laws, the rule making or advisory boards by law must include a majority of debt collectors. In many states it is possible to obtain a license merely by paying a fee and obtaining a bond. Twelve states with a combined population of 40 million have no collection laws.

The result is what we might expect.

Unscrupulous collectors make no distinction between those actually in debt and those whose names are listed through computer error, no distinction between the deliberate welcher and the individual who cannot pay or must delay payment because of illness, accident or other calamity. And they make no distinction between debtors and those singled out because a greedy company wants money before it is due or money which may not be owed.

One firm has on its wall in a place of honor a letter from a victim explaining that no debt was owed, but that the agency was being paid what it asked to put an end to the harassment.

One witness before a U.S. House of Representatives Banking and Currency subcommittee, related his collection techniques in some detail. He would phone an alleged debtor every hour, or sometimes every five minutes, during the day and evening, at home and at work, following up with phone calls to the man's boss.

Doctors have been called out of emergency rooms, not once but repeatedly. Mothers have been told their children had been in terrible automobile accidents to frighten them into paying. Children have been told to report to the police station to wring money out of fathers.

The story is told of an attorney, who for $75 a month allowed one collection agency to use his name on the door and his letterhead, his signature on letters. He permitted a phone at the agency to be answered in his name and his approval for an agent to impersonate him in threatening alleged debtors in his name.

The same firm had a judge on its payroll who received a percentage of the take. In return, the judge provided the firm with semilegal forms bearing his name which were used to tell debtors the account was now in his hands and that they could save themselves court action by paying up immediately.

Said the witness: "We could have judgments issued, if we wanted to, without ever notifying the defendant that he was being sued."

But there's worse. One witness reported a debtor being told he would find himself floating in a river if he didn't pay up. A lady was offered a pair of cement shoes.

We are not talking here of the Mafia. But of firms employed by legitimate businessmen and institutions, some of whom make little or no effort to determine the methods used by the collection agencies they employ. It must be said many collection firms are honest and fair, and most businesses do not employ the type of collectors mentioned here. It must also be said that some respected firms are involved.

The Banking and Currency Committee is getting ready to write a new law. But the weight of testimony indicates that even in states with good laws, harassment may be equal to that in states with no laws on collections.

The plain and simple fact is that as noted above, in most instances laws on the books are not enforced. So the federal law, however well written, will be no panacea.

Proposition 15

Dear Editor:

The prophets of doom suggest a yes vote on Proposition 15, (the so-called nuclear safeguard initiative) lest we blow up the world. Should we heed?

Obviously, these are not the prophets of God, Revelations does not foretell the end of mischance. The onslaught of atheistic communism more accurately depict prophecy.

The Bible warns us of false prophets and tells us we can recognize them by the fruits they bear. These same prophets have just "saved" Angola and are working hard to "save" Rhoedsia and South Africa. Avowed pacifists, they have diverted funds raised for the hungry to arm African guerillas. Who's side are they on?

Doubting Thomases can look at a long and successful record in the field of nuclear energy. Certainly the hazards of the future should be no greater than the past.

Inciting the mob through vague fears and arm-twisting to steer our Pilates as tray are devices disasterously used in the past. Are we any wiser today? We badly need new sources of energy. It is reported that in 1975 nuclear fuel cost 18 cents per kwt, as compared with $2.46 per kwt for oil. As a consumer, which will you vote to pay for? — Ray O. Swanson, Pomona

New direction for the IRS?

WASHINGTON — In the matter of tax enforcement, the Internal Revenue Service has shown more enthusiasm for investigating ordinary citizens than public officials. Secretary of the Treasury William Simon believes this attitude should now be reversed.

Not since Americans rebelled against their tax treatment 200 years ago has the ruling clique heard such heresy. The plainspoken Simon, nevertheless, will ask Congress to authorize the IRS to conduct automatic audits of all federal officials.

This would mean that the finances of all high officeholders, elected and appointed, would come under periodic IRS scrutiny. Members of Congress aren't likely to vote for this kind of surveillance over their bank accounts. They won't approve Simon's proposal, that is, unless the voters threaten to elect congressmen who will.

The revolutionary idea that public officials should be subjected to closer tax scrutiny than the people who pay their salaries was proposed by the Treasury's general counsel, Richard Albrecht, in a confidential report to Simon on Sen. Joseph Montoya's tax audit.

Albrecht concluded that IRS officials demonstrated "questionable judgment," if not illegal action, when they quashed an investigation of the New Mexico senator's returns. This led Albrech to the additional conclusion that, if public faith is to be restored in government, the IRS could help by keeping a constant watch on the tax returns of officeholders. This would make it more difficult, at least, for them to cheat the public.

This might also help impress upon the IRS who is the master and who the servant in the democratic scheme of things. It has become an all too frequent practice in conflicts between private citizens and federal agencies for the bureaucrats to assume the master role. And no federal employes have been more relentless in pursuit of harassed citizens than the tax collectors.

The IRS has spun a web of regulations, constantly adding to the tangle, until it is almost impossible for the average citizen to be sure he has paid the right amount. More than one hard-pressed taxpayer has found himself in trouble because of a trivial or unintentional error, a misunderstanding of the complex instructions, the failure of an employer to withhold the correct tax or a personal tragedy which cleaned him out of the money he set aside for Uncle Sam.

Some IRS agents go after unpaid taxes as if it were their lone mission to collect enough revenue for President Ford to reduce his budget. In pursuit of tax debtors, the IRS has garnisheed their wages, seized their property, confiscated their bank accounts and deprived them of their jobs.

One of the most insidious federal weapons is the jeopardy assessment, which is supposed to be used to tie up the funds of a taxpayer who might try to skip the country. Agents have used this power indiscriminantly to force settlements out of reluctant taxpayers.

We receive an outpouring of complaints, far more than we are able to investigate. Although we have found most tax officials to be firm but fair, we have come across some disturbing abuses.

The IRS, for example, helped to run the life of a pathetic Washington businessman named Earl Klein. In 1975. He had a nervous breakdown and was hospitalized. His wife took charge of his small business establishment while he recovered. Unfortunately, she had no business sense and mishandled the company's books. A tax audit discovered Klein owed $6,000 in back taxes for the first quarter of 1975.

Although this was the first time he had been in tax trouble, agents descended on the emotionally troubled man like hungry wolves, Klein was quite willing to pay the back taxes. But before he and his accountant could make the necessary arrangements, the IRS seized Klein's bank account. Then agent Richard Damon led an IRS raid on Klein's store. The agents actually rifled his cash register for $181.

The last time we spoke to Klein, he sounded terribly depressed. "I'm going out of business," he said sadly.

In Florida, Dr. Virgil Rizzo is going through a tax audit. Although no violations have been found, he was cited for contempt by a civil court and fined $21,000. The IRS claimed he was withholding tax records. He insisted that he had misplaced or lost them. Either way, there is no proof. Yet the fine stands.

Tax agents also seized patient payment cards from his office and began calling the patients to check how much they had paid. One teen-age patient had come to Rizzo in confidence to receive treatment for a veneral disease. The IRS call alerted the youth's parents and violated a doctor-patient confidence. Meanwhile, the doctor still hasn't been found guilty of breaking the tax laws.

In Dallas, Ellsworth Sallee, a commercial pilot, not only flies for American Airlines, but owns a farm. The two sources of income have brought the IRS on his back. One IRS auditor told him to pay his tax assessment, because the legal fees to fight the assessment would amount to more than the IRS was demanding.

A former IRS official told us the service is pathological about collecting taxes. The prevailing view, he said, is that harsh methods must be used to protect our tax system, that legal restrictions must be stretched.

An IRS agent, who asked that his identity be protected, cited one example. The IRS often demands full financial disclose from taxpayers, he said, even before liability is assessed. This is improper and a violation of privacy, he said. Legally, the IRS can't ask for financial records, he explained, until a violator does not pay.

Revenue agents defend themselves against charges of callousness. They point out that, since Biblical times, the tax collector has always been the most disliked of officials. It is their duty, they point out, to rake in money on which national security and domestic services depend. Every defaulting dollar means a dollar that some other citizen must pay.

Paul Harvey

Why close bases in U.S.?

The Pentagon wants to close or curtail 80 military bases — most of them Navy bases in the United States. Those bases, whatever else they are worth, are pumping life into our stateside economy.

It may be a good idea, but there may be a better one.

Why not close or curtail some of the 2,000 U.S. military installations in 30 other countries? The money sent there to support those is lost to us forever.

Our Air Force wants to trim or close 51 bases, figuring to save $150 million a year.

Our Navy wants to trim or close 80 Navy installations, figuring to save another $56 million a year.

The combined curtailment would eliminate more than 15,000 civilian jobs.

It will cripple the dependent economy of many adjacent towns.

If, in fact, these are whte elephant installations they should indeed be reduced or erased.

But doesn't it occur to them that they are saving nickels and dimes in their own budget while jeopardizing the economic stability of homefolks in these areas? They could save billions of dollars if they would limit or shut down many or most of our nation's overseas bases?

True, there has been a withdrawal of American troops from Thailand and a token withdrawal from Greece, but our overseas commitment, bloated by a now-past age of imperialism, remains mostly intact.

Secretary Kissinger insists that we cannot and must not abandon this historic military role. Meanwhile, he is doing everything he can to diminish historic hostilities. If he is successful in diminishing tensions with detente, should our military presence not be phased out proportionately?

The club in our closet which keeps potential enemies at arm's length is our technology, not masses of marching men.

Our 6 per cent fraction of the world's population cannot possibly match Asia — in manpower.

It's our nuclear firepower which keeps them respectful.

Today, one in four American military men is stationed overseas — in round numbers, half a million out of a total of 2 million.

Two-to-one they are stationed in Western Europe, and most of those in West Germany, presumably to deter Soviet aggression.

But what justification is there for maintaining a mass military presence in Japan, Okinawa, Philippines, Italy, Turkey, Greece, Iceland, Belgium, Netherlands, Portugal, Morocco — and the Bahamas, Barbados and the Leeward Islands.

Almost every dollar that supports American troops in other countries stays there, a drain on our nation's balance of payments.

While it may be a good idea to close some bases here at home, there may be a better idea.

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

There is little that is new or original where writing is involved. One author cashes in on a catchy observation he stole from some long gone writer before him, who stole it from gosh only knows what struggling ancient world scrivener, who probably stole it from the petroglyphs left by some prehistoric stone age citizen with literary aspirations.

Take Cervantes who some folks credit with having originated the saying, "One swallow never makes a summer." The truth is he probably copied that observation from Northbrook who in 1577 wrote: "One swallow prouveth not that summer is near." Or maybe it was John Heywood who about that same time observed: "One swallow maketh not a summer." But more likely all of them copied it from Aristotle who around 350 B.C. wrote, "One swallow does not make a spring."

And it was that same Aristotle who possibly originated the saying: "Of evils we must choose the least," — an observation which 300 years later was picked up by Cicero who wrote: "Of two evils the least should be chosen." Then Chaucer got into the act in the 1300's. His version reads: "Of harmes two the less is for to chese." And about that same time Thomas Kempis passed off as original thinking the remark: "Of two evils the less is always to be chosen."

Finally, Shakespeare, the world's acknowledged literary master, was not above pilfering some of his more famous goodies. When he quoted Caesar as having remarked: "Yond Cassius has a lean and hungry look," he really should have given some credit to Plutarch who about 75 years B.C. wrote: " 'It is not,' said Caesar, 'these well-fed, long-haired men I fear, but the pale and the hungry-looking.' "

State Capitol to be redone

Editor's Note—During his illness top state officials are filling in for columnist Earl G. Waters. His guest today is Senator James Mills (D) San Diego President Pro Tem, California Senate.

California's majestic state Capitol Building — now labeled an earthquake hazardous structure — is about to get a modern face-lifting that will take us back about 70 years in time.

Now virtually empty and about to be closed to the public, there is a stillness inside its thick walls interrupted only by a small group of historical preservation specialists and workers photographing and marking detail work; probing behind walls and planning to give its citizens a rare architectural treat.

The Capitol Building is 102 years old, not safe in the event of an earthquake and yet a symbol easily worthy of preserving for future visitors.

Historians have recounted the details of changes in the structure, some of them nightmares from a purist point of view. They recommend and we, as legislators, agree that to restore the building to the 1906-10 period would be to preserve best architectural integrity.

It was at that time the elegant front stairs were replaced, fireplaces sealed, the Assembly and Senate chambers given a major renovation. From a point of view of the 70's, it was a mistake. Early century designers simply covered up some of the best-preserved Grant Period architecture and Roman Corinthian detail to be found in the United States.

Fortunately, much of it is still there. And it is coming back to be made available to the public as a combination working building and museum.

The beautiful English tile that graces the first floor rotunda will be carefully pried up and then put back when the structure is made safe. The tile came around the Horn in the last century so why replace it with something 100 years newer?

The legislative chambers, originally with a column-supported gallery and balistrades and frescoes running almost around the rooms, will be restored to the splendor they possessed before the turn of the century.

In the words of preservation specialist Raymond Girvigian, the "chambers were gutted" by the early-century renovation. So the Legislature will, this year, vacate these chambers and live outside in temporary buildings while the reconstruction is performed.

What will result is a building truly representative of California's colorful past, restored to give visitors a vivid historical reminder. The governor's old corner office will be renovated in its original location; in addition a large theater and visual display room will be opened to visitors. The 1876 safes that once adorned the treasurer's office will be brought out of their hiding place at nearby Sutter's Fort.

Much of the original material will be used. Those plaster ornaments that can't be put back will be replicated in their original color and design and California will have a spectacular insight to architectural and historical gems of the 19th Century.

See Spot run- but is it safe?

DEAR DR. MILLER: It's very common for people in our town to have their dogs run after them as they ride their bicycles. In addition to traffic dangers, I often see these dogs falling back (trying to stop to rest) but then anxiously trying to catch up. Their masters don't seem to notice that their dogs are exhausted. People seem to think dogs can run forever? — H.H.

DEAR H.H.: In the days of one-speed bicycles and rural pathways, peddling with a pooch wasn't a bad idea. Under the conditions you've described, it's hazardous, unhealthy, and often inhumane. You've noted the prime traffic danger. Even a traffic-wise canine, in a desperate attempt to keep up with its owner, can easily become an automobile victim. Drivers themselves are endangered as they seek to avoid these dogs. In bursting through other dogs' territories, these cruising canines are often attacked. For every one which benefits from this amount of exercise, several suffer physical impairments running from worn out foot pads to worn out hip joints, from hypoclycemia coma (burning up more body sugar than can be supplied) to collapse from exhaustion or overheating in hot weather. The running canine can't keep cool enough to keep going long. Bicycling, then, is beneficial for perhaps most cyclists, but under most circumstances today, a canine companion shouldn't be bringing up the rear.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Since we happen to have a pair of parakeets already, we're going to go ahead and breed them this year so we can make a little money on them. What's the best way to go about it? — D.L.

DEAR D.L.: Propagation for profit? Whether the pets in question are parakeets, pussycats, pooches or practically any others, the odds are 99 to 1 against it. If you like long shots, you can reduce the odds somewhat by learning as much as possible about parakeet production before pushing your pair into it. Ideally, your birds should already be in the pink of condition (a prime prerequisite) and be at least pondering the prospects of a passionate performance by now. It's an exercise in futility, and can even be dangerous, to try breeding birds who are not in top physical condition. A nest box is needed only if special feeding and exercise requirements have been met over the last several months. Even budgies who might make it in the mating game perform poorly as parents without such preparation.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Our cat has a very strange-looking tail. He broke it in the middle once it healed very crooked. If that was rebroken and reset, would it heal straight? — F.K.

DEAR F.K.: There is considerable risk that it wouldn't heal at all the second time. The first time the fractured tail frequently fails to heal because of poor circulation beyond the fracture. This complication would be even more likely the second time around.

For Wednesday, April 28

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be as tolerant and patient with loved ones and your family today as you will be with persons who mean a great deal less to you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't let a misunderstanding that should have been long-forgotten affect the way you'll deal with an old friend today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be content with what you have now. Don't be too concerned that another has more. The grass really isn't that much greener in her back yeard.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Too many self-doubts today will limit your chances of success. Don't write yourself off before even trying.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Usually you're quite optimistic. Today, you're likely to be overly impressed by negatives.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Avoid a friend who is always willing to share what you have, but never what's hers. She could really turn you off today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll do well today as long as you don't run into serious opposition. Should things get tough you're apt to look for an easy out.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't ask someone to do something today that you'd refuse to do yourself. You'll get the same answer you'd give.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're better at managing your own affairs today than you will be at manipulating others. Mind your own business.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It will be difficult to keep peace at home today if either you or your mate bring up and old issue on which you're worlds apart.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Physical tasks shouldn't cause you too many problems today, but mental ones could. Take care with the mind bogglers!

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Unruly youngsters could easily push your patience beyond its endurance today. Deal with them firmly, but not with too heavy a hand.

Your Birthday April 28

This coming year you will not be easily discouraged should you meet obstacles to your goals. This attitude will eventually be your ticket to success.

Ann Landers

Youngsters stretching their luck

Dear Ann Landers: I am 16, my boyfriend is 17. There is nobody we can trust with our problem but you.

We are very much in love and have been since Christmas. Last February we started to have sex. We will not stop, so don't suggest it. We see nothing wrong with what we are doing, so long as we are faithful to each other.

The problem is as follows: We don't use protection because it doesn't feel natural. Also, it makes our love seem cheap, like it is just for fun. I'm afraid to take the Pill because of so much cancer in my mother's family. We are too young to get married and besides our parents wouldn't let us. Please don't suggest we talk to the school counselor. She is my aunt. We realize that what we are doing could lead to pregnancy. We don't want to have a baby. It would louse us up and get us in trouble with our families. (We are both Baptists.) Please give us some help. — In Love In Kentucky

Dear I.L.: If you don't go to a doctor and settle on some form of protection you are bound to get pregnant sooner or later.

So far you've been plain lucky. Make an appointment at once — and I mean today.

Dear Ann Landers: We need urgent advice on what to do about swindlers who send trinkets of all sorts in the mail from every state in the union and every country on the map. It seems everyone is begging for money.

What can people do when they receive merchandise and instructions to "send an offering to such-and-such a place because people are starving and dying of disease"? They make you feel guilty if you don't send something.

Then there are the religious preachers on TV, who keep asking folks to send for Bibles and what-have-you. They promise peace of mind and a place in heaven. Nobody wants to be left out, so again we are forced to send in a check.

Please, Ann, tell us how to get off this merry-go-round. — One Of Millions

Dear One: If you don't get ON the merry-go-round you won't have to worry about getting off.

First, throw the trinkets in the garbage can. You are under no obligation to return anything you did not send for. In too many cases, $49 is going into some promoter's pocket for every dollar that goes to the needy.

As for the religious preachers on TV who sell Bibles and "salvation," I can tell you that a place in heaven is not for sale. And neither is peace of mind. You are better off to join the church of your choice and be a part of a parish or congregation. There are no short-cuts or free passes to the Pearly Gates.

Dear Ann Landers: "Dublin's" definition of Lace Curtain Irish threw me. I never heard anyone say they were lousy housekeepers who had cobwebs at the windows that looked like lace curtains.

In South Boston, Lace Curtain Irish means rich people who can afford the best, while their poor neighbors stick newspaper through the broken window panes. — A Southie

Dear S.: Let's go back to MY definition: Lace Curtain Irish are people who have fruit in the house when no one is sick.

How much do you know about pot, L.S.D., cocaine, speed, meth, uppers and downers, glue and heroin? Are all these drugs dangerous? Get Ann Landers's new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." Just the thought of Newman

Do you know what Mayva said to me the other day? She said, "You are under stress."

"Why would you say a thing like that?" I asked.

"Because you just dusted the coffee table with a deodorant. Besides, you don't seem to have any energy anymore."

"A lot of people rest between chewing while they eat," I said defensively.

"Ice cream? I'd like to see you get into some kind of a meditation technique. I can't tell you what it's done for me."

"I know what it's done for you," I said. "You're so content you're no fun anymore. A REAL friend, Mayva, is fat when you are fat, depressed when you are depressed, and overdrawn when you are overdrawn. I liked you better when you cried when you returned empties to the recycling center."

"You don't mean that," she said gently. "It's not that I have any fewer problems than you do. I'm just able to handle them better. What would you say if I told you all it takes for peace of mind is a few minutes out of each day sitting in a chair relaxing with your eyes closed?"

"You show me a woman sitting in a chair in the middle of the day with her eyes closed and I'll show you three kids having a peanut butter orgy!"

"Just try it," she pleaded. "Here, just sit in this chair and get comfortable."

"I hear flushing!" I said, gripping the arms of the chair.

"Just put everything out of your mind."

"Listen! Are those marbles in the cold air ducts?"

"It would help if you had a mantra."

"I'm not that cold, but there's probably one in the hall closet."

"No, a mantra is a thought-sound — a word that we use to meditate on and reduce mental activity."

"Do you have one?" I asked. (Mayva nodded.) "Then, maybe I could borrow yours."

"I can't do that," she smiled. "I can't even tell you what my mantra is."

"That's terrific!" I said. "When you were pregnant, I offered to carry the baby for you and you can't even loan me your mantra for a few minutes. It's all right. I'll get my own!"

They tell me they found me in my chair 40 minutes later. The kitchen was a disaster area, the front door was open, there was no hint of dinner, the phone was ringing, and the dog was eating cottage cheese out of an ashtray. They found me rocking back and forth with a smile on may face reciting over and over "Paul Newman . . . Paul Newman . . . Paul Newman . . ."

Dr. Lamb

Blood clot or heart attack?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What's the difference between a heart attack and an embolus? When a person is put on Coumadin does this mean that he has had a heart attack? How can a blood clot go through the heart, enter the lungs and not be called a heart attack? I am talking about the case of my son. I am very worried about him. No one knows where the embolus came from. Can you guess? His legs were minutely examined, and it was stated that many clots originate in the legs but yet there is no sign of them on an examination.

My son has a job and travels in his own car or in airplanes. He has been instructed to exercise every 45 minutes, I presume to get the circulation going in his legs.

He was told that he only needed to take Coumadin for three months and that period is almost up. Yet a friend of his has been on Coumadin for the past 10 years; is that possible?

I lost my dear wife from a heart attack even though she had been taking the same medicine for blood thinning. The doctors restricted my wife's activity very severely, yet the doctors encourage my son to do things such as going out to drive golf balls. Any light you can shed on this would certainly be appreciated.

DEAR READER — Used in the sense of your son's problem, an embolus means a blood clot. It's clear from the rest of your letter that the doctors think that the blood clot or blood clots went to the lungs. Most blood clots of that type do form in the veins in the legs. Your son's doctors are perfectly correct in saying that they can examine the legs and not be able to detect the presence of a clot within one of the deep veins.

The clot that breaks loose from any location follows that blood stream just like a log going down a river. It rides with the blood stream through the right side of the heart. The blood comes out of the heart and goes to the lungs. The clots lodge in the lungs and never get back to the heart.

A heart attack is entirely different. Your wife had an obstruction in one of the arteries to her heart muscle. The similarity is that both can cause chest pains. Since it is important to keep the blood thinned in both cases, it is common to use anti-clotting medicines such as Coumadin in the treatment of both conditions. A clot from the vein in the leg can pass through the right heart into the lungs without causing any damage to the heart at all.

It's wise not to compress the leg veins by prolonged sitting as might occur with prolonged car rides or prolonged airplane rides. That also applies to people who do not have any blood clot formation as yet. Get up and shake those legs around to keep the circulation moving. It helps prevent all kinds of problems.

Obesity also appears to increase the chances of blood clots. For more information on effects of obesity send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 2-7, Obesity: The High Cost of Fat. Send a long-stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Invented tights, and the trapeze

Was reported that tights were invented by a circus acrobat who had to perform in his longhandled underwear because his costume didn't show up on time from the cleaners. That happened, true enough. In this country. But tights were invented elsewhere, too. In France, specifically. By the same fellow who invented the trapeze. Jules Leotard, namely.

Q. "Does anybody in this country ever die anymore of the bubonic plague?"

A. About once a year some patient dies. Usually in the Southwest or along the Pacific Coast.

Victor Mollo does not show the East-West hands when he is discussing declarer play. If you can do so, don't look at them until you have planned your play.

West starts out by leading out the ace, king and queen of clubs. The unthinking player ruffs and starts after trumps. Now take a look at the East-West cards and see what happens to the unthinking declarer. West has five trumps and the unthinking declarer will have the opportunity to complain about bad luck.

How about the thinking declarer. He will say to himself that trumps have been known to break 5-0 and that when he can take out insurance against such a break he should do so. Particularly since he really doesn't have to pay a premium for that insurance.

He has to lose a diamond some time. Why not right away. So he throws a diamond on the third club and can't be beaten at his four-spade contract.

Ask the Jacobys

We receive so many questions about counting honors that we are going to repeat the answer today.

If a player in a rubber bridge game holds four of the five trump honors his side receives an honor bonus of 100 points. If he holds all five trump honors or all four aces in notrump his side receives a 150-point bonus.

The honor bonus is awarded irrespective of whether the holder is declarer dummy or a defender.

John gets big hand, big win

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — Tommy John's courageous comeback is almost complete.

The Dodgers' stylish lefthander enjoyed his first victory in almost two years Monday night and he certainly didn't pick on any weaklings in beating the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-1.

John, who pitched in his first game at Dodger Stadium since July 17, 1974, received a big hand from the 23,374 fans when he went to the mound and earned a standing ovation when he departed in the eighth after the Bucs scored their only run.

For a man who many felt would never appear on a mound again after undergoing elbow surgery in 1974, John has turned in three outstanding starting performances. In his last start, the Dodgers eventually lost, 1-0, to Houston in a 16-inning marathon.

"It made me feel real great," John said about his first victory since July 7, 1974. "My big thing was simply to remember not to hurry too much. That was the problem in the second inning. I was rushing myself. But Fergie (catcher Joe Ferguson) has been catching me five years and he got me straightened out."

It was a typical Tommy John performance. The 32-year-old southpaw didn't record any strikeouts but he did get the Pirates on 11 ground outs.

"I want the other team to hit it on the ground," John explained. "I learned that from Eddie Stanky when I was with the White Sox. Strikeouts are an overrated statistic. It takes three or four ground ball hits to score a run. I want to stay away from fly balls."

Ground balls also led to a pair of double plays when the Pirates had their biggest opportunities of scoring.

John got into trouble in the second inning when Richie Zisk singled but was erased when Dave Parker hit into a double play. It was fortunate since John walked Richie Hebner and Duffy Dyer back to-back and losing pitcher Doc Medich beat out an infield single to load the bases. However, John got Frank Taveras on an infield out — what else? — to get out of it.

Al Oliver and Willie Stargell opened the sixth with back-to-back singles but John got Zisk to hit into a double play to wipe out that threat.

Pittsburgh finally scored in the eighth when Taveras singled and Rennie Stennett doubled. Because of a fan touching the ball, Stennett's hit was ruled a ground rule double with Taveras stopped at third but the umpires decided to let him score after much deliberation ruling that Taveras would have scored except for the interference.

Manager Walt Alston used the opportunity to take John out of the game and bring in Mike Marshall, the workhorse of the bullpen. Marshall responded to retire the final six batters of the game in order.

John never had to worry about the lead.

The Dodgers knocked out Medich, the former Yankee, with three runs in the first inning and one apiece in the second and third to give John plenty of breathing room with an early 5-0 cushion.

Bill Buckner opened the game with a single and stolen base. After Medich retired the next two batters, Steve Garvey doubled to right to drive in the first run and Ron Cey followed with his first home run of the season to quickly make it 3-0.

Buckner's single drive in Bill Russell in the second and Henry Cruz' hit brought in Garvey, who had his second double, in the third.

L.A. added two insurance tallies in the bottom of the eighth for the final margin.

The Dodgers matched their season high with 12 hits, three by Buckner and two each by Cey, Garvey and Russell, who has six hits in the last nine at-bats to raise his batting average to .313.

"I never had any qualms about my being able to pitch again," John said about his year away from the mound. "The main thing was getting my timing back. But it is satisfying to beat a club like Pittsburgh. Those guys are really something at the plate."

John also appreciated the ovation.

"It was really something," he said. "I felt like I wanted to wave my hat . . . I think there ought to be more things like (John) Montefusco does. Fans like to see some emotion."

DODGER DATA — Lefthander Doug Rau (2-0) will face Bruce Kison (1-1) tonight followed by Burt Hooton (0-2) against Jerry Reuss (2-1) Wednesday night.

Dusty Baker rested again Monday because of a pulled hamstring while catcher Ellie Rodriguez was missing because of the flu.

Dodger relief pitchers have allowed only four earned runs in the last 23 2/3 innings of work.

JC coaching casualties grow

Among the junior college ranks it's getting to the point where you need a scorecard to telling who's coaching what.

Another wave of casualties occurred recently among the Southern California JC coaches. Latest coaches to resign or get the axe include San Bernardino Valley College head football coach Harold Beach, Orange Coast head basketball coach Herb Livsey and Orange Coast head baseball coach Barry Wallace.

Beach was fired by the SBVC Board of Trustees in the latest in a series of moves on that campus regarding the floundering Indian athletic program. He had been head grid coach for three years at the school. SBVC is currently seeking a successor.

Livsey resigned after seven unproductive years as cage mentor at OCC. His Pirate teams posted a 74-122 mark during that time, with Livsey's most successful season being 1972-73 when OCC was 22-8. The Pirates appeared to have good talent this past hardwood season, but obviously were lacking in team unity and fundamentals, so Livsey's stepping down is not exactly a surprise in South Coast Conference circles.

Nor is Wallace's resignation as OCC baseball coach. Wallace had been at the Costa Mesa campus for seven years, and the Pirates posted only two winning seasons (17-16 in 1972 and 16-15 in 1973) during that time. OCC's lack of a winter baseball program has hurt the Pirates quite a bit in the super-tough South Coast conference.

Like the Pirate hoop squad, the OCC baseballers appear to have some good talent but lack of a more extensive baseball program has obviously hampered their efforts to be competitive in the SCC.

OCC is taking applications for successors to both Livsey and Wallace.

Local mentors shine

With the game of musical chairs that seems to be constantly going on among the JC coaching ranks, the caliber of the local JC mentors seems to get lost in the shuffle.

The accomplishments of the local baseball programs is especially notable. Chaffey's Howard Lowder is the dean of the area baseball coaches in terms of service, having been head coach of the Panthers since 1966. MSAC's Art Mazmanian has been at the Walnut campus since 1969, while Citrus' Skp Claprood is in his fourth year as head coach of the Owls' baseball fortunes.

Lowder won his 200th game recently, and has his Panthers in the thick of the Mission Conference race again this spring, a familiar position for the Panthers.

Mazmanian is right behind that win total with 180 coaching victories as Mountie mentor in eight years. The Mountie skipper is no stranger to winning, as in 20 years of coaching at the high school, JC and professional level a Mazmanian-tutored team has never had a losing season.

Claprood's record is just as remarkable, as the youthful Owl coach recently rang up his 100th career win. Claprood, like Lowder and numerous other valley baseball coaches, is a product of Cal Poly Pomona where he learned his lessons under Bronco skipper John Scolinos.

He has obviously learned them well, for the Owls won the M.C. last year and finished as runnerup in the state JC playoffs. This season Citrus is again on top of the Mission standings going into the final rounds of conference activity.

Newlee has tenure

Basketball is where the local JCs really have the "old pros", as Barney Newlee has been at the helm of the Chaffey cage squad for 22 years and Gene Victor has tutored the MSAC cagers for 17 years. Citrus' Neil Edwards has "only" seven years in as head cage mentor for the Owls, so he's the "rookie" of the group.

In football, Owl coach John Strycula is the veteran among the locals, with nine years as head coach at the Azusa campus. MSAC's Mal Eaton has been on the job for six years, while Chaffey's Mike Merandi is the lone first-year man in the group. Merandi will be serving his first year as head coach for the Panthers this fall.

Its good to have that sort of consistency among the local coaching ranks. When I send out letters to them its a lot easier to use their names instead of "to whom it may concern"!

Money can laugh about HR

MILWAUKEE (AP) —Don Money can laugh about it now—sort of.

The Milwaukee Brewers' third baseman still is rankled that what would have been his game winning grand slam home run against the New York Yankees April 10 was nullified because the first base umpire ruled he had called time out prior to the pitch.

So, perhaps it was predictable that as soon as Money's first-inning blast off Frank Tanana had cleared the leftfield wall Monday night, half of the press corps stood up and flashed the time out sign. This time, though, the homer counted, and the three-hit pitching of Jim Colborn and Ed Rodriguez made it stand up for a 1-0 victory over California in the only American League baseball game of the night.

"Listen, when I came up the second time tonight, Jerry Neudecker, the plate umpire, told me he was going to tell me as I crossed the plate after the homer, 'I called time out,'" Money said, chuckling.

"I said, 'The hell with you, Jerry,'" he said. "I've gotten that three or four times now since the real time out thing. It's not so funny, man, you know?"

Tanana, who allowed just one other hit and struck out 12, didn't find it very funny, either. He said he had tried to jam Money, but had thrown the ball three inches too close to the center of the plate.

"He might get that same pitch an inning or two later, but it's not going to be three inches from the corner of the plate again," said Tanana, major league strikeout leader last year with 269 in 257 innings.

"There's nobody alive that can get a home run off me on that pitch on the inside," he said. "It's off his wrists. The most he could do is foul it off. It was just three inches too much toward the middle. Even the way it was, what was it—30 feet fair?"

"If he said he was only three inches off, he was probably right," Money said. "It wasn't that bad a pitch for him. It was an inside fast ball, and maybe he figured I would be looking for something outside. He didn't put it quite where he wanted but, heck, he struck me out the next time. He's got the best stuff of any left-hander in the league."

Colborn, who has allowed just one earned run and 13 hits in 22 innings, carried a three-hitter into the ninth inning and had permitted only two Angel runners to reach scoring position.

But he issued a leadoff walk to Andy Etchebarren in the ninth, and Jerry Remy's sacrifice put the tying run on second base. After a walk to Bobby Bonds, Rodriguez relieved and recorded his fifth save by inducing Bill Melton to bounce into a game ending double play.

"We've got seven wins and Eddie's got five saves. That's some kind of pitching," Brewer Manager Alex Grammas said. "As long as he gets them out, I'm not afraid to go to him."

National League says no again

CHICAGO (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said he's disappointed, but the American League couldn't be happier that the National League voted down expansion into Toronto and Washington, D.C., in 1977.

"Well, I guess it's back in my lap," Kuhn said Monday after the National League voted 7 to 5 to reject a proposal to move into the two cities.

Earlier this month, Kuhn instructed the American League, which approved expansion into Toronto on March 29, to include a plan to provide Washington with baseball or lose the right to place a team in the Canadian city to the NL. When the American League owners failed to come up with a plan acceptable to Kuhn, he gave the National League two weeks to consider expansion into the two cities.

"I'm extremely disappointed. My efforts to provide baseball for Washington will continue," said Kuhn, who reportedly has received pressure from Congress to return baseball to the nation's capital after a five-year absence.

Kuhn said that now he is not certain what route he will take to restore baseball in Washington. "At this point, I don't want to try to answer that question precisely," he said.

"I will be talking to the members of the congressional committee and the members of my own executive council...and, after we get through that process, I will have something further to say about what the next step might be."

Meanwhile, AL President Lee MacPhail clearly was thrilled by the NL vote to leave the field open to his league.

"That is tree-mendous ! Great news," he said.

The National League took a similar expansion vote, but only for Toronto, on the same day the American League approved expansion into the Canadian city. On that date, the National League owners rejected the expansion proposal 10-2 with Cincinnati and Philadelphia casting dissenting votes.

National League President Chub Feeney, who announced Monday's 7-5 vote, did not identify the three clubs which shifted positions.

Marshall hears boos from fans

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — Mike Marshall hears the boos from the Dodger Stadium fans and he doesn't like it.

"I have great sympathy for those who have to live with people who boo," Marshall said after he retired six straight Pirates to save Tommy John's first victory in nearly two years Monday night.

Marshall has been the target of the boobirds for his outspoken views of almost everything plus his refusal to conform to the standards fans expect from their heroes.

"When I hear those boos, I am disappointed with my fellow man," he continued. "If you're really a Dodger fan, you would accomplish a lot more with honey rather than vinegar. It's really a shame because fans should come out and enjoy the game."

Marshall said the booing doesn't affect his pitching.

"It won't distract me, I assure you that," he stated. "It's better for the entire club not to have to listen to that bleep."

Marshall then explained what a fan's role is. "They should enjoy the game and support both teams and support the home club. If they don't think the team is giving its best effort, it's certainly their right not to show up. I won't ever be accused of that, I promise you."

The Michigan State professor did praise the L.A. hockey fans for the way they cheered on the Kings.

"I'm pleased with the hockey crowd," he said. "They've proven themselves to be real sports fans."

Marshall also feels he is off to a great start this season despite a 3.37 earned run average.

"I'm very pleased with my start because typically, I'm a slow starter," the relief ace said. "Statistics don't tell the story. Four of my earned runs scored in San Francisco because of the wind and I had an earned run charged against me here on a hit which should have been scored an error."

The scorekeeping at Dodger Stadium doesn't please Marshall.

"It's bleep," he said, "and the players don't appreciate it because the statistics mean dollars at the end of the year. Whoever is doing the scoring is sure having trouble."

Local baseball coaches pass milestones

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

Three local college coaches who reached milestones in recent action were honored at the weekly Progress Bulletin luncheon at the Castaway Restaurant Monday.

Cal Poly's John Scolinos won his 700th game in a 27-year coaching career last Friday, while Chaffey's Howard Lowder reached the 200-win level in action last week. La Verne's Ben Hines also hit a milestone recently as his Leos won their 400th game under his guidance.

Honored as High School Player of the Week at the luncheon was Butch Long of Walnut High. Winning the College Player of the Week award was Bruce MacPherson of Cal Poly, while Bob Veselic nabbed the JC award.

Long, MacPherson and Veselic are all pitchers, as hurlers continued to dominate the weekly player awards.

Righthander Long pitched Walnut into a share of first place in the Hacienda League last Friday by blanking Bonita on only two hits. It was the Mustang senior's fourth win in five league outings.

MacPherson picked up two complete-game victories for the Broncos last week. He downed U. San Diego 4-2 on Monday and came back to beat Cal Poly SLO 5-4 in ten innings on Friday.

Veselic pitched a four-hitter and fanned nine as the Mounties downed South Coast Conference foe San Diego Mesa 5-1 last Tuesday. It was Veselic's fifth straight win.

Quoting the coaches:

BEN HINES, La Verne — "We pretty much wrapped up our conference with the win over Claremont-Mudd last Tuesday. We still have some conference games left but we feel realistically that we're in there as far as the conference title is concerned. We now hope to gain some momentum for the playoffs.

"We swung the bats real well against Claremont, which was a surprise as we were coming off a nine-day layoff. We beat Caltech twice on Saturday, there is not much to be said about that. They are not a real good ball club. Jim Vallone didn't pitch that well last week but beat both Claremont and Caltech, he's now won five straight.

"We have Caltech on Tuesday, a doubleheader at Chapman on Wednesday and two at Redlands on Saturday. We will use five pitchers to get them some work, Paul McGuire will go Tuesday, Fernie Tarin and Joe McLaughlin on Wednesday and Vallone and Tim Kelly on Saturday."

BILL ARCE, Claremont-Mudd — "The La Verne loss was most disappointing, that makes them the conference champs as far as I'm concerned. Our pitching is in trouble, Norm Richards has not pitched in a while due to some soreness in his shoulder, we really don't know what's wrong with him.

"We have a makeup game Thursday at UC Riverside and a doubleheader on Saturday vs. Caltech. It's going to be tough to get motivated for Caltech, but we need those wins to stay in second in the league. We are very pleased with the play of Wyn Moore, who is hitting .491 in conference. Andy Roundtree has also done an excellent job and is hitting .404 in conference."

JOHN SCOLINOS, Cal Poly — "We had a good week as we won five of six games. We beat Cal Poly SLO two out of three in conference so we are right in the running for the CCAA title.

"MacPherson pitched very well for us, and Ken Hellyer had a big week with the bat as he had 10 hits in 22 at bats and drove in five runs. He's hitting .384 on the year now.

"We have a game Tuesday night at UCLA, Tom Rosenstein will start that one for us. We then have a big three-game series with UC Riverside starting Friday. MacPherson will pitch the Friday game and we'll come back with Mike Regus and Rick Schwenn."

HOWARD LOWDER, Chaffey — "we won two of three last week and really should have won the third game. We left 13 men on base against Saddleback and lost 7-4. We still are not swinging the bat like we should, we have four of our sophomores hitting around .200 and our team batting average is only .268. We normally hit around .300 as a team, so I'm kind of puzzled as to what the problem is.

"We have our biggest week of the season this week, as we have three big games at home. We play Citrus on Tuesday and Saturday and San Diego City on Thursday. Kenny Shea will start for us on Tuesday, and probably come back again on Saturday. I'm not sure who will go on Thursday. We're a tough club, we'll be in there all the way."

ART MAZMANIAN, MSAC — "Our bubble burst Thursday with a ninth-inning loss to Santa Ana. We lost 4-3 in the ninth on a couple throwing errors, that's a tough way to lose a game. On Saturday we were beaten 3-0 at Grossmont, as their pitcher Steve Baker struck out 10. He has an excellent fast ball, and we just couldn't come through in the clutch.

"We play Cerritos on Tuesday, I'll throw Veselic against them, he's really looking forward to pitching against them again. I'd like to beat them, it won't make much difference in our conference but it would give our guys a lot of personal satisfaction. We play East L.A. on Thursday in a makeup game, and then have Fullerton at our place on Saturday. I'll give John VanderWende a start on Thursday, and go with Kevin Chapman on Saturday."

TERRY MURPHY, Walnut High — "We're in first now in the Hacienda League and if we play our type of ball we can finish up there. We have been getting excellent pitching from Long and Bob Cordova as we have only had one inning of relief pitching in our 11 league games.

"We have developed a lot of poise since we beat Royal Oak 1-0 and have played well since then. We finish up with games with San Dimas, Royal Oak and Alta Loma which is a tough schedule but we are confident we can beat those teams."

Poly 9th in baseball rankings

Cal Poly Pomona, rebounding from a slow start this year, has vaulted to the number nine spot on the Collegiate Baseball NCAA Division II poll.

The Broncos (27-24-1) figure to move up even further on the next Division II poll as they bumped off second-ranked U. San Diego twice last week. Other Southern California schools ranked in the top ten include Chapman (ranked fifth) and Cal State Northridge (ranked eighth). Rollins College of Florida, with a 23-9 season mark, is the top-ranked Division II school.

UC Riverside, the Broncos' foe this weekend, is ranked 13th on the poll.

Claremont-Mudd drew support in the Collegiate Baseball Division III rankings. The Stags were tabbed sixth in that grouping, the lone California school to make the top ten. Whittier was ranked 12th.

La Verne could do no better than 14th on the Collegiate Baseball's NAIA rankings. Lewis University was the top-ranked NAIA team, while Marietta College of Ohio nabbed the top-spot in the NCAA Division III poll.

Here are the NCAA Division I national rankings, as compiled by Collegiate Baseball:
1. Arizona State (41-7)
2. Florida State (25-7)
3. Arizona (32-13)
4. Memphis State (23-4)

7. Jacksonville (30-8)
8. Miami (Fla.) (29-6)
9. Minnesota (12-3)
10. South Carolina (21-8)

Pistons, Bullets rise to occasion

By Associated Press

Poise. The ability to perform under pressure, to rise to the occasion when the game moves up a notch in tempo and intensity. It's what playoff basketball is all about.

The Detroit Pistons, given little chance against mighty Golden State, squandered most of a 16-point lead but held on to beat the defending champion Warriors 106-102 at Detroit Monday night, evening their National Basketball Association playoff series at 2-2.

"We showed a lot of poise when they had us on the ropes," crowed Pistons Coach Herb Brown. "A lot of people say we can't win a pressure game. Well, this was a pressure game if there ever was one. In the last month and a half we've won a lot of pressure games."

In another best-of-seven quarter-final series, the Washington Bullets—beaten in the finals by Golden State last year—barely managed to stay alive. The Bullets wasted a 17-point advantage and had to go into overtime to beat the Cleveland Cavaliers 102-98 at Landover, Md. and even that series at 3-3.

"We didn't lay down and die after we lost that 17-point lead," said a proud Bullets Coach K.C. Jones. "Now that we're in a seventh game, I guess the pressure is on both of us."

Cleveland Coach Bill Fitch is confident his club, in its first playoff ever, will not buckle under the winner-take-all pressure of Thursday's seventh game, for which the Cavs will have the homecourt advantage.

"I don't think pressure will be the deciding factor," said Fitch. "Our big pressure game was the second game, when after losing the opener in Cleveland we came back to even the series by winning here at Landover. If we were going to crumble, that would have been the time for it."

Phoenix star Paul Westphal, whose team holds a 3-2 edge and can wrap up its quarterfinal series against Seattle by winning tonight's game in Phoenix, is one player who has managed to ignore the playoff pressure.

After the Suns lost Game Five on Sunday, Westphal said, "All this means is that we have to play them another game. The better team is going to win this series. If they should happen to beat us two more times, they deserve it."

Seattle forward Bruce Seals, who came up with 28 points and 11 rebounds in his best game of the series, is another cool customer.

"I was pretty loose," he said. "I didn't feel there was too much pressure. Of course, if we had lost, there was no tomorrow."

In the remaining quarterfinal series, the Boston Celtics hope to have captain John Havlicek back from a foot injury for the fourth game of their set against the Buffalo Braves in Buffalo Wednesday. Boston leads the series 2-1.

"It's improved dramatically in the last couple of days," said Havlicek of his injured foot.

Tuesday night's games were remarkably similar in that both winning teams failed to hold big leads, but managed to win anyway.

Washington raced ahead by 17 points in the second period, but Cleveland closed to within 49-44 at the half. A basket by the Cavs' Jim Cleamons with 2:02 to play in regulation tied the score 88-88, then the two teams traded misses, Wes Unseld of Washington finally failing on a layup with three seconds to play.

The Bullets then reeled off the first six points of the overtime and Cleveland never caught up. A three-point play by Elvin Hayes and two free throws by Phil Chenier in the final minute clinched the verdict.

Hayes finished with 28 points, 13 rebounds and eight blocked shots. Chenier scored 24 points while Unseld had 18 rebounds, eight assists and six points. Austin Carr topped the Cavs with 27 points.

Detroit led by 16 points going into the final period, but the Warriors pulled to within 104-102 and had the ball for a shot at a tie. But Golden State's Phil Smith, who led all scorers with 31 points, missed a shot with seven seconds to go. Detroit's Howard Porter snared the rebound, was fouled and sank two free throws for the final margin.

Center Bob Lanier led the Pistons with 30 points, including 11 in the final period as his team struggled to hang on.

"Now it narrows down to two out of three," said Warriors Coach Al Attles, looking to Game Five in Oakland Wednesday.

Rested Canadiens take on Islanders

By Associated Press

They have played four games in 23 days, so if nothing else, the Montreal Canadiens should be well rested when they open their best-of-seven National Hockey League semifinal playoff series at home against the New York Islanders tonight.

The Philadelphia Flyers, meanwhile, must put their penalty and arrest-strewn seven-game quarter-final series against Toronto out of their minds when they host the Boston Bruins in the first game of the next series that will test their reign as two-time defending Stanley Cup champions.

"I don't think in Boston there will be any discussion of violence," said Flyers Coach Fred Shero, who looked on as four of his players were arrested on various charges in Toronto during a series which saw nearly 500 minutes in penalties called. "You can't win when you take 10 penalties to the other guys' one. I'm satisfied that the fellows learned something about taking cheap penalties."

Despite their inactivity, the Canadiens have learned the same thing—mostly because their semifinal opponents tied a regular season record by scoring 92 goals during power plays, a mark set first by Montreal.

"It's going to be very important for us to stop their power play, and for us to have our power play going," said Montreal center Pete Mahovlich. After the Canadiens went through their final rehearsal for the Islanders, the massive 6-foot-5 pivotman added Monday that the Canadiens also must stop New York defenseman Denis Potvin.

"We can't allow him to control the play the way he does," said Mahovlich. "No matter what way you look at it, Potvin is the one we've got to stop. He's the guy, although they've got a fine all-around team."

But so do the Canadiens, whose free-skating offense is led by the line for which Mahovlich is the center. With Steve Shutt on left wing and 56-goal scorer Guy Lafleur on the left, the trio accounted for 135 goals and 309 points. Other powers on the attack that scored 337 goals in the regular season include youngsters Doug Risebrough, Mario Tremblay and veterans Yvan Cournoyer and Jacques Lemaire.

That complements a defense which had the league's best regular season record with goalie Ken Dryden winning the Vezina Trophy. Big, strong Pierre Bouchard was outstanding during the Canadiens' four-game quarter-final sweep of the Chicago Black Hawks, as were Serge Savard and Guy Lapointe.

The Bruins-Flyers series will be a match of two of the league's strongest physical teams—both of which needed the seven-game limit to oust their quarter-final opponents. The home edge definitely will favor Philadelphia, says Toronto defenseman Borje Salming.

"They play so well at home, almost no one can beat them there," said Salming.

The Bruins, one of two teams to beat the Flyers in Philadelphia during the season, hope to repeat that feat. Conversely, the Flyers have won only twice in 24 games at Boston, including playoffs.

Bill Sharman fulfills dream

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — "As a kid growing up in California," recalled Bill Sharman, "I always wanted to be a major league baseball player, but then things turned out different."

The difference was highlighted Monday when Sharman, former Boston Celtic standout and now coach of the Los Angeles Lakers, was inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame here.

"An important reason I'm here...is that I had a chance to play under Red Auerbach (former Boston coach and now general manager) and with people like Bob Cousy, Bill Russell, Tommy Heinsohn and the Joneses (Sam and K.C.)," Sharman said.

"I just feel very humble, I don't feel very famous. I'm still pinching myself, hoping that it's true."

Cousy, Russell, Heinsohn and the Joneses all played with Sharman during the 1950s.

Sharman led Celtics' scorers from 1955 through 1959, and holds the club record for foul shooting with a .932 average in 1958-59.

Sharman, who played minor league baseball with a Brooklyn Dodgers' farm club, was critical of the "no-cut" contracts being offered players now.

"Sometimes this hurts incentive," he said. "There's no incentive for players to correct their weaknesses. The big salaries are fine, but only after they prove themselves."

Also inducted into the shrine were Tom Gola, standout LaSalle College player who later turned pro; Edward "Moose" Krause of Notre Dame, and Harry Litwack, retired Temple University coach.

At a banquet Monday night, Hank Iba, who coached the last three U.S. Olympic basketball teams, said "dunking" has hurt the game of basketball.

"It takes away the team aspect and turns the game into a circus starring the big man who dunks the ball," said the former Oklahoma State coach.

He also said the Soviet Union will be very strong in basketball this year at Montreal.

Iba was presented the John W. Bunn Award for service to basketball.

Pep, UCLA in finals

MISSION, Kan. (AP) — Pepperdine College and Ohio State University accepted invitations Monday to play in this weekend's National Collegiate Athletic Association volleyball championship at Ball State University in Muncie, Ind.

Defending champion UCLA and Springfield, Mass., complete the four-team field for the tournament. UCLA plays Springfield and Pepperdine meets Ohio State Friday night in the semifinals with winners advancing to the finals Saturday night.

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — Purdue University basketball Coach Fred Schaus was listed in satisfactory condition Monday after his left kidney was removed at St. Mary's Hospital.

The 3½-hour operation was to be exploratory, but the kidney was removed after it was found to be full of stones.

Schaus has been at Purdue four years.

MEDFORD, Ore. (AP) — It will be "Marshall Holman Day" in Medford Thursday so the Southern Oregon community can honor the youngest bowler ever to win the Tournament of Champions.

Holman, 21, is from Medford and will return home for the occasion Thursday. He won the $125,000 Tournament of Champions a week ago in Akron, Ohio, and has been in Oklahoma City for the ABC Masters.

Mayor Ben Fagone declared the special day, which will include a parade in Holman's honor. The young bowler later will receive a key to the city.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gary Matthews, the San Francisco Giants' left fielder who twice hit two home runs in a game, was named the National League's Player of the Week today.

Matthews homered twice in the Giants' 12-11 victory over Atlanta April 20 and repeated the feat in a 7-3 triumph over Pittsburgh Friday night. He hit .400 for the week of April 19-25.

Others considered for the baseball award were Willie Stargell of Pittsburgh, Dick Ruthven of Atlanta, Charlie Hough of Los Angeles and Tito Fuentes of San Diego.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A man who attempted to set fire to an American flag during the Dodgers-Cubs' baseball game here Sunday has been sentenced to pay a $60 fine or spend three days in jail for trespassing.

William Errol Thomas of Old Town, Maine was also placed on 12 months probation Monday by Municipal Court Judge Jack Thomas.

Chicago center fielder Rick Monday prevented Thomas, 37, from igniting the flag after Thomas had dashed onto the field and sprinkled the flag with lighter fluid.

In Chicago, Mayor Richard J. Daley announced that the Cubs' outfielder will be the grand marshal of the Chicago Salute to the American Flag Parade June 12.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Scott Nielson of Washington, who broke his own league record in the hammer throw, and sprinter Bennie Myles of UCLA were named Pacific-8 Conference track and field players of the week Monday.

Nielson set a new hammer throw record at the Mt. San Antonio relays last weekend with throw of 219 feet, 6 inches, bettering his previous mark of 213-4 set earlier this year.

Myles won the 400-meter dash at Mt. San Antonio in a time of 46.1 seconds.

PHOENIX (AP) — The 1976 Fiesta Bowl football game will be played the afternoon of Dec. 25, Christmas Day, bowl president Glenn Hawkins has announced.

The NCAA Extra Events Committee approved the Saturday date and the NCAA Council ratified it, said Hawkins.

Klu has daily challenge

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — On the surface it would seem that being the hitting instructor for the Cincinnati Reds would be a breeze, what with the talents of Pete Rose, Joe Morgan, Johnny Bench and Tony Perez.

Yet, beneath the surface there is a daily challenge to Ted Kluszewski, who spent 14 years in the big leagues learning his trade.

"They must believe in you," says Kluszewski, who had a career batting average of .298 with 279 home runs. "Some do. Some don't. You never know. You go on and give out with the wisdom and hope.

"Sometimes a guy looks like he isn't listening. You worry about him. Then you hear him talking to someone else, a hitter from another team maybe, and he's using the same words you used. Then you know you've gotten through."

Kluszewski uses different approaches for different batters.

"Pete Rose is teachable," he says. "He has only one problem. He gets a little loop in his swing and it slows him up. He does it by dropping his hands. So you have to harp on him about keeping his hands up."

A Johnny Bench, Kluszewski continues, "sometimes doesn't listen. You may talk to someone else about hitting while he's standing nearby. He'll listen in and know you're talking about him. He'll pick it up and think it was his own idea."

One of Kluszewski's biggest major sucesses has been with outfielder Cesar Geronimo. When he came to the Reds from Houston, there were those who were ready to attach a permanent "good-field, no-hit;; label.

"His trouble was that he had a bad swing," says Kluszewski, whose nickname of 'Big Klu' is well-earned because of his 6-foot-2, 260-pound frame. "I don't normally like to change a man's swing. That makes him think when he's hitting and you really can't hit and think at the same time. But we had to rebuild Geronimo's entire swing to make him nit."

His current project is Dave Concepcion, who has spent most of his time in a deep slump.

"His swing just came apart," explains Kluszewski. "It was in two parts—first stride, then swing."

Slowly, now he's coming around, after Kluszewski started him back on the fundamentals of hitting off a batting tee.

Every player needs help with his batting at some time in his career, and Kluszewski admits he was no exception.

He recalls he had to learn to pull the ball because of the way pitchers kept the ball in tight. Pitchers threw inside to Kluszewski as a matter of survival. His normal stroke was through the middle and he hit as vicious a shot through the middle as anyone who ever played the game.

Nuggets, Colonels ready for showdown

DENVER (AP) — "We even lost the fight," said Denver Coach Larry Brown, a picture of dejection after his Nuggets failed to wrap up their American Basketball Association playoff series with the Kentucky Colonels.

Brown referred to a benchclearing skirmish late in the third quarter Sunday that initially involved Denver's Marvin Webster and Kentucky's Jim McDaniels.

"I was holding my guys back, and Maurice Lucas and Ron Thomas ran out and gave cheap shots," Brown said of the Kentucky players. "That doesn't say much for them."

Sunday's 119-115 double-overtime loss represented another playoff disappointment for Brown, whose team had breezed to the ABA regular-season title with a 60-24 record.

The series against Kentucky has been highly competitive and is now squared at 3-3, with the seventh and deciding game scheduled here Wednesday night.

"What can I say?" Brown said. "We played our hearts out and have nothing to show for it."

The winner of Wednesday's game meets New York in the best-of-seven championship series. The Nets defeated San Antonio 121-114 Saturday to win that series 4-3.

If Denver is to play the Nets, they'll have to contain Kentucky guard Bird Averitt, who tossed in 34 points Sunday and has been a factor in each Colonel victory despite being hampered with tonsolitis and accompanying high temperature and nausea.

"Bird is our catalyst," said Kentucky Coach Hube Brown. "That rascal has meant so much to us in the series. Without him, we've suffered."

There was some concern toward the end of Sunday's game that Averitt might have to miss the finale. He pulled up lame with a slight achilles tendon injury, but the Colonels' team physician said he thought the rest until Wednesday would be sufficient for Averitt to return to action.

"If Bird is unable to play Wednesday, then somebody else will have to accept the responsibility," said Brown. "It should be a great game. Whichever team wins, it is going to deserve it."

Averitt's performance Sunday offset an equally brilliant shooting effort by Denver's Ralph Simpson, who scored 35 points. Simpson's basket gave Denver a 97-93 lead with 1:30 left in regulation, but Averitt then drilled a pair of jumpers to force the game into overtime.

Averitt canned three straight shots in the first extra session, but Simpson tied it at 107-107 with 28 seconds left. Averitt blew open the second overtime with three more baskets tht gave the Colonels a six-point lead they didn't relinquish.

Kentucky forward Wil Jones iced the victory with a pair of key plays in the final minute. He stole an inbounds pass from Denver's David Thompson, and later used the full 24 seconds on the shot clock before hitting the Colonels' final basket with four seconds to play.

The Nuggets are happy to return home for the seventh game. But, as center Dan Issel said, "If we can't beat them on our home court, then we deserve to lose this series."

NEIGHBORHOOD HOME BEAUTIFUL CONTEST

To give recognition to those residents who have contributed so much to the beauty of Pomona by the care they have taken of the outside appearance of their property, Pomona Beautiful announces an award program.

There are two parts to this contest: recognition for those who have maintained high standards of care of their property during the past year or more, and also recognition for those who have recently fixed up and improved a property.

Certificates of recognition will be presented to those winning in each neighborhood. A few of the most outstanding homes will be designated as Home of the Week. Entries must be received by May 10, 1976.
